Too Much for Our Whistle

The story is told of Ben Franklin who found himself one day as a boy with a pocketful of pennies. At the store he was so fascinated by the sound of a certain whistle that he laid all the pennies on the counter. Not until later did he realize that he had paid far too much for his whistle.

Edward W. Greenfield, in "Pause for Reflection," points out that the liberty to buy and sell in the open market at whatever price we can get or are willing to give, is, of course, a priceless heritage of competitive free enterprise. If we don't like the price, we can go elsewhere. Yet, foolishly, like Franklin, many of us indeed, "pay too much for our whistle."

He cautions that we do that not simply in money. Our worst bargains are at a deeper level. "For instance, financial success at the price of integrity and principle, a gay escapade at the price of happiness at home, a begged favor at the cost of independence and self-respect, the victory of gaining an advantage at the cost of the respect of our friends.

"And then that rash of bad bargaining in which America is engaged: the selling of freedom for security, fiscal solvency for political expediency, and the philosophy of 'peace at any price.' "

We must agree with him. It's time to start asking, "Are we paying too much for our whistle?"

4-Hour Interruption In Electric Power Scheduled May 5th

An interruption in the electric power service in order to make improvements to the distribution system, was scheduled by West Maryland Power company officials to take place next Thursday, May 5, from 12 o'clock noon until 4 p. m.

Almost all localities in the area are affected including Oakland, Mt. Lake Park, Herrington Manor, Underwood, Crellin, Hutton, Loch Lyon, Steyer, Meadow Mountain, White Church, Boiling Spring, Pleasant Valley, Altamont, Beckman Peninsula, Sand Flat, Deer Park, Swanton, Bethlehem Settlement, Tasker's Corner, Green Glade, and Harvey's Peninsula.

The project, according to H. E. Hupp, district manager, involves energizing a huge 2500 KVA three-phase transformer, which will double the present capacity of the Oakland sub-station. The new unit was unloaded and set in place in late February.

Manager Hupp said the work was necessary to adequately serve the growing electrical demands of customers in the Oakland area.

The present sub-station was constructed and put into service in October, 1957, as the initial step in the over-all program. He said a third phase to provide additional capacity along sections of the system was now on the drawing boards.

The actual connection of the new facilities is planned for 12 o'clock noon. The work will require about four hours to complete.

In case weather will not permit the interruption it will be done the following Thursday, May 12, at the same time.

Improvements Are Slated For Many State Park Areas

$35,000 Is Earmarked For Deep Creek Lake State Park

Nearly $200,000 from the General Construction Loan of 1960 has been earmarked for capital improvement and maintenance projects in the state forests and parks of the four-county Western Maryland district, according to assistant state forester, William H. Johnson.

Out of this amount $190,000 is for six capital improvement projects and $8,290 for some 14 different maintenance jobs.

Biggest capital improvement figure is $75,000 for the South Mountain-Catoctin watershed conservation area in Frederick county. This amount is for land acquisition and improvements for water conservation purposes under provisions of Public Law 566.

Then there is $35,000 earmarked for Deep Creek Lake State park. Out of this, $25,000 will be used for continued beach development and a concession building, and the other $10,000 for land.

The Swallow Falls recreation area is budgeted for $27,500 for an extension of camping area facilities, two wash houses, road extension and parking pull-offs, extension of water lines.

Listed among the maintenance projects totaling $8,290 are improvements to the superintendent's residence at Green Ridge, Allegany county; repair of roads and parking areas at Swallow Falls, New Germany and Herrington Manor, in this county; wiring work at Herrington Manor; repair and refinish floors in the kitchens and bathrooms of cabins at New Germany, reroofing a pavilion at Big Run, in Savage river forest, this county; and cabin repairs at New Germany.

Emphasizes Need Of Keeping GOP In Top Position

"America is still number one and the Republicans are the ones who can best keep her in that position," declared U. S. Senator John Marshall Butler last Thursday night at the Republican Women's club dinner in Southern High school cafeteria.

Some two hundred thirty persons from all sections of the county attended the affair, held under joint auspices of the Republican State Central committee.

After a few brief remarks Mrs. Kermit Glotfelty, president, turned the meeting over to Lewis R. Jones, toastmaster. Charles Mathias, Republican candidate for Congress, spoke on the need for Republican representation from this district, and Mrs. Jay Bell entertained with two vocal numbers. Senator Butler was introduced by Glen Beall, Jr., of Frostburg.

Senator Butler admitted that the task of the GOP this year was a difficult one—"telling a happy story.

"It seems to be the age of the negative, of downrating America, of shouting from the rooftops that we are second best, that we are falling behind, that we will never catch up, that we are almost through.

"But despite all the propaganda from all the anxious politicians who want to set in the White House very badly next year, despite all their hand-wringing and wailing before the wall, America is still Number One and the Republicans can best keep her there."

The Senator stressed the importance of electing a Republican Congress to help the next Republican President "fulfill his promises to the American people." It will be up to workers "like you," said Butler, "to remind every voter of the benefits he has enjoyed in the last seven and a half years."

Senator Butler pointed out that

New "Breatholizer" Will Prove Percent Of Intoxication

The State police now have a machine that will prove conclusively whether or not an automobile driver is intoxicated. This machine, known as a "breatholizer", was demonstrated by Corporal Samuel Conrad and Tfc. Robert Henline Monday afternoon in the grand jury room of the Court house before about thirty interested persons.

The machine was explained as a scientific tool to help determine whether an individual is under the influence of liquor. It will protect the innocent as well as convict the guilty, Corporal Conrad explained.

The results of the machine are acceptable as evidence in court at the present time but at present is strictly on a voluntary basis. A person may refuse to have the test applied to him, and if forced to take it, the results cannot be used against him in court.

The law setting up the test was passed in April, 1959, and machines are in use at present only in Baltimore city. The machines cost approximately $600 each and have not been distributed to the counties as yet.

The machines tests the alcohol content in a person's blood and the amount is recorded when a person who has partaken of whiskey, wine or beer, blows into a plastic tube of the machine. The amount of alcoholic content in a person's blood steam, as measured from the person's breath coming from the lungs, is recorded by a galvonometer.

Corporal Conrad explained that when the amount is .05 to .15 it is questionable whether a person is "drunk" but any amount greater than .15 is proof that a person is definitely under the influence of liquor.

Five tests were made Monday afternoon, four of the persons having recently consumed whiskey and beer, and one having consumed nothing but water or coffee. The four came voluntarily to be "guinea pigs" in the test. The results showed one of the persons dangerously close to being intoxicated and his actions prior to the test confirmed the opinion. His reaction was .14. The other three had reactions of .05, .09 and .09. The fifth person who had consumed no alcoholic beverage, got a negative report.

Corporal Conrad emphasized that at least 50 percent of all fatal accidents are caused by persons under the influence of liquor and he said the authorities are constantly striving for enforcement tools which will reduce fatalities materially.

Fire departments are requested to sound their sirens. The alert signal is a long blast of three minutes. The take cover signal is a series of short blasts and after 15 minutes, a three minute long blast will be sounded for the all clear signal.

Files Order For Appeal In Case of Browning's Widow

An order for an appeal from the judgment and verdict rendered in the case of Helen Elizabeth Browning verus Robert E. Browning, was filed with Richard L. Davis, clerk of the Circuit court by Attorney Horace P. Whitworth, on April 19th.

The case will now go before the Maryland Court of Appeals.

An opinion filed by Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley the latter part of March declared that the first Mrs. Richard S. Browning was the legal widow of the late Mr. Browning. The suit to determine this question was brought to the court through the Orphans' Court where a son of the deceased, Robert E. Browning, had qualified as administrator of the estate and the second Mrs. Browning, Mrs. Helen Pratt Shafer Browning, attempted to have the letters revoked and herself appointed.

Records showed that Helen Pratt Shafer married Mr. Browning January 14, 1959, and other records showed that Margaret E. Browning, residing in White Plains, N. Y., married him November 28, 1912, in Spokane, Wash.

There was nothing on record concerning a divorce of Mrs. Margaret Lewis Browning and Richard S. Browning, the judge declared in his opinion.

Judge Fraley concluded that he was of the opinion that there had been a valid marriage between Richard Stabler Browning and Margaret Lewis that had not been dissolved at the time of the marriage to Helen Elizabeth Browning and that at the time of his death Margaret Lewis Browning was his legal wife.

Rain Breaks Heat Wave; Brings Frost

Rain which began early Tuesday morning and continued until Wednesday morning broke the heat wave which had been prevalent for the past few days and also brought on a heavy frost this morning.

Ralph Weber, veteran weather man, said there had been six previous occasions when the thermometer had gone above 84 during April. The hottest day ever recorded here was in August a number of years ago when it reached 101.

Fire Threatens Home

Members of the Deer Park fire department and forestry department personnel were called about 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon to a section of Turkey Neck where a brush fire threatened the lake front home of Earl Zepp.

Deer Park fire officials said members had been busy contacting business men concerning the convention program. Odell O'Brien, committee chairman, said the material would be assembled soon. The convention is being held at Deer Park early in June.

Addition To Store Is Now Being Built

An addition to the H-P stores' building, corner of Second and Green streets, is now under construction.

The addition will be one story in height and runs from the rear of the present store to the alley, some 50 by 75 feet in size. A portion of the new part will be used as additional wareroom space, while the balance will be an addition to the store room. The store will also be air conditioned.

Irvin Feld, owner, said he planned to add a line of home furnishings.

The present warehouse, a frame building located across the alley, will be turn down and the space probably used for a parking lot, to take the place of the area which has just been added to the building.

Completion is expected within the next several weeks.

NEWS FROM THE Ruth Enlow Library

BY EDITH BROCK

Stories written and illustrated by pupils in Miss Friend's room at the Center Street School are on display this week in the young people's room.

Several additions have recently been made to the Library's growing collection of Maryland material. Architecture and history are emphasized in "The County Courthouses of Maryland" and "Buildings of the State of Maryland at Annapolis," both by Morris Radoff, and in "Annapolis Houses, 1700-1775" by Deering Davis. "Everyday Life in Colonial Maryland" by George and Virginia Schaun and "Narratives of Early Maryland" by Clayton Hall will be useful to students and teachers of Maryland history.

Those who are planning to visit historic homes in Maryland during the Maryland House and Garden Tours, May 1 through May 15, will enjoy "Tidewater Maryland Architecture and Gardens" and "Early Manor and Plantation Houses of Maryland" by Henry C. Forman. Illustrated material on Maryland homes is also to be found in the three popular books by Richard Pratt, "Treasury of Early American Homes." Second Treasury of Early American Homes," and "Guide to Early American Homes, South".

More Corn—Less Cob

Southern States Hybrids

See the big healthy ear of corn on the right with the deep kernels and the small, well-filled cob? That's a typical Southern States hybrid ear. Now, compare it with the hybrid on the left. Note the small, shallow kernels and the big cob. You get more corn on less cob with Southern States hybrids. Want further proof? Shell them out and see for yourself. The Southern States hybrid gives you more shelled corn. Remember, a few dozen of these extra kernels per ear makes a big difference in your total yield.

So ask for Southern States hybrids. They grow more corn on less cob . . . and they're doubly guaranteed!

"A VAST DIFFERENCE"

This past week in St. Michael's High School on the Eastern Shore, a young man said to me during a general assembly of the school, "Senator, last year when Mr. Khrushchev was here he said that so far as he could tell there was no difference between the Republican Party and the Democratic Party. Do you agree with him?"

I resisted the temptation to jump on a currently popular bandwagon loaded to the springs with "champions of co-existence" and replied that I did not agree with Khrushchev and had not agreed with the dictator-premier of the Soviet Union since he bullied and manipulated his way to power. While admitting that there were superficial similarities between the two American parties, I insisted that very real and fundamental differences did exist.

First, the Democratic Party is a loose-money party, careless of balanced budgets and fiscal solvency while the Republican Party is a tight-money party, ever cognizant of matching income with outgo. Secondly, I told the boy, in a Senate debate when tempers run high and the legislative seas are rough, the Republican Party more often defends the Constitution while the Democrats attempt to throw it overboard like so much expendable ballast.

I will quickly concede that I gave an absolute answer to a question dealing with a most shifting and variable human institution—government. Of course, there are Republicans who spend freely and regard the Constitution as a piece of yellow paper, while there are Democrats who examine the expenditure of each Federal dollar as though it were their own and hold the Constitution high as the brightest of banners.

Moreover some differences transcend party lines, none more incisively than that of the place of the Constitution in today's world. All of us, Republican, Democrat, Independent, should remember that that our Founding Father spoke of guaranteeing life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. In this year of 1960 too many are suggesting the responsibility of the Federal Government is to guarantee life, liberty and happiness, deleting the word "pursuit." But without pursuit and without incentive, a society sickens and dies. I believe that for most Americans "pursuit" is something we need and believe in for it is the difference between being first and being second.

Emphasizes Need

"Some of the greatest accomplishments of the past eight years occurred during the first two years . . . when we enjoyed majorities in both the House and the Senate." He cited the tax reduction of the 83rd Congress, the enactment of Public Law 480, helping to meet the farm problem, and the amendment of the Atomic Energy Act to permit private participation.

The Senator also touched on the so-called "missile gap," reciting a box score of American and Soviet efforts in space probing.

"Seventeen earth satellites have been launched successfully by the U. S., with eight still in orbit. Only three have been launched by the Russians and all of theirs have plunged to the ground.

"All Soviet instruments are completely silent while five American satellites are sending back valuable information for us and the world.

On the international front, Senator Butler stated that "compromise with Communism is fatal and that the present Administration has demonstrated its awareness of this more than once." In Cuba, added the Senator, "President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Herter have been firm and direct with the Cuban leader, Fidel Castro."

"This is personally gratifying to me for on January 25 of this year I said, "If the present situation continues to deteriorate, the American government may well have to re-examine its policy in Cuba, paying special attention to Teddy Roosevelt's maxim to speak softly and carry a big stick.'

Senator Butler concluded, "We have a priceless heritage and as citizens of this country you must perform your duty to our State and Nation. As the Vice President has said, 'Remember always, politics is the means of keeping our American way of self-government by bringing together the opinions and wishes of people into a unity that becomes a program of the people, for the people and most important—by the people'."

Let's Pay The Ransom'—This past week I introduced in the Senate a bill providing that the U. S. Government reimburse Frederick, Maryland, the $200,000 ransom which the townspeople of Frederick paid Lieutenant General Jubal Early of the Confederacy on July 9, 1864, to prevent the destruction not only of the town but also of a great quantity of Union Army supplies. The town authorities in Frederick had to borrow the money, and for nearly a hundred years Frederick has carried the burden of accumulating interest and installment payments on the principal. The last of the indebtedness was paid off by the City of Frederick in 1951.

General Early, heading a Confederate force of about 10,000 men, had crossed the Potomac into Maryland near Antietam creek a few days previously, and in several skirmishes with Union troops had been victorious. Arriving at Hagerstown, General Early demanded and received a $20,000 ransom to prevent the destruction of the town, and proceeded eastward. At Frederick, he learned of the large quantity of Union supplies stored there. Although he needed supplies, he seemed to need money more, and so he demanded the $200,000 ransom. The authorities of the small town of only 8,000 population met the demand, raising the money by "assessing' on a pro rata basis the banks of Frederick, giving the town's IOU's.

Corporate bonds were issued to cover the IOUs, and the bonded indebtedness was eventually paid off by the city government. I feel that as the ransom was partly to save the Union supplies (estimated to have been worth some $250,000), the United States Government should reimburse the City of Frederick.

Oh yes, the Confederate General lived up to the letter of the agreement. The town and the Union storehouses were spared.

Questions "49" & "50"—Last week we reported the Questionnaire returns— on the 48 yes-or-no questions, that is. Questions "49' and '50' were: "What program or issue, above all others, would you have me support?" and "What program or issue, above all others would you have me oppose?"

Your answers indicate a wide difference of opinion, as well as many shadings of opinion. For instance, while a very large number of you want me to support, above all other issues, increased Social Security benefits, others of you in large number list the broadening of Social Security as the program you want me to oppose above all others. However, you are in general agreement in one important area. You want me to oppose "creeping socialism". You express this in various ways. Some say, "Stop Federal interference in State and local matters'" Others say, "Stop all unnecessary Federal controls!" or "Keep the government out of free enterprise!' Still others say, "Stop unnecessary government spending!' or "Kill the gimme programs'" or "Stick to the President's budget!' — all meaning nearly the same thing. In another area, but possibly closely related, many of you list farm subsidy as the program to oppose first and foremost.

Significance In Questionnaire Answers—The cross section sampling of Maryland opinion showed overwhelming approval of two main points in the Civil Rights Bill, but on the question of whether you'd like to see integration in schools move along faster than at present 63 per cent said no. This enigmatic position for Marylanders is analyzed in an editorial in the Baltimore Sun (of April 16,) the gist of which is that the answers are tied to respective local situations which vary from county to county. Garrett County has no Negro pupils; Allegany already has 100 per cent integration; Washington, Frederick, Baltimore and Montgomery counties are well along the road; in seven Eastern Shore counties and two Southern Maryland counties, there is no integration yet, in four counties there is only token integration. The Sun's conclusion is that "to favor integration but not want it to move faster could be interpreted to mean that the non-segregation of school children is approved, just so long as no Negro children, or a handful at most, enter white schools." It's an interesting interpretation, at any rate.

As for Social Security, I notice that 65 per cent of you are opposed to lowering the retirement age, 65 per cent are opposed to socialized medicine, and 80 per cent favor increasing the allowable outside income. You are 4 to 1 against Federal aid for teachers' salaries, 62 per cent favor Federal policing of TV network commercials, 77 per cent believe that Communism 'within' is a threat. The vote was 3 to 1 against seating Red China in the U. N.

'Patuxent River Valley National Park'—Director of National Park Service Conrad Wirth informs me that his bureau has been studying my proposal to establish a Patuxent River Valley Park as part of the national park system. He agrees with me that a greenbelt park in the Patuxent River Valley should be established as a buffer area between Baltimore and Washington. I feel that such a park is highly important to the Nation's Capital, and that therefore the Federal government has a stake in helping to bring it into being. Planning agencies are now in the process of making thorough studies for a metropolitan-park-and-open-space plan for both Washington and Baltimore. When these studies are completed, it will then be determined what kind of legislation may be required for the establishment of the Patuxent River Valley as a national park.

Wolves In Sheep's Clothing—Communist Party officials last November addressed a letter to the party membership in which they said: "The Khrushchev visit creates new opportunities for the peace forces. . .Attention must be forced on the issue of disarmament. . ." Dimitry Manuilsky, one-time Soviet delegate to the U. N., said in 1931: "We shall begin by launching a most spectacular peace movement. . .The capitalist countries, stupid and decadent, will rejoice to cooperate in their own destruction. . .As soon as their guard is down, we will smash them with a clenched fist. . ."

Our Quiz About Presidents: The Answers—(1) Cleveland; (2) Lincoln; (3) Coolidge; (4) Theodore Roosevelt, or Wilson; (5) Harding; (6) Tyler; (7) Washington; (8) Buchanan; (9) Eisenhower; (10) Theodore Roosevelt; (11) Jefferson; (12) Taft; (13) John Adams; (14) Wilson; (15) William Henry Harrison.

Many Possibilities In A Family Tree—We are pleased as Punch that the lineage of Princess Margaret's husband-to-be has been traced right to the English throne —just 22 generations back. Such tracing opens up a broad highway for millions of uncommon commoners. Any Englishman glancing back 22 generations will see that he would have had 4,194,304 possible ancestors to chose from at that time—because the number doubles each generation back. Bringing this a little closer to home, at the time the overcrowded Mayflower came across 10 generations ago, 1,024 of my direct forebears were living. When I hear someone boast that "one" of his ancestors came over on the Mayflower, I'm sometimes inclined to wonder who his other 1,023 ancestors of that generation were. As for me, I've never seen the advantage of trying to prove that we have ancestors who are better than we are!

Many Students Seek Summer Work

Area employers were urged today to survey their plants, stores and offices to help find jobs for students seeking part-time and full-time summer employment.

Charles Briner, Manager, Oakland office, Department of Employment Security, said high school and college students had begun contacting the Oakland office for job opportunities during the annual school vacation period. "Production slow-downs caused by employees on vacation may be averted by hiring students to fill their positions until their return," Mr. Briner pointed out. "It's a healthy sign for this many youths in our communities to ask for jobs," he said. "They want to be able to pay their own way with their own spending money. Some also want to finance their future education."

He urged area employers with available openings to list them immediately with the Oakland Office. "We can select those applicants who seem most able to meet the requirements of the job, and then arrange an interview with the employer," he said. "The final decision to hire, or not to hire, remains always with the employer." The Oakland office has itinerant offices in Kitzmiller, Grantsville and Friendsville. Employers, however are asked to call Deerfield 4-2183 to list their job vacancies.

Bayard Youth Home

Harold E. Shaffer, Jr., 12 years old, has been discharged from Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland where he was admitted earlier in the month.

The youth severed the main artery to the brain when he fell from the upper part of a bunk bed at his home. Only quick action by hospital attaches saved his life. It was explained that few such cases get to the operating room because of severe bleeding.

The lad regained consciousness after several days and then improved rapidly.

Scouts Elect Officers

The Senior girl scouts of Oakland recently elected officers for the coming year and they include Susan Gibson, president; Patty Sacher, vice-president; Margaret Nally, secretary; Carol Wooters, treasurer; Anne Belle Thomas, publications.

Plans are being made for installation of the new officers. The leaders are endeavoring to arrange a supper at Mont Chateau, at Cheat Lake, near Morgantown, for the event.

The scout troop, known as troop 4, recently received a new troop number, which is 97.

Seed Treatment Protects Seeds

Gardeners who plant vegetable and flower seeds (annuals) should provide protection against seed decay and seedling rots. Rotting of the seedling at the soil surface is also known as damping-off.

Seeds and seedlings are attacked by soil fungi when soils are moist and when temperatures are cool, causing slow growth.

Dr. L. O. Weaver, University of Maryland extension plant pathologist recommends that vegetable growers protect seed against these hazards with chemical seed treatment.

He says chemicals such as Arasan, Semesan, Spergon and captan protect seeds against soil fungi. A combination treatment of fungicide-insecticide is available that provides against soil insect activity. Delsan A. D. Seed Protectant and Seed Guard are examples. The combination treatment has been beneficial for protection of lima beans, snap beans, lima beans, cucurbit crops and sweet corn.

Read and follow the label for amount and method of mixing. Treated seed may be planted immediately or held until favorable planting weather without risk of injury from the treatment. Unused chemicals may be kept in a safe place in a tightly closed container from year to year.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT: Better Health Through Knowledge

Brain Damage

- Caffeine & Sleep
- Chest Pain

Q. Can anything be done for a child who has scar tissue of the brain? Can he learn from books?

A. Specific answers to these questions could be given only by the examining physician who would be able to determine the extent and nature of the brain damage. In general, the brain is something like the battery of your car. If one cell goes bad the entire battery is weakened. Perhaps the lights would burn but there would not be enough power to start the motor. Even though the battery is below par it is still capable of functioning at a reduced level of performance. So too, is the partially damaged brain capable of functioning within limits. The goal should be to develop the remaining mental capacities through patient and helpful instruction.

Q. If I drink a cola beverage during the evening I have trouble sleeping. Is this just "in my head" or do such drinks contain stimulants?

A. The exact composition of various carbonated drinks is a trade secret, but among other things cola drinks contain caffeine. Caffeine is, of course, a stimulant. A 6-oz. cola drink contains about a third as much caffeine as does a cup of reasonably strong coffee.

Q. On several occasions I have had very sharp pain over my heart. It's so severe that I can scarcely breathe. The pain lasts several minutes and then goes away. Could this be heart trouble?

A. Anyone who experiences chest pain should have a complete checkup. Chest pain can be a sign of real trouble although there is a kind of "catch" or sharp pain that is quite harmless. Sometimes a person will be seized with a sharp knifelike chest pain that is made worse by deep breathing. The discomfort may last several minutes. The origin of this type of pain is unknown but it does not seem to be associated with heart trouble. The important thing is to find out whether the chest pain is the harmless variety or due to some condition that requires medical treatment.

We can fill your prescription immediately whether it calls for the newest "miracle drug" or one as ancient as the profession of Pharmacy.

Sen John Marshall Butler

"A VAST DIFFERENCE"

This past week in St. Michael's High School on the Eastern Shore, a young man said to me during a general assembly of the school, "Senator, last year when Mr. Khruschev was here he said that so far as he could tell there was no difference between the Republican Party and the Democratic Party. Do you agree with him?"

I resisted the temptation to jump on a currently popular bandwagon loaded to the springs with "champions of co-existence" and replied that I did not agree with Khrushchev and had not agreed with the dictator-premier of the Soviet Union since he bullied and manipulated his way to power. While admitting that there were superficial similarities between the two American parties, I insisted that very real and fundamental differences did exist.

First, the Democratic Party is a loose-money party, careless of balanced budgets and fiscal solvency while the Republican Party is a tight-money party, ever cognizant of matching income with outgo. Secondly, I told the boy, in a Senate debate when tempers run high and the legislative seas are rough, the Republican Party more often defends the Constitution while the Democrats attempt to throw it overboard like so much expendable ballast.

I will quickly concede that I gave an absolute answer to a question dealing with a most shifting and variable human institution—government. Of course, there are Republicans who spend freely and regard the Constitution as a piece of yellow paper, while there are Democrats who examine the expenditure of each Federal dollar as though it were their own and hold the Constitution high as the brightest of banners

Moreover some differences transcend party lines, none more incisively than that of the place of the Constitution in today's world. All of us, Republican, Democrat, Independent, should remember that that our Founding Father spoke of guaranteeing life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. In this year of 1960 too many are suggesting the responsibility of the Federal Government is to guarantee life, liberty and happiness, deleting the word "pursuit." But without pursuit and without incentive, a society sickens and dies. I believe that for most Americans "pursuit" is something we need and believe in for it is the difference between being first and being second.

"PLEASE, OPERATOR, WHAT TIME IS IT?"

Every five minutes the little boy would call and ask the question . . . "Please, Operator, what time is it?"

But something about the little boy's voice told Operator Lola Caldwell that this was a childish prank. Finally, she asked him to put his mother to the phone.

"She can't come to the telephone," he said. "My little sister swallowed a button this morning, and my mother had to take her to the hospital. And she told me not to dare leave the house till twenty after eight. I looked and looked, and honest, Operator, I don't see any twenty on that clock. And I'm afraid I'll miss my school bus."

"Don't worry, young man," said Mrs. Caldwell. "I'll call you when it's time to leave." At 8:20 she rang and sent the little boy off to meet his bus.

To Lola Caldwell, this was all part of a day's work. Another example of the personal interest telephone people take in their customers. This instinctive desire to help is one of the things that make your telephone service so valuable.

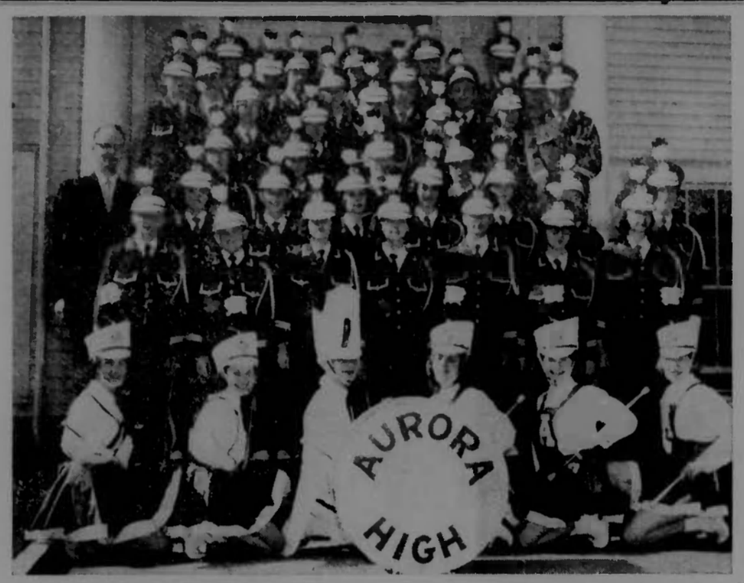
More Corn—Less Cob

with Southern States Hybrids



See the big healthy ear of corn on the right with the deep kernels and the small, well-filled cob? That's a typical Southern States hybrid ear. Now, compare it with the hybrid on the left. Note the small, shallow kernels and the big cob. You get more corn on less cob with Southern States hybrids. Want further proof? Shell them out and see for yourself. The Southern States hybrid gives you more shelled corn. Remember, a few dozen of these extra kernels per ear makes a big difference in your total yield.

So ask for Southern States hybrids. They grow more corn on less cob . . . and they're doubly guaranteed!

Strawberry Fruit Rot Can Be A Costly Disease

A number of mold fungi attack strawberries, cause fruit rots. In past years, these rots have been very costly to growers, according to Dr. L. O. Weaver, University of Maryland Extension plant pathologist. And he notes that humid, cloudy, warm weather sets up favorable conditions for the disease.

Decay of the fruit may occur at any stage in the development of green or ripening berries and may continue after harvest. Soft or heavily fertilized berries are susceptible.

Mulching the berries will prevent the ripening fruit from coming in contact with the soil. This is desirable because fruits, may get dirty or injured by contact with the soil. Also some disease organisms are soil-borne.

Sprays or dusts are helpful in controlling rot of the fruit, Dr. Weaver points out. He says early sprays are important to prevent growth of the fungus on fruit stalks and green berries. The prevention of rot in the first pickings is necessary to save the larger, most profitable fruit and prevent rot in later pickings.

Captan may be used as a spray or dust to reduce fruit rot. As a spray, mix at the rate of 4 pounds of 50 percent wettable captan to 100 gallons of water. When spraying, thoroughly wet the foliage and ground, using 100 gallons of spray to the acre.

A captan dust also may be used. Apply dust in the evening or early morning. Dr. Weaver recommends, using 30 to 40 pounds per acre.

Pictures Out Of The Past

This week's picture, according to the notation on the back shows Claude Brown and Joe White seated on a wagon drawn by a horse by the name of "Loose." The picture was taken in front of D. E. Bolden's furniture store, located to the right of Shartzer's Opera House, now the present Hinebaugh Restaurant. The Bolden furniture store is now the F. A. Smouse market. The photograph was prior to the time of hard paved streets and the sidewalks were really boardwalks. The photo is one of the clearer ones from Mr. Mason's collection. It is contemplated to use another of Mr. Mason's photos on May 26, prior to Memorial Day, because it shows a group of Knights of Pythias and Knights of Columbus on Alder street following a Memorial day parade in 1903. Many of the persons shown are clearly recognized.

The Oak Park Church of the Brethren will be celebrating the Second Anniversary of its church building on Sunday afternoon, May 1 at 2 o'clock.

Rev. Samuel A. Harley, executive secretary of the Southeastern Region of the Church of the Brethren will speak on the subject, "Saved to Serve."

Safety Course For Academy Officers To Be Held Here

Range officers from Charlotte Hall school, Charlotte Hall, Md., will conduct their final stage of the National Rifle Association Hunter Safety course at Swallow Falls again this year. The group of 23 cadets and three instructors will arrive at Swallow Falls Friday afternoon, April 29, and remain in the camping area until Monday morning, May 2.

A similar course was held last year at the same time and William Runyon, one of the officials of the school, said the range officers last week were so impressed with the beautiful scenery, the hospitality of the people and the excellent cooperation of the Forest Rangers in the Oakland area, that they had decided to hold their final stage here again.

Forest rangers under direction of Thomas Thayer, will conduct classes in forestry, conservation, and fire fighting methods, on Saturday morning. In the afternoon the cadets will go through several problems under simulated hunting conditions and Saturday evening they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Cornish of Stone Tavern, for dining and space dancing. The schedule of activities includes a sight seeing tour conducted by Cadets Vaughn Hardesty and Paul Cornish, both of Oakland.

Range officers and instructors in the group include Paul Cornish and Vaughn Hardesty, Oakland; Roberto Martinze, Donainican Republic; Tim Perkins and Ronald Silverstein, Pittsburgh; William Moorehead, Edgewood, Pa.; Hector Torres, Bronx, N. Y.; Robin Seay, Thomas Matthews, William Dommel, Jr., Washington, D. C.; Larry Gott, Richard Tylar, Arlington, Va.; Robert Bowersox, Baltimore; Charles Spencer, Easton; Randolph Price, Denton; Chares Sonn, Towson; Michael Grimes, Glenelg; Robert Harbold, Annapolis; Craig Forthman, Sykesville; David Harrington, Cambridge; and Kenneth Masters, Port Republic. Captains M. W. Runyon and R. E. Wrabley, of the school, will conduct the course.

The Master's Touch

God must love beauty, to use it so lavishly. The Master Artist dapples the soft green leaves with golden sunshine, turns the brook to flowing crystal, and puts a song into Spring itself.

There is beauty in us, too . . . because He put it there. In His sight, none of us are ugly, none of us are forsaken, none of us are "lost."

But sometimes, in the busy process of day-to-day living, we turn blind eyes upon the world's loveliness, and take for granted the gifts which should brighten the hours and years. We need a faith that gives us vision to find again the inner beauty He gave us in the beginning . . . a gift which He never takes away. Let us go, then, to His Church. Let us "enter into His gates with thanksgiving . . . for the Lord is good; His mercy is everlasting; and His Truth endureth forever."

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Pure In Heart

Lesson for May 1, 1960

THERE are different words in different languages for the invisible man—that is, the man nobody sees, but everybody knows he is there. Each of us is an invisible man or woman. It isn't that we walk around with this person under our skins. We are this person. We can call it the "real you" or the "inner self" or the "ego" if we like. We can call it the mind or the spirit. What the Hebrews called it was the "heart." This did not mean emotions, it meant thought, attitudes, the whole inner, unseen life of man, that area of his life in which he is definitely human and not just another and slightly smarter animal.

Dr. Foreman

PURE In Heart

Jesus laid great emphasis on the heart; and so does the entire Bible. If the heart is not right the man is not right. Jesus has a special word for the right kind of heart: "Pure." This does not mean what you might think at a hasty glance. It does not mean—exclusively—a mind free from wrong sex desires, a heart without lust. The word Jesus uses, which is translated "pure," is simply "clean." That is, free from everything useless, everything that beclouds and besmirches life. A heart cluttered up with worries is not a pure heart, as Jesus would see it.

Yet an empty heart is not a pure heart. One of Jesus' more gruesome stories is about a devil who had been cast out of a man's heart. Finding no rest elsewhere, the evil spirit came back to his old home, and found it "empty, swept and garnished." There was room there for himself and seven other devils worse than he was . . . so they all moved in. The empty life is not necessarily a good life.

Pure In HEART

"Purity of heart is to will one thing," it has been said. That may be exaggerated, but it points to a truth. Purity of heart is not the absence of sin, it is the presence of goodness. Purity of heart doesn't consist of not wanting what is bad, it is wanting what is good. Why is it that for every twenty people who will tell you they're all in favor of some good project, you can scarcely find one to take off his coat and help you with it? The difference is in the heart. There is a lot of difference between the good wish (which may not be worth a hill of beans) and real good will. There is a difference between saying politely, "Yes, that is a splendid idea, I approve of it," and getting out to work to make it come true.

Jesus knew the heart's importance. People are not going to do good, or to create it, or to be good, if they don't want to in the first place. Everything that is good has many enemies in this world. So—if we do not desire good with all our heart, our week-day heart as much as our Sunday-go-to-meeting heart, the enemies are going to discourage us, we shall never get going.

No Hypocrites At Home

This is the beginning of family week. Now the family is the hardest of all places to be a successful hypocrite. Jesus had no use whatever for hypocrites—they are perfect illustrations of hearts not pure. What they say they admire they don't admire; what good they do they wish they didn't have to do. They have to be dragged into the paths of righteousness, they don't choose those paths with joyful heart.

It is at home where hypocrites can be seen into, seen through. They can't hide their inner lives. The rest of the family sees into their hearts. Home is a place where hypocrisy withers. It always withers when it can be seen through. Thus a good home itself is a cure for hypocrisy. Family life at its best is a life in which every heart is open to all other hearts, where there is no place, no dark corner, for grudges to hide or for hates to begin. Blessed are the pure in heart, and blest are the homes where they are found.

CHEVROLET
OVER BACK-COUNTRY ROADS AT 45 WITH A SKY-HIGH LOAD OF TIMBER
Chevy middleweight shows the big rigs how it's done!
That's a 6303 medium-duty Chevrolet powered by a 283-cu.-in. V8. But there's sure nothing medium-duty about the load. Mr. J. E. Blankinship, Arkansas logging contractor, says both of his torsion-spring 6303's "move along at 40 to 50 miles per hour with 55,000 pounds gross weight and maintain a 5-trip-a-day schedule with no trouble at all." Figure the money you save when you've got a medium-duty truck that can cover 30,000 back-country miles a year with a high-tonnage load!
We've never seen anything like the amount of praise truck owners are heaping on Chevy's new torsion spring suspension. Owners like the fact the truck handles a whole lot easier, can move faster off the road without beating the driver to death and shaking loose all the sheet metal. They like the idea of extra thousands of miles before trade-in! . . . Drive a '60 Chevy just once. It's a whole new experience.
Chevy middleweight averages 200 miles of back roads a day dogging timber out of the woods and delivering it to the mill at Crossett, Arkansas.

MISS FANNIE B. BLIZZARD

Miss Fannie Belinda Blizzard, of Franklin, died Sunday, April 24, at the Bowser Nursing home in Deer Park where she had been a patient for ten weeks.

She was the daughter of the late Jonathan W. and Margaret R. Vanmeter Blizzard and was a member of the First Assembly of God church in Westernport.

She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Blanche Custer Barton; Mrs. Ida Dawson, Lonaconing; two brothers, Enoch Blizzard, Keyser, and Rev. E. W. Blizzard, pastor of the Full Gospel church, Deer Park, and a half-brother, Elijah Vanmeter, Keyser.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock from the Boal Funeral home in Westernport with Rev. Newton Chase, pastor of the First Assembly of God church, officiating. Interment was in Philos cemetery.

Game Is Released

Wardens and Game management personnel of the Game and Inland Fish commission in early April released 520 wild turkeys in six counties, including Garrett. A high percentage of the birds were hens and are expected to produce a crop of birds for 1960. Reports have shown the presence of many birds carried over in Western Maryland in spite of the severe winter.

In late March 750 purchased adult ringnecked pheasants were released in the northern sections of the county bordering the Maryland-Pennsylvania line.

Southern Wins 4th Contest on Tuesday

Southern High school remained in the running for the Potomac Valley Conference baseball crown by winning its game with Elk Garden on Tuesday. It was the fourth victory for the Highlanders against no defeats.

Dick Travis' team downed Elk Garden on the latter's field by the score of 8 to 3 behind the 6-hit pitching of Jerry Wine who fanned eight batsmen.

The third victory of the season was won Monday when it turned back Fort Ashby high school 12 to 1 at Oakland.

The win was the second for Sam Glotfelty who pitched six innings, yielded only two hits and struck out six batters. The Highlanders picked the offerings of Adams and Linn for eight safeties, including a two-base wallop by Dick Stuck and a triple by Tom Spiker.

Playing for the Highlanders are Wine, Glotfelty, Stuck, Ron Colaw, Terry Colaw, Spiker, Perrando, Gank, DiSimone, and Sanders.

Other victories have been against Bayard and Petersburg.

Boosters To Discuss Gridiron Lights For Southern High Field

Plans to place lights on the Southern High school football field before the 1960 opening game will be discussed at Thursday's Boosters' club meeting at 8 p. m., at Southern High school according to Marvin Jones, president.

Mr. Jones indicated that members of the Southern High school coaching staff and administration had recently met with representatives of the West Maryland Power company and the National Mining Supply company, to discuss costs of an adequate lighting set-up for the school. Without labor costs, the figure for the entire project would be $6,400.00 School officials stated this was an unusually low figure and immediately placed their stamp of approval upon the project.

Kenneth Johns, principal at Southern, noted that no major drive for funds for Southern High projects has been conducted in the area in recent years. The last major project was the erection of, bleachers which, through community donations brought $2,300.00 into the fund. The previous year, $3,000.00 was raised to equip the first football team.

"With the erection of lights on the Highlander field a greater interest in football could be realized", Dick Travis, athletic director, said. He also pointed out that the expected increase in gate receipts could be used for growth development of the entire area behind the school. Among the projects listed in the school's long range planning are tennis courts, improved baseball fields, drainage of the entire area and general recreation areas.

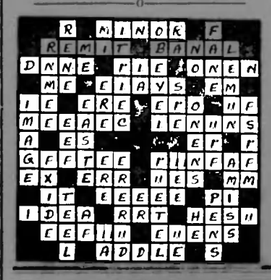
Teen Agers Told Of Nutrition Need

Teenagers were told they are undernourished today by Mrs. Johanna Stull, assistant home demonstration agent, in a special program at the regular 4-H County Council meeting on April 29 at the Extension office.



Plenty of food is being eaten by the teenager but much of it consists of the so-called "jitterbug" diet—a hot dog, a bag of potato chips and a bottle of pop. They are not getting the proper food to build sound tissues, enough calcium for strong bones and good teeth, enough vitamins and minerals for steady nerves, normal blood and efficient vision, she stated.

A daily balanced diet is not tricky as demonstrated by Mrs. Stull. It consists of about half a pound of meat, fish or poultry, a quart of milk, one egg, an eight-ounce glass of juice, two servings of leafy green or yellow vegetables, plus at least a pound of other fruit and vegetables.

A teen-age nutrition poster contest is being conducted by the 4-H'ers to make youth aware of the need for better eating habits. Any members may participate by submitting a poster not over 24"x30" to the County Extension office by August 5.

"How may 4-H Club work be of greater service to our community" was the main topic of the talks given by Patty Shawtey and Bill Magruder. They represented Garrett County 4-H'ers in the 4-H District Public Speaking contest held at Cumberland on May 2. Miss Mary Louise Helbig, Oakland, served as one of the three judges to select the top boy and girl in this district.

Plans for County Campfire, Fair, Older Youth Week-end camp, and 4-H member sign contest were developed by committees of the Council.

supply. Sandy Douglass spoke of the need for an adequate supply for now and the future. Dr. Joe Alvarez voiced his objection to use of the Youghiogheny river for supply until all other possibilities had been explored. He stressed the advantage of starting from a good source of supply, if at all possible. Paul B. Naylor expressed his faith that there was sufficient water at the Landon dam, near where the Mt. Lake Water supply is obtained. Others sought information about Murley Run, Miller's Run, Broadford, Little Youghiogheny river. In each case the engineers maintained the supply was inadequate and that a filtration plant would be needed, no matter where the water was obtained, and that the cost of laying pipe lines from a number of projected sources would be prohibitive.

The cost of piping water from the Youghiogheny river, the erection of a modern filtration plant and other expenses was estimated at $480,000.

The State Health department officials said they were confident that the Youghiogheny river would provide an adequate supply and that the water would be more pure than at present, after going through the filtration process.

The vote was then taken on whether or not the town should proceed with their present plans. Some fifty to sixty people attended the two-hour session. The mayor and all six council members were among those in attendance in addition to officials from the Chester Engineers, the bonding company and the state health department.

Mercury Hits 20 Above

After a series of frosty mornings throughout the week the mercury took a drop of 20 degrees above zero on Tuesday for the coldest reading of the week.

The continued frosts did not appear to do too much damage, with nothing much above ground. Some fruit bloom may he damaged.

There was some rain last weekend and Sunday was cold and overcast. Wednesday showed signs of a definite turn for moderation.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:
Better Health Through Knowledge

Tobacco Stains
● Cherry Seeds
● Colds

Q. How can tobacco stains be best removed from teeth?
A. Your dentist can safely remove such stains. Although there are preparations on the market for whitening teeth there is some danger of damaging the tooth enamel. Do-it-yourself tooth whitening is not recommended.

Q. Are cherry seeds poisonous? I have heard that they are but children seem to swallow them without trouble.
A. Cherry seeds contain a substance which, with water, produces a poison but the seeds must be crushed to produce this reaction. It is said that 12 oz. of cherry seeds contain enough prussic acid to give symptoms of poisoning but it is not likely that so large an amount could be eaten.

Q. I recently went to a doctor for a flu shot. By that evening I had the worst cold I have ever had. Could the shot have caused the cold?
A. It is very unlikely that the vaccine injection brought on cold symptoms. A better explanation would be that the injection was given at a time when, without knowing it, you were coming down with a cold. One of the easiest ways to make a mistake — and this applies to lots of things other than medicine — is to associate or connect a cause and effect that do not actually belong together. In this case, for example, the cold symptoms were probably no more associated with the injection given by the doctor than with the cup of coffee you drank for breakfast.

Answers do not necessarily reflect the opinion of all doctors. The diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician. Questions directed to Science Editors, P.O. Box 396, Madison Sq. Sta., N. Y. 10, N. Y. will be incorporated in these columns when possible.

Depressed Areas Bill Supported by Tawes

Gov. Tawes has urged Maryland's seven Democratic congressmen to support the so-called area redevelopment act which would set up a federal agency to assist depressed areas.

The act, known as the Flood-Douglass-Clark bill, has passed the Senate and has received approval of the House Banking and Currency committee. It is currently in the House Rules committee.

Tawes noted that the bill is designed to aid, through federal loans and technical assistance, areas of chronic unemployment seeking to attract new industry and improve public facilities. Vocational retraining of unemployed for new types of jobs would also be offered in areas which have lost industry on which they were dependent.

The governor said he has been advised that Cumberland, Cambridge, Hagerstown, Crisfield, Elkton and Garrett county would all qualify for participation in such a program since all have experienced more than 6 percent unemployment over a period of 18 months or longer.

Thirteen Nominated For Danforth Award

Four boys and nine girls from Southern's 1960 graduating class were nominated for the school's annual Danforth Foundation award, Kenneth Johns, principal, announced today.

Each year the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Missouri, presents to the young man and young woman in the graduating class a copy of William H. Danforth's inspirational book "I Dare You" and a special certificate indicating election to this achievement. Students named to receive this award must be declared the most outstanding students in their class in the "four-square" achievements in physical, mental, religious, and social development. They concluded the statement by listing areas where their leadership ability had been demonstrated.

Boys nominated to be considered for the Danforth Award were Maurice Brookhart, David Gonder, Edward Umstot and Kenneth Wenger. Girls nominated were Charlotte Biser, Marilyn Sue Bucklew, Ruth Fox, Willard Ann Glotfelty, Patsy Gower, Jane Hanst, Barbara Martin, Carolyn Spoerlein and Sandra Savage.

Final selection will be named by a special committee of teachers. Last year, school officials broke with precedent and elected two boys and one girl to this high award. Robert Michael and Jack Gnegy, both now students at the University of West Virginia and Sue Porter, who is now employed with Westinghouse Corp., in Baltimore, were the ones named.

Winner of this year's awards will be announced at a special awards assembly sponsored by the Student Council, to be held Wednesday, June 1.

This will be the twenty-first consecutive year the Danforth Foundation has offered this graduation award. Eleven thousand three hundred and seventy-eight semors from schools throughout the United States were recipients of this award last year.

Stunting Airplane Causes Concern

A call from a county farmer set the wheels in motion for a search of the mountainous area near Accident Tuesday when a twin-engine plane was believed to have crashed in flames.

But several hours later, about 9 p. m., the sheriff's office in Oakland said the report was false and that it appeared that a plane stunting in the area had caused the error.

State police said a call at 5:43 notified them that a plane flying west over Accident had suddenly spiraled down behind a mountain, trailing smoke. At first it was believed to be an airliner headed for Pittsburgh.

Police dispatched a cruiser to the scene and the Civil Air patrol and Civil Aeronautics administration were notified to begin the search. Shortly after dark investigating officers said they determined that a small aircraft flying from McHenry and piloted by a Pittsburgh man had been stunting in the vicinity. The plane landed safely at McHenry shortly after the report was made.

Sheriff James Frantz said officials believe that the plane seen by the farmer actually was the Pittsburgh flyer stunting his small craft.

To Salute Workers In Hospitals For Hospital Week

A million and a half Americans work in hospitals today, their jobs including a wide range of skills from accounting to x-ray technology. The "Many Hands and Many Skills" joined together for patient care are being saluted during National Hospital Week, May 8-14, according to H. W. McComas, administrator of Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

In the short-term hospitals which care for most of the people admitted to hospitals each year, the ratio of employees to patient has risen from about 1.5 per patient to more than two per patient since 1946. As services increase, the ratio continues to rise, for each service added means not only new facilities and equipment but the trained hands to carry out the tasks.

The various departments of the hospital offer many types of health careers, at many levels of training. In the professional service departments, nursing personnel predominate, including graduate professional nurses, some with additional specialty training; practical nurses; nurse aides; and orderlies. There are laboratory technologists and technicians with many types of skill, and their helpers. Medical records librarians, pharmacists, x-ray technologists, and therapists of many kinds also find careers in the professional service departments of the hospital.

Then there are the general services of the hospital—with their engineers and laundry workers, their housekeepers and maintenance men. There is the dietitian, with her team of cooks and helpers. And finally, there is the administrative team which keeps all of the services operating smoothly, purchase supplies, sees to employee welfare, and handles the accounting and business services.

Because hospital services are expanding rapidly, there are increasing opportunities for young people to enter health careers. Some require special training at the college or postgraduate level; others require only high school education, with the hospital itself giving training in the special skills needed.

"There is great personal satisfaction in a hospital career," said McComas. "Every worker in the hospital knows that he is contributing his part to an essential community service which brings new life and hope to more and more people each year."

Retires From Post Office

Frank M. Lyon, clerk in the post-office at Clarksburg, W. Va., retired April 29th after 36 years and two months of service.

Mr. Lyon entered the postal service at Oakland as city mail carrier on December 1, 1920, the starting date for the delivery service in that town. He served as carrier from December 1, 1920 to April 1, 1923. At that time he transferred to clerk in the office. During his service in Oakland he worked on all assignments, including a period of nine months as acting assistant postmaster, in the absence of the regular assistant.

He left the service July 31, 1932, reinstated at Oakland and then transferred to Clarksburg, effective October 5, 1935 where he was employed until the date of retirement.

He worked various assignments in the Clarksburg office from October 5, 1935, to April 1, 1941. For the past 19 years he had worked the assignment of dispatcher first class mail on the 3rd tour, Wednesday through Sunday.

Mr. Lyon has accepted a position as night manager for the Parking Management, Incorporated, of Washington, D. C., in their office at 1719 DeSales street, N. W. His son, J. W. Lyon, formerly of Clarksburg, is vice-president of the concern.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyon expect to establish their residence in Washington within the next 30 days. As a token for his years of good and faithful service and on behalf of his fellow workers, Mr. Lyon was presented with a piece of luggage.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	1 Samuel	2	1-11
Monday	Ephesians	5	1-2
Tuesday	II Corinthians	12	9-10
Wednesday	Psalms	39	1-7
Thursday	Psalms	31	1-3
Friday	Psalms	46	1-11
Saturday	Psalms	48	9-14

A Mother's Prayer

Dear God . . . help me to live up to the faith I see in my child's eyes. Help me to be the person she thinks I am. I am so very human . . . yet to her I am wise as a sage. I am so very frail . . . yet to her I am a tower of strength.

I can bind her cuts and bruises . . . I can soothe her small hurts, both physical and mental . . . I can give her love . . . I can protect and cherish her. Yet I can never be half of all I must be, without You to guide me.

Help me . . . and watch over her. In Your Church, teach her the things that are beyond my power . . . so that she will one day be a better woman than I; and in her turn, a better mother.

Peacemakers

Lesson for May 8, 1960

WAR OR PEACE? The issue cannot be debated any more as it used to be. Once upon a time statesmen of great nations, and boys and girls in school, and country people in town of a Saturday night, could talk it over: Is war, or is peace, the best way out of our troubles? Nowadays those who know the facts of this atomic age know that the next war is the last war, that any war means suicide for both sides. War is the death-way out of our troubles. Corpses have no further worries. Their quarrels are over. Peace may not, and will not, put an end to our troubles; but it will leave us alive to struggle with them.

Dr. Foreman

What About Our Enemies

"Blessed are the peacemakers" sounded wonderful in the ears of those who heard Jesus say it; it sounds wonderful today. We wish we knew where the peacemakers are, so that we could give them welcome. We wish we knew how they do it—it often looks so hopeless to us. For "peacemaker" in the year One was thought to mean one who could think out a better way of living than by war. In this dreadful year Nineteen Sixty a peacemaker, if such can be found, is one who can show us how to keep on living at all.

Let us say only one thing about international peace or war. About the least we could hope for would be that the church would not beat the state's drums; that the church would speak up as clearly as scientists and others outside the church have spoken, about the extraordinary danger and folly of depending on H-bombs for safety; and that the church would not let it continue to appear that peace is talked-up, and wished for, only by those on the far side of the iron curtain.

Let us come down to some problems we can do more about. Jesus spoke of hostilities that men have whether their countries are at war or not. He spoke of personal enemies. What shall we do with them?

Treating Enemies With Love

If you are the sort of person who enjoys a fight for the fight's sake, if you like to make a row, if peace seems to you a sissy's paradise, then you are not a Christian to begin with. No use talking to you till you join the Christians. But if you really want to live at peace, Jesus has the way to it in one short shocking sentence; LOVE YOUR ENEMIES.

How can this be done? Jesus makes some suggestions, sets up some guideposts. He does not release us from having to work out a great deal by ourselves. First he tells us to take the initiative. If you wait for your enemy to make the first move you may wait forever. It is not cowardly or weak to make the first gesture towards peace.

Peace with your neighbor is the most important project you can have. Jesus makes a striking illustration of this. Suppose you are in the very act of offering a gift at the altar of God, and at that moment it occurs to you that some one has something against you. Getting straight with that person is then the most important thing in your life, more important than even worship. Leave the gift, says our Lord, leave the altar; the temple, the place of prayer; go be reconciled to your brother, and then you are free to worship again.

The Church As Peacemaker

Jesus said more, and the reader is invited to look this up in Matt. 5 and Mark 10 and see what he actually said. It all sums up to this: Treat your enemies as you would wish to be treated; treat your enemies as if they were your friends; do for them acts of humble service with patience.

Can the church help in all this? It is the shame of the church that although she is in a good position to help local quarrels get settled, and to say something about international relations (for the church's Lord is called the Prince of Peace, and the church is the only truly international organization in the world), she is too often silent and powerless in the face of internal quarrels and international crises.

French President Addresses Congress—General Charles de Gaulle, President of the French Republic, last week addressed a Joint Session of the Congress. Many heads of state visit us, but few can match de Gaulle's distinction of intellect and spirit. We are apt to disagree with many of his ideas, but we respect him nonetheless. As is the custom, the Joint Session was held in the House of Representatives; it seats more people. The Senators, in double column, marched over to the House side of the Capitol, and joined the Representatives. Also present were the members of the United States Supreme Court and the Diplomatic Corps. A Joint Session is always impressive. President de Gaulle addressed us in French; most of us had to depend upon the English translation. The French President closed with ringing words: "Americans, let me say to you: in the big contest which lies ahead, nothing counts more for France than the wisdom, the resolution, and friendship of the great people of the United States."

Disarmament: A Hope, Possibly A Hoax—President Eisenhower and President de Gaulle agreed that the subject of disarmament should be paramount at the approaching Summit Conference. For many years, the American people have hoped for and dreamed of disarmament. And now, all of a sudden, it seems that the United States, Great Britian, and Russia are close to agreement to end nuclear tests!

At various times, the United States has disarmed as a matter of principle. We have disarmed by treaty. We have disarmed by example, hoping that others will follow our lead. However, when the United States disarmed, others armed. When disarmament was by treaty, others cheated. When the United States set an example, others took the opposite course. The results? In 1941, there was Pearl Harbor. In 1950, there was Korea, where our boys were sent to face death armed at first with wooden, make-believe guns. Disarmament, in the light of experience, each time has proved to be a gigantic hoax so far as America was concerned—costly in money and lives. Now Russia has a lead in nuclear rocketry, and suggests the end to nuclear tests. We do not want a disarmament agreement which can only result in disadvantage to the United States.

Let us beware of a possible trap! The bait: "Peace." It has come out that long ago the Communists laid their plans to conquer America by, first, infiltrating Communist ideology into American thinking by various means, and then, when the right time came, to start a spectacular movement for "peace" and "disarmament" through idealistic Americans who would "cooperate in their own destruction."

To a Communist, every act which contributes to the Communist conquest is a "peaceful" act. If they take a gun, they take a "peaceful" gun, containing a "peaceful" bullet, and kill you "peacefully." When the Chinese Communists murder millions, it is an act of "peace". When the Russians tanks rolled into Budapest to butcher and destroy, it was glorious "peace". And, so, we have to be leery of the word "peace" as used by the Soviets and by those well-meaning Americans who unwittingly are cooperating "in their own destruction." Disarmament? Fine! WHEN we can be sure it isn't another hoax! Let us hope that at the Summit Conference we do not give away more than we get—for the sake of our survival.

Federal Activities In Maryland—The Department of the Army is soliciting bids for the construction of an Army Reserve Center in Westminster, Maryland. The Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, in its program for Federal assistance for schools in federally-affected areas, has certified for immediate payment to the Frederick County Board of Education the amount of $134,285, and to the Cecil County Board of Education the amount of $150,385, and has reserved the amount of $407,445 for St. Mary's County Board of Education for a new Junior High school. The Urban Renewal Administration has granted $14,000 to the Maryland State Planning Department for the preparation of a comprehensive plan for Frederick's growth and development. The U. S. Air Force has made a new grant of $104,000 to the University of Maryland to enable the Institute of Fluid Dynamics and Applied Mathematics to continue its investigation of gas properties as high temperatures and effects produced by atomic and molecular collisions. The Post Office Department has announced new Post Offices, for Middletown, where the construction contract has been made, and Brandywine, where bids to build have been invited.

Russia Is Far Behind—Premier Khrushchev has painted Russia as the world's greatest power and the land of plenty and prosperity. Facts, coming to light, are taking the wind out of Khrushchev's boasts. When we take a second look at the Soviet achievements that have impressed the world, they don't seem so impressive. The Russian people are complaining about the poor quality of goods sold them, about faulty construction, about breakdowns in economic planning, about the skimpy yield of foodstuffs from the state-run farms. Drabness and poverty are being revealed as the true Russian picture. There is evidence that the living standard in Russia is primitive by American standards; the average Russian receives about one-fourth as much in consumer goods as does the average American.

Even in space, where Russia got a head start and was considered ahead, Americans are finding their own satellites outnumber those of the Soviets and are far more successful in obtaining information for future exporation.

Only 1 in 50 Russians has a telephone, as compared with 1 in 3 Americans. Russia has 1 million cars; the U. S., 59 million. Russia produced last year the number of cars we produced 49 years ago. In the production of about everything, Russia is far behind the U. S.

In steel production, Russia is 19 years behind U. S.

In electric power production, 16 years behind U. S.

In truck and bus production, 36 years behind U. S.

In shoe production, 23 years behind U. S.

In radio production, 30 years behind U. S.

In television-set production, 10 years behind U. S.

In refrigerator production, 31 years behind U. S.

In meat production, 52 years behind U. S.

In milk production, 18 years behind U. S.

Beautiful Washington Was Swampland In 1800—Recent reports about the discomforts of partly completed Brazilia, the new, fabulous capital city of Brazil, bring to mind stories about what our own capital city was like around 1800. One wing of the Capitool and the "President's House" had been completed. They were shining objects in dismal contrast with the general scene. Pennsylvania Avenue was a morass covered with alder bushes. The roads in every direction were sloughs of mud and mire, turning to fine, all-prevading dust after long dry spells. Washington was a city of streets without houses. All you could see in any direction were brick kilns and temporary huts for laborers. When John and Abigail Adams moved into the "President's House", they entered on rough planks over a mud puddle, and Abigial had to climb a ladder to get to the second floor to hang out her weekly wash. (It was not called "The White House" until Theodore Roosevelt moved in a hundred years later.) George Washington helped select the site of the City of Washington. It was the first planned capital city in the world. Brazilia is the latest.

Overheard In A Washington Restaurant—One girl to another: "What I'm looking for is a man who will treat me as if I was a voter and he was a candidate."

TO THE TAXPAYERS OF GARRETT COUNTY:

In a statement appearing in this paper under the caption, "Group Threatens Law Suit Over Drilling Payment," Mr. Hamill, Attorney to the Board of County Commissioners, is reported to have stated, and I quote:

"Mr. Hamill said, approval of the payment had been made February 3, 1959. He added, that it was inconceivable that any person would object to the payment of a bill that the Court had considered fair and just."

The last part of this statement is completely irresponsible. The Court issued an injunction against Commissioners Brenneman and Swartzentruber to stop the drilling at the county quarry because it is unlawful for a County Commissioner to contract with himself to do work for the county.

In an opinion handed down during June of 1956 the Court quoted the following Sections of the Law:

"It shall not be lawful for any County Commissioner, during his term of office, to hold, possess, purchase or acquire any share or interest in any agreement or contract made, entered into or concluded with any party or parties, whomsoever, with the County Commissioners of his County, in his capacity as such a Commissioner, or to have, receive, enjoy or participate, either directly or indirectly, in any of the benefits, profits, or emoluments of any such agreement or contract.

"It shall not be lawful for any County Commissioner during his term of office, to accept, hold, purchase or acquire any claim on or against the County of which he is a Commissioner, or any share or interest in such a claim.

"If any County Commissioner shall violate any provisions of the two preceding Sections, he shall be liable to indictment, and upon conviction shall forfeit his office, and shall also forfeit his share in the agreement, contract, or claim, as aforesaid, as the case may be."

After the opinion and injunction issued by Judge Henderson in 1956, Brenneman took an appeal to the highest Court in the State.

The Court of Appeals stated that Judge Henderson was justified in his findings, and they refused to order the payment of the balance of the claim that Brenneman was making against the County. The last paragraph of their opinion states the following:

"We are not in any way passing upon the amount claimed to be due John Brenneman, or A. C. Brenneman, by the Board of County Commissioners. This will have to be determined by future proceedings, and nothing in this opinion or in the opinion of the Chancellor is to be construed as in any way passing upon the merits of any such claim."

Disregarding the opinion of our Courts this present Board of Commissioners reached into our meagre roads funds and paid this disputed claim. They did this very soon after taking office, but it was not made public at the time.

Before the payment of this last amount of $16,206.00 to Brenneman, and even before the drilling at the quarry was halted by Injunction, Brenneman had already been paid a total sum of $15,197.81, for unlawful work performed with his equipment while serving as a County Commissioner. The last payment of $16,206.00 brings the total amount of unlawful payments to Brenneman up to the sum of $31,403.81.

He was paid $2.47 per foot for the first 1500 feet of holes drilled at the county quarry. After that he was paid at the rate of $2.00 per foot. He drilled in the neighborhood of 13,500 feet at the quarry, besides the drilling of the well at the County Garage. After being stopped from doing further drilling at the County quarry, he then moved his equipment to Allegany County and did some drilling in the overburden at a coal mine stripping operation, and for this he received 25c per foot as against $2.00 per foot for drilling in the overburden at the County quarry.

In view of the above, we believe Mr. Brenneman had already been well compensated before having been paid this last large sum of $16,206.00 by this present Board.

We need to keep in mind that all this work was performed in violation of the law, and that he could have been indicted and required to forfeit his office, and replace the $15,179.81 that had already been paid him before the Injunction was issued.

Mt. Storm Postmaster Buried April 23rd

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon, April 23, at 2 o'clock at the Mt. Storm Methodist Church for Dodd Madison Fisher, age 47, who died Thursday, April 21, at Grant Memorial Hospital, Petersburg, W. Va., where he had been a patient since April 6. He had been ill since January. Officiating were the Rev. C. S. Thompson, Fayetteville, W. Va.; Rev. G. M. Ford, pastor of Mt. Storm Methodist Church, and Rev. Dale Jones, Mt. Storm. Interment was in the Schaeffer Cemetery, Mt. Storm.

Mr. Fisher had been postmaster of the Mt. Storm postoffice for two years. He was also an insurance agent.

Born May 31, 1912 at Mt. Storm, he was a son of Mrs. Delia Fisher, Mt. Storm, and the late Charles M. Fisher. He had resided with Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Schaeffer from 1925 until the time, of his marriage, and helped operate their store. He took over the operation of the business in January of 1958 when Mr. Schaeffer retired.

Spray Apple And Cherry Trees Now

Examinations of over wintering apple leaves showed that the scab fungus is ready to cause infection to apple leaves and blossom parts during the next rains. The majority of the spores will be discharged and infection will occur after the over wintering leaves have become thoroughly wet. Scab infection at this time may be very destructive to very young fruit, says Dr. L. O. Weaver, State Plant Pathologist.

Fruit growers are urged to apply fungicides prior to the next rains or soon afterward to protect their trees. After good pollination weather, fungicides such as captan applied to blossoms does not reduce the set or crop, he said.

In 1959, cherry trees suffered defoliation from the leaf spot fungus. Leaves turned yellow about midsummer and the premature fall had a weakening effect, upon the trees. Leaf spot and the resultant defoliation should be prevented in 1960. Starting in petal-fall, sprays of captan or ferbam 2 pounds in 100 gallons should be applied at 7 to 10 day intervals, Dr. Weaver says.

The end of white rule in Africa within five years was predicted by President Louis of Guinea. U. S. was planning a flashing satellite that would map and measure the earth.

A Message from "Your Pharmacist"

DO NOT LISTEN TO UNQUALIFIED ADVICE

George P. Larrick, U. S. commissioner of Food and Drugs said, quote –

"IT IS ESTIMATED THAT APPROXIMATELY 50,000

canvassers now sell vitamins and food supplements. These agents are not qualified to advise the public on matters of diet and health. Yet, many of them are in a sense practicing medicine without a license.

"To make sales, they do not hesitate, in the privacy of the home, to recommend their products for the treatment of any disease condition.

DEPEND ON A PHYSICIAN FOR ADVICE.

No one else has the knowledge to advise you what treatment you need when you are sick.

A low-cost way to control quack grass in potatoes

It's DOWPON* – the economical grass killer. Instead of chopping or cultivating all season, just apply Dowpon to your fields in the spring before planting, or in the fall after harvest – and you'll be rid of tough problem grasses. That's because Dowpon, sprayed on the leaves, kills the whole grass plant, from the tops to the deepest roots – at a rock-bottom cost per acre. Also use selectively in some crops.

The horse was still very much in his own when this photograph was taken, but his days as a means of conveyance were numbered, thanks to the ridiculous looking, but strictly functional little vehicle to the left of the picture.

The building is that of the E. S. Evans garage, formerly located on Liberty street in Oakland, on the site now occupied by Ralph Pritts and Sons garage, and the former Sanders Motor freight building. The building to the left is believed to be the former Hinebaugh Livery stable, and at the extreme left is shown a corner of the building presently used as a warehouse by A. D. Naylor and company.

Only two of the persons have been identified. Standing on the left, next to the end, is A. R. Martin, and on the right is Harvey Gortner, an employe of Mr. Evans, who later operated his own Ford agencies in Grantsville and other towns in Pennsylvania, and West Virginia.

The picture was probably taken about 1920, judging from the automobile shown. No information is supplied concerning the occasion for the gathering, but perhaps it was to mark the debut of a new model featuring swing-away windshields, reinforced running boards and shatterproof isinglass side windows. The car came in a choice of colors—all of them black.

Bus Operators Discuss Problems At Spring Session

The need of legislation to place school bus operators under the State Retirement system, the possibility of hiring an attorney on an annual retainer to represent the association were two items under discussion at the spring business meeting of the Garrett County School Bus Operators' association held at Northern High school last Friday evening.

Also under discussion was the appointment of a committee to keep in contact with other associations throughout the state as well as the State Department of transportation so that the association would be well informed on a state level of matters pertaining to transportation of school children; the appointment of a committee to arrange for a better insurance plan; the election of a board of directors which would hold monthly meetings to air matters brought to their attention by members of the association, who would present the problem to the executive committee.

Action in most of these will be taken at the fall meeting. The insurance committee named included Asa Nethken, Emile Germain and Audley Riley.

Talks To Scouts

James McHenry, county agricultural agent, was the speaker at a meeting of Boy Scout troop 93 one evening last week. His topic was on "Things that Grow."

He covered gardening and harvesting of garden crops. He covered the growth from seeds to the harvest. A question and answer period followed.

The 17-year-old soldier entered the Army in September, 1959, and was last stationed at Fort Jackson, S. C. Sines attended Southern High School.

Kenneth E. Paugh, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde H. Calhoun of Mountain Lake Park, is attending the Radioman School, Norfolk, Va.

The 16-week course is scheduled to graduate May 6.

Breeding Circuits Report Activity During March

Severe March weather failed to dampen business in the two county artificial breeding circuits. Danny Klotz of Circuit No. 2 piled up a 75% increase for the month of March with 141 original services. Harland Beachy of Unit No. 1 did nearly as well with 136 services.

County dairymen with the highest number of breedings in March were: Wendel Umbel, 8; Willard Maust, 7; Raymond Klotz, 6; Leona Wagner, 6; John Steyer, 6; Leon White, 6.

The big news around the Maryland-West Virginia Bull Stud and the Maryland Artificial Breeding Cooperative headquarters is the purchase of a future "home". Last week the Maryland A. B. C. Board of Directors had a special meeting at which time they inspected the farm and endorsed the action of the Board of Managers of the Bull Stud to purchase the farm.

The farm is known as the "Airport Farm" located about six miles north of Frederick on State Route 15. The farm contains 147 acres. It is hoped that the new headquarters will be ready for occupancy in the summer of 1961.

The company will be all new faces, but Mr. Yell said there was some very fine talent. He said the only old timers would be Ray Caton who served as technician last year, and Sallie Lutin who was stage manager. Some local talent always is used for minor parts in several of the plays.

Plays will run each week, Tuesday to Saturday, inclusive.

General admission this year is the same as last year; Tuesday thru Friday, $1.50 for adults, $1.30 for children; Saturdays, $2.20 for adults and $1.50 for children. A subscription of nine admissions will cost $12.50. A patron season ticket is $25 which includes a person's listing in the weekly program.

Mary Kinzer is in charge of subscriptions this year and he will have assisting him members of AAUW, Business and Professional Women, Oakland Civic, Junior Woman's Civic, Lions, and Rotary clubs of Oakland.

Willard Hawkins and Louis B. Young are two BCA members of the Board of Governors this year. Other members are Mr. Yell, chairman, Mrs. Gerald Iman, Mrs. Dudley P. Ramsey, Irvin Feld, J. M. Jarhoe, George Littman, Edward Smouse and Earl Zepp.

The properties committee also is new this year and they are Mrs. W. W. Grant, chairman, Mrs. Neil Fraley, Mrs. William Hesen, Mrs. Guy Witham Hinebaugh, Mrs. Paul Naylor, Mrs. S. Townshend Naylor, Mrs. S. R. Pacenhardt, Mrs. Cecil Smith, Mrs. Creigh Teets.

The program will begin on Monday, May 16, at 9:30 and on Friday, May 20, with a party in the afternoon. The over-all program will include rhythms, music, art, story telling, games and lunch.

The parents are to bring in their children's birth certificates and enroll the children, and come for them at noon.

There will be a health clinic on Tuesday, May 17, when children will be given shots and be vaccinated. This will be taken care of between 1 and 4 o'clock at the Health Clinic in Grantsville.

On Friday all new mothers are invited to a tea at 1:30. Mothers are invited to join the Mothers club.

The program is sponsored by the Mothers club and endorsed by the school and by Willard L. Hawkins, superintendent of schools.

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen John Marshall Butler

"THE BATTLE OF THE BUDGET"

"This represents a highly desirable effort to strengthen our democratic form of government in a practical manner. It is most encouraging!" So writes a constituent from Arnold, Maryland, on the back of my Battle of the Budget questionnaire which I mailed to nearly 5,000 people earlier this year. And I want to state that the answers are most encouraging too!

Ninety percent of the replies ask for a reduced budget with the savings to be applied against a debt or tax reduction. Those who do specify request that the excess be used to reduce the debt and not taxes, which ought to give a few politicians fiscal food for thought. Nine percent state they are satisfied with the President's $84 billion budget while only one percent recommended an unbalanced budget.

A breakdown of the major targets of the 90 percent in favor of reductions reads like this: agriculture, 84%; foreign aid, mentioned by 84%; foreign aid, mentioned by 66%; commerce and housing, 51%; labor and welfare, 49%; veterans' benefits, 47%; natural resources, 41% and general government expenses, 37%.

Specific suggestions in these areas are that the government stop buying school lunches, that it follow the Hoover Commission's recommendations for reducing administration expenses, that the government "get out" of public housing, and that Washington withdraw from river development and public power.

One Marylander in Darlington has this to say about farm price supports: "Cut to the bone and then grind up the bone for fertilizer." Another constituent from Salisbury simply explodes, "Ye gods!" Someone from Lubbock, Texas, suggests that the Battle of the Budget "might more correctly be termed 'The Battle Against Socialists and Bureaucrats'". And a lady from New Orleans submits the lowest Federal budget of all $37.1 billion with the remainder to be applied against a reduction in the national debt. My Battle was printed in the Congressional Record which accounts for the many questionnaires that I received from across the country.

I believe that my Marylanders and Americans who previously were unsure of how they could contribute to the battle to keep our expenses within our income are now girding themselves. As someone from Accokeek puts it: 'Only when the 'stockholders' of the Nation take a more detailed interest as they do with their own family budgets will we start the long road back to a healthy economy and more away from the dangerous area we are now drifting in." Amen.

when GASmen outrace nature each summer

The warm weather season signals the start of a race the gas company runs—and wins—each summer. That's restocking Appalachian area underground storage fields which have been emptied over the winter months to help meet cold weather gas demands.

In six months—running from mid-April to mid-October—the gas company restores this underground stock of gas to the capacity Nature developed through millions of years.

This warehousing project must be completed each year. Storage gas is insurance on winter days for homes and industries that need more gas than we have available from area wells, or can get economically from cross-country pipeline suppliers.

Today this part of our country is called America's Original Natural Gasland because depleted subterranean gas sands are being re-used. For millions of years this creation by Nature lay untapped. Then, in less than one-half century, much of the Appalachian area gas was used up.

But, these empty reservoirs are now being refilled each summer. As a result, an abundant supply of natural gas is available the year 'round.

Today, there's no waiting list for gas heat here. Area cities and towns need no longer fear that they will run out of gas in sub-zero weather.

The gas company helped develop underground storage to avoid these possibilities. And today, early in May, gasmen are again racing the calendar. They're working in the summer's heat to help keep homes comfortable and industrial operations uninterrupted this winter—thanks to underground storage of natural gas.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving memory of our dear Dad and Husband, Allen Upnold, who passed away two years ago, May 7, 1958.

We tried to so hard to save him
Our prayers were all in vain;
This world would seem like heaven
If we had him back again.
Just when life was sweetest,
And we could have loved him best,
The gates of Heaven opened.
And he entered eternal rest.
No one knows how much we miss you;
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since you went away.
Life has not been quite the same.
Gone, but not forgotten,
By those that loved you dear;
Every hour of the day.
We wish that you were here.
Days of sadness still come over us,
Tears in silence often flow;
Memory keeps us ever near you,
Though you left us two years ago.
Our hearts still ache with sadness,
Our eyes shed many a tear;
God only knows how much we miss you.
At the end of these two years,

WILL SUCCESS SPOIL NOBODY'S KID BROTHER?

In January, Valiant (Nobody's Kid Brother) got the New York Couture Group's Design Supremacy Award. They just think it's the best-looking car on the road, that's all. In February, Valiant went to Florida. It had a road test scheduled with Falcon and Corvair. It left them behind in a big cloud of Valiant dust. In April, Valiant did it again, beating the carburetors off good old car "F" and car "C" in the Mobilgas Economy Run. Now, flushed with success, but totally unspoiled, Valiant is waiting for a chance to spoil you. And you will be spoiled—quicker than you can say Valiant, King of the Compacts!

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 84 | OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY MD., MAY 12, 1960 | PER COPY, 8c | NUMBER 11.

Give a Boost - - - -

We were greatly encouraged less than three months ago when it was learned that a half million dollar business desired to locate in Oakland. At that time we said the establishment of a business—a lumber industry—appeared to be a natural because it would not change the basic pattern of our living but would greatly help our economy and give employment to people. We also said its effect could be far reaching—for the small woodlot farmer as well as the commercial lumberman or tree farm owner.

The Chamber of Commerce saw the possibilities and went to work on a plan to raise $40,000 to help this company to expand. The new organization already is at work in the community. Fourteen people are employed at present, excluding officers. Lumber purchases are being made daily.

The planned expansion is contingent upon the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce to successfully complete its goal for funds. Some $15,000 of the $40,000 has been subscribed.

If the mountain top area fails in this effort to improve its economy we might just as well give up. The population of the county dropped several hundred during the past ten years, because young people are compelled to move away to other areas due to the lack of opportunity here. Must we allow this to continue until we are no longer a self-supporting county government.

People associated with the new venture are all men in the lumber industry who have made successes in business in other areas, and now want an opportunity to expand here. They are investing more than the chamber is—asking the local people to invest. We recall that twelve years ago it became known we might have a hospital but that $80,000 was needed from local funds. In something like two months the people came forward with over $100,000, and there was no guarantee of a return on their investment.

In the Chamber of Commerce plan, each one who contributes to the enterprise will have a share in a piece of property and some industrial buildings that nothing could take away. On the other hand it could herald the beginning of an economic boom to this area that would have lasting benefit. This would not be a gift but an investment.

People can prove their interest in their community by supporting this program of the Chamber of Commerce.

A Long-Felt Need Supplied

Tangible Pregress Toward County Hospital Dates To February 7, 1946

The history of the Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland dates back to February 7, 1946, locally, but many years before that in the thoughts of a man, one George W. Loar, prominent jeweler in Grafton, W. Va., for 38 years, and a resident of Oakland for a number of years prior to and following his business venture.

A bronze plaque on the wall of the front corridor of the hospital reads "George W. Loar 1865-1946—A wise and understanding heart," and he was all of that.

The idea of a hospital for Oakland had been discussed during the 1920's and 1930's but nothing tangible developed because of lack of funds.

Mr. Loar died January 27, 1946, at the age of 79. Under the terms of his will which he executed in 1941 he left $135,009 for construction and equipment of a hospital building at Oakland. A codicil to the will executed in 1945, added another $35,000. He designated the name should be "Garrett County Memorial hospital," and provided an additional $5,000 for support and maintenance to be used following its official opening.

He made his bequest dependent upon several requirements—that title to such a hospital be transferred to the County Commissioners provided that steps be taken toward its erection, and that the Commissioners accept the bequest with its regulations within one year from the date of his death.

Commissioners Get Backing

Following the announcement of the request by J. M. Jarboe, E. Ray Jones, Oakland, and Judge Merle Watkins, Grafton, W. Va., executors, and the regulations involved, individuals and organizations moved swiftly to give backing to the Commissioners. The late L. M. Fraley, mayor, and organization

Verdict For $1,275 Won By Plaintiff In Civil Action

A verdict of $1,275 for the plaintiff was rendered by a Garrett county jury in a civil case brought here from Allegany county several days ago.

A suit was brought by attorneys of Hugh E. Kifer against Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Genevie, Helen F. Keller, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Beveridge, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Keith, heirs of Archibald Longerbeam.

The complaint revealed that on April 30, 1956, the defendants had entered into a contract with the plaintiff, agreeing to convey property on U. S. route 40, near the Six Mile house, west of Cumberland, for $25,000. The plaintiff said he paid $6,260 and was prepared to pay the balance, but he was not able to get a valid deed delivered, and subsequently the plaintiff was deprived of the use of the property. In the meantime the plaintiff had leased the property and a filling station had been erected. The plaintiff claimed $20,000 in damages.

The defendants in answering the complaint claimed there was never any promise as alleged and they were not indebted as alleged.

The case was removed to this county January 21, 1959. Following the verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $1,275, the defense attorneys filed a motion for a new trial.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:

Better Health Through Knowledge

FEVER CONVULSIONS

- Cleansing Dentures
- Constipation

Q. My 2-year-old daughter has had several fever convulsions. The doctor has advised me not to have her vaccinated against whooping cough and the other diseases. Is this wise?

A. The general rule is not to immunize a child who is not well. A history of convulsions would suggest that the child is not completely fit, and in such cases, protective shots are not usually given unless there is some risk of infection. Your physician is the only one in a position to decide when and if to withhold immunization.

Q. Would a strong acid solution be suitable for removing tartar from false teeth?

A. No. The use of strong chemical solutions and abrasive powders on dentures roughens the denture and encourages deposition of more tartar. If the denture is heavily encrusted with material it would be best to take it to your dentist for cleansing and polishing. Afterwards, gentle brushing with soap and water should keep it free of deposits.

Q. Please discuss chronic constipation. Tell the chief causes, also the best remedy. Is there a diet to correct this trouble?

A. Few other subjects in medicine have received more thought and attention than constipation. Volumes have been written on the subject so we can only hit the high spots. In correcting constipation it is first necessary to overcome any tendency to put off going to the bathroom such as children are prone to do. Exercise and diet are important. Fat lots of vegetables, salads, and fruit, in addition to milk, cereals, eggs, and meats. To function properly, the bowel needs fluids so don't neglect water and fruit juices. An occasional dose of mineral oil may be helpful but the use of laxatives regularly is harmful. Don't get into the "laxative habit." In fact, it is best not to take laxatives, and certainly not cathartics, without the advice of a physician.

Far from bling a burdensome addition to the cost of illness, nothlng so vitally important to you costs so little as prescribed medicine.

Questions directed to Science Editors, P.O. Box 396, Madison Sq. Sta., N. Y. 10, N. Y. will be answered in these columns when possible.

Rain, Snow Cover Mt. Top This Week

The Mountain top area had a three inch rainfall over the past four days and also a belated touch of winter weather as two inches of wet snow fell Monday night, Tuesday and for a short time Wednesday. The snow melted about as fast as it fell.

The rainy season set in Saturday night, continuing until the present, with the snow flurries interspersed.

Friday had been clear and warm, but the weather began to change on Saturday. It was cloudy most of that day with rain beginning to fall late at night.

There have been other times when snow fell in May, so no record of any kind has been established. Henry Arnold, Oakland police chief, scanning his scrapbooks, said that on May 11, a number of years ago, Dr. M. C. Hinebaugh had been unable to get to town from his farm on the Golf Course road on account of the snow. A person talking at the postoffice yesterday told Mr. Weber that in 1921 it had snowed so hard it closed the road in the Friendsville area. It must have been some other year because Mr. Weber searched the records and discovered there was no snow in May of that year.

Governors of Ten States Seek Solution To Economic Ills

Maryland's Governor J. Millard Tawes has invited the governors of 10 other states lying in whole or in part in the Appalachian region to a conference to discuss and seek solutions to the economic deficiencies of the entire area. In his telegram to the governors of Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, New York, North Carolina, South Carolina, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia, Governor Tawes said, "Many years' exposure to the problems of Maryland's mountain counties has convinced me that no single state acting alone can effectively deal with the problems involved. The Appalachian region is an economic as well as a topographical entity and has become our nation's number one chronic economic problem."

Governor Tawes said, in extending the invitation, that while only 3 of Maryland's counties, with 8% of its population, lie in the region, it is his belief that solutions to the problems involved can only be reached by all the states concerned working together.

In describing the problem, Governor Tawes said that continuing underemployment, out-migration, floods, isolation, inadequate roads and communications, continue to persist in this great region in the midst of the most prosperous civilization the world has ever known.

Invitations to the conference, which will be held in Annapolis on May 20, have already been accepted by several of the governors involved, and it is expected that nearly all of the governors invited will attend.

The region under discussion includes Maryland's Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties. In the 11 state area it includes nearly 10,000,000 persons. In terms of per capita income, adequate housing, years of education, and other health and welfare criteria the area is far below the rest of the United States.

Governor Tawes hopes that from this conference of the Governors of Appalachian region states, a plan can be developed which will tackle the area's problems on a regional rather than a state or federal basis. He emphasized in his invitation that he does not regard the Appalachian area as a distressed region, but rather, one with a high potential in human and natural resources, needing only a suitable program of economic development.

"Building the Spiritual Life" will be the theme of a conference to be held at Southern High School, Oakland, and sponsored by the Church of the Brethren on Saturday, May 14, from 10:45 A. M. to 4:00 P. M. DST. Some 250 church workers from northern W. Va., and western Maryland are expected to attend.

Leadership for the event will include Dr. Edward K. Ziegler, Moderator of the 1960 Church of the Brethren Annual Conference, chairman of the Department of Education of the Virginia Council of Churches, and pastor of the Wianno Road Church of the Brethren at Roanoke, Va. Dr. Ziegler's wife, the former Ella Bittner of Elgin, W. Va., will also be leading a group of Vacation Church School workers.

Other special-interest groups will assemble for three hours of intensive inquiry during the day. Among the interests to be considered are: the fine art of public worship; music in the Christian home; a survey of the book of Isaiah; organizing and developing a church choir; the fun in fellowship singing; music for children in the church; planning and leading retreats; and a session for deacons.

At the noon meal, to be provided the facilities of the school cafeteria for all conferees, a special luncheon for Sunday School Superintendents will be addressed by Rev. Samuel Horley, Southeastern Regional executive secretary from Bridgewater, Va. A newly book exhibit and personal counsel concerning Vacation Church School materials are also listed among the conference services. An activities program for children aged 3-11 will enable parents to attend the sessions.

Miss Mary Grace Martin, director of religious education and author from Baltimore, Rev. Carroll Honeycutt, pastor of the Peters Creek Church of the Brethren near Roanoke, Va.; Prof. Philip Trout, music director from Bridgewater College; Rev. Robert Sherfy, pastor of the Harrisonburg, Va., Church of the Brethren, Mrs. Anna Mow, former professor at Bethany Biblical Seminary, Chicago, Ill.; Mr. Warren Miller, national Youth Fellowship president from Manassas, Va.; and Mrs. Doris M. Wampler, Bridgewater, Va., are all slated to appear as conference leaders.

The conference will be climaxed at 3:00 P. M. in a special service of worship prepared and led by Rev. Robert Sherfy.

Only four strings! But these four strings offer endless possibilities of tone and harmony. They open to man new horizons of beauty and happiness.

And yet, improperly played, these four strings can bring forth unbelievable discord!

There are four strings in life — with similar possibilities. Mind . . . Character . . . Courage . . . Faith!

The truths that fill our minds, the ideals that mold our character, the purposes to which our courage is given, the realities in which we believe; these can fill our lives with rich beauty and happiness or drab ugliness and sorrow.

For centuries the Church has been the maestro of these strings of life — helping men to bring from their own souls the harmony and beauty God has put there.

You can find music in everyday living through participation in the work of the Church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Bible Material: Matthew 5:10-16; 13 31-35.
Devotional Reading: Philliplans 1:21-30.

Welcome, All

Lesson for May 15, 1960

"IT TAKES all kinds of people to make a world," but sometimes we wish it didn't. Even good people get us down, sometimes, and as for the people who are not good—the robots and the rats, the hypocrites and the hoodlums—it would be wonderful if we knew we didn't have to worry with a one of them any more.

Dr. Foreman

But here they are and here we are, all in one world. If you want to keep clear away from no-account people, you will just have to get out of this world. At least Paul found it so in his time (1 Corinthians 5:9, 10), and it is still true. Christians do live in "society," that is, in the great gatheration of mankind. The whole human race are our cousins, and they seem to be on our doorstep—or we on theirs—most of the time.

Christians Are Different

Christians have always been outnumbered in this world. Even including all the nominal Christians we make up scarcely more than half the population of the U.S.A. (A nominal Christian has been defined as one who goes to church, or more precisely is dragged there, three times in his life; onee to be sprinkled with water, a second time to be sprinkled with rice, and the last time to be sprinkled with ashes.) Real Christians are so scarce as to be noticeable. And when you do see a real Christian, there is one thing sure: he is different. He just doesn't see things the way most people do. He doesn't treat people as most others do. He has a rather special approach to the problems of living. He is so rare, the real Christian, that the advertising men, aiming at "mass man," never appeal to Christians. The motives appealed to by most advertising—judging by what this writer has seen—are not Christian motives. A real Christian, in short (meaning one who has a close resemblance to Jesus Christ, because he has the mind of Christ and Christ lives in him), will be marked off as pecullar.

Once there was a little boy in a Kentucky village who was different from all other little boys there, on two counts. He wore glasses, and he played the fiddle. (You were not supposed to indulge in either of these till you were old and grey.) So all the other boys would make this boy live hard. "Hit him!" they would yell as a dozen or more piled on him at onee. "Hit him! He plays the fiddle!"

This is not only a true story but a parable of life in this world. People fear and hate what is different. Not all people show this hate and fear, not all feel it. But enough of the people in Jerusalem hated and feared Jesus, who was outstandingly different from them, so bitterly that they could scream "Crueify him?" Ever since then, Christians have been unwelcome in a non-Christian society. "Woe unto you when ALL men speak well of you," Jesus said (Luke 6:26). If everybody speaks well of you, it shows you have no real character, you appeal to too many opposite kinds of people! Suppose our Lord had tried to please every one?.

Christians Are Welcome

All the same, and you can call it a paradox if you like,—all the same, Christians are welcome, even among those who can't see their point of view. Jesus called his followers "salt" and "light." Salt and light operated by contact, and so do Christians. Jesus assumed that his people would make direct contacts with the human world around them, even as he did. Now people are seldom actively grateful either for salt or light. But they gripe when they are left in the dark, they complain when they have to eat food without salt. Perhaps "Christians are welcome" is saying it too strongly. "Christians are needed" would eome closer to the bull's-eye. Towns without Christians may interest TV fans, but who wants to live in one? No business firm is going to send its best men to live in the worst towns. Indeel no parents want to send their children to school in the least Christian parts of town. Even people who never darken the doors of a church would not like to live where no churehes are.

WHAT HAPPENS AFTER DEATH?

In a few score years, all who read these lines will have vanished from the earth.

Every day, almost a hundred thousand human beings finish their earthly span and pass off into the vast beyond. Our turn will come we all know, but when, where and how we cannot be sure.

No merely human being ever has been able to look into eternity and tell us what it is like. No scientific knowledge or instruments can pierce the curtain that divides this world from that into which all of us must eventually journey.

All we know about God's eternal plans for us . . . all we know about what lies beyond the grave . . . comes from the God Who made us and to the extent He has seen fit to reveal it to us.

But we can face eternity without fear. For we have a definite answer to the mystery of death. With the facts God has put at our disposal through the inspired books of the Old and the New Testaments, the Catholic Church always has given, and gives today, a definite answer to the important questions raised by the fact of death.

Man's life in this world, the Church tells us, is a preparation for the world to come . . . a testing-time which ends with our death. What happens after that depends on whether death finds us loyal to God, or opposed to Him and the way He expects us to live. ". . . it is appointed unto men once to die and after this the judgment" (Heb. 9:27).

Christ gave us (Matt. 25:31-46) a description of God's judgment which leaves no room for doubt that our worthiness of everlasting reward will be judged solely according to the way we have lived our lives on this earth.

Death does not bring merely a long, unconscious slumber, but rather a quick awakening to the irrevocable judgment of our Creator. Nor does it bring us a second chance to prove ourselves or to amend our erring ways. In our own hands rests the opportunity . . . and upon our own heads the responsibility . . . to determine if death shall be the threshold to everlasting life among the blessed, or among the lost.

Men blessed by youth and good health often feel that death for them is far away—something to be worried about only in the twilight years. Some scoff at the suggestion that an everlasting hell could be permitted by a merciful God. Others seem to think that God will treat them kindly if they live reasonably moral lives, even though they pay Him no special honor which is His due.

If you would like more information on Heaven, Hell, Purgatory, the end of the world and the resurrection and judgment of all men . . . we shall be happy to send you an interesting pamphlet, in a plain wrapper. And nobody will call on you. Write today for your copy of Pamphlet No. KC-14.

135 Seniors Are Given Vocational Assistance

One hundred thirty-five high school seniors from the two schools of the area were given vocational assistance during the past school year, Charles Briner, manager of the Oakland office of the Department of Employment Security, announced.

He said individual assistance was given graduates by trained employment counselors in its counseling program in cooperation with the schools.

The program began early in the school year and included graduates in need of individual counseling interviews, aptitude testing and other vocational assistance. The goal of the service is to help the graduate in a job in which he can use his maximum abilities in line with his job preferences.

Briner said the Oakland office is now in the process of finding jobs for graduates who have registered for employment, as well as the student seeking jobs for summer vacation period. He urged local employers with job vacancies to call the Oakland office and place their job orders.

Pictures Out Of The Past

More Data Given On Photo Last Week

A number of readers recalled the photograph published last week, that of the former E. S. Evans garage on Liberty street in Oakland. Henry Arnold, through reference to his scrapbooks of the period supplied some additional information.

Mr. Evans, he said, took over the original Ford automobile agency from James P. Treacy and located it at the site pictured last week. Mr. Arnold placed the date of the picture as 1918, and said he believed the Ford runabout shown was a 1916 or 1917 model, which cost at the time, $390.00. This, he added, was the lowest priced Ford until 1922 when the price of the runabout was reduced to $269.00.

Harvey Gortner, who was identified in the picture last week, worked for Mr. Evans in 1918. Another person shown, A. R. Martin, purchased the business from Mr. Evans early in January of 1919. He later enlarged the building to take in the J. O. Hinebaugh livery barn shown to the left in last week's photo. Mr. Arnold said at his peak Mr. Martin's firm employed 13 persons.

While Mr. Martin owned the building, it was completely destroyed by fire, but was rebuilt and later sold to Louis Waingold in 1924. A second fire, while owned by Mr. Waingold, damaged the structure, and a third in 1932 again reduced it to ruins.

The occasion for last week's picture, Mr. Arnold believes, was one of a series of automobile sales for which, he adds, "Mr. Evans was famous."

In later years, his garage business was located on Second street at Alder.

Today's Picture

The picture printed today will enable readers of the northern part of the county to play detective. The only identification available at the present time is that it is of a class at the former Long Stretch school—presumably some 35 or 40 years ago. Should some readers in that section remember the occasion or recognize themselves or a former classmate, perhaps they will share the recollection with others through this column next week.

THE FIFTH BEATITUDE
"The Merciful"

Matthew 5-7, "Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy."

For our devotional thought today, I invite your attention to the words of Jesus as found in the fifth beatitude of the Sermon on the Mount. "Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy."

The beatitude immediately preceding this one, "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled," referred to the interior life and the personal desires of individual souls. This beatitude concerns an attitude towards other people. It is of God's mercy that those who hunger and thirst after righteousness are filled. The filling suggests the infinite and everlasting mercy of God.

We see the mercy of God as it was proclaimed unto Moses and through Moses to all the people. "The Lord, the Lord God, merciful and gracious, longsuffering, and abundant in goodness and truth, keeping mercy for thousands, forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin." The psalmist said, "The Lord is merciful and gracious, slow to anger, and plenteous in mercy." Micah summed up what God required of man in the question, "What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

Mercy occupies a large place in the life and teaching of Jesus—not only the forgiving mercy of God which he taught, but even more man's mercy to man which he practiced. "I desire mercy and not sacrifice" sums up for Jesus the essential teaching of the prophets. His frequent insistence of the supreme duty of brotherly and neighborly love includes the practice of mercy to the hungry and the needy.

To be merciful is to give and serve, but it is more. Mercifulness is principally a thing of the inner life. It is to be possessed of a forgiving spirit. It is a disposition of the heart and soul. It is to have our Lord's way of looking at men.

Now, of course, if mercy is in our hearts, it will manifest itself in outward conduct. It will make itself known in a number of ways. If mercy is in our hearts, we are going to be merciful or kindly in our judgments. Mercy is not merely a thing of duty. It is the spontaneous expression of a loving heart.

The man with mercy in his heart thinks benevolent thoughts and performs good deeds. The Good Samaritan was such a man. He believed in helping those who needed his help. He could not withhold his services from one who was in distress. No, the merciful man does not pass by on the other side when he sees a brother in need, but he goes to his relief and gets under his load with him.

Then, the merciful man is forgiving. He will not let himself nurse a grudge. He throws hate out of his life.

Now, if we desire to be merciful we might begin by remembering our own need of mercy. If we are at all acquainted with our own sinful ways, we cannot but realize that it is only of the amazing mercy of God that we are any better than the chief of sinners.

The blessing promised to the merciful is that they shall obtain mercy. "Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy." This does not mean, of course, that our Lord is paying us to be merciful. It does not mean that if we show a little mercy that same amount shall be exactly measured out to us. Christ is a Savior who gives. The merciful receive mercy because they are capable of doing so. To be lacking in mercy is to make the receiving of mercy an impossibility.

Like produces like in the spiritual realm. Mercy is twice blessed; it blesses him that gives and him that takes. The attitude of men toward ourselves depends mainly upon our attitude toward them. If people are not friendly with you, the chances are that it is because you are not friendly with them.

God is merciful. Men may imitate him in his mercy, and in so doing they will find their greatest happiness.

What place does mercy occupy in your life? Does it have a place in your inner life? It is manifesting itself in outward conduct? Are you kindly in your judgments? Do you look for the best in your fellows? Are you helping those who are in need? Do you have a forgiving spirit? If so, the promise of Jesus is for you. You shall obtain mercy.

It's DOWPON*—the economical grass killer. Instead of chopping or cultivating all season, just apply Dowpon to your fields—in the spring before planting, or in the fall, after harvest—and you'll be rid of tough problem grasses. FACSIMILE OF OFFICIAL BALLOT

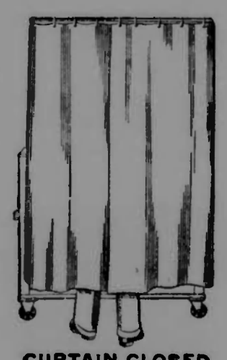
FOR PRIMARY ELECTION, MAY 17, 1960

VOTER ABOUT TO CLOSE CURTAIN



Each candidate's voting pointer is located just above his name; a voting pointer must be turned down over the name of each candidate for whom you wish to vote, and left down.

The machine is so arranged that you cannot turn down more than the proper number of voting pointers for each office. You cannot spoil your ballot by voting for too many candidates.

In an office to which more than one candidate is to be voted for, you can turn down the proper number of voting pointers, but no more, even if one is directly under the other.

No votes are registered until the Red operating lever is moved to open the curtain. You can make as many changes as you desire while the operating lever is at the right side.

No one will know how you have voted, because the movement of the Red operating lever returns the voted voting pointers to their unvoted position before the curtain begins to open.

CURTAIN CLOSED VOTER VOTING

DIRECTIONS for VOTING

1. Move the Red Operating Lever to the right. ('til bell rings.)
2. Turn down a Voting Pointer over the name of each candidate you wish to vote for. LEAVE THE POINTERS DOWN.

Hospital History

leaders expressed themselves at a meeting of the County Commissioners February 18 1946 It was indicated formal acceptance would be made within six week

A committee was named to find the problems including Mr. Fraley, Mrs. E. Z. Tower, Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, Senator Bernard I. Gonder, Dr. A. E. Mance, George H. Hanst, Lester Yutzy, Harvey Gortner, Henry M. Speicher, Quincy A. Murphy and Milton Pritts.

At a city council meeting February 15, a motion was carried agreeing to deed over the Andy Helbig land for $1.00 for the hospital site. Organizations and others continued to express support. A study of costs of hospital construction was made by the committee.

Announce Acceptance

On March 19, 1946 the Commissioners announced they would accept the conditions of the will, and John W. Herbert, president, said a formal resolution would be prepared. Other commissioners were W. C. Meyers and Jonas W. Sines. The resolution was passed April 2. Arrangements were made to keep the original committee and plans made to accept contributions to the hospital.

A hospital survey committee entered the picture in May, 1946, to investigate the possibility of receiving federal funds. There was a lull until June 20 when executors reported progress. Plans were studied, hospitals visited. Architects were consulted.

At a conference on September 11, held with the State Planning commission, it was indicated Garrett county would be high on a priority list for federal funds. Preliminary plans for the hospital were drawn by James J. Baldwin, Washington architect and approved January 1, 1947. They called for a three-story 40-patient hospital with part of the first floor for a health center. Final plans were accepted January 27, 1947. An architect's drawing was published in The Republican February 6, 1947. Plans were expected to be ready for bids by March 15.

On February 4 the Commissioners agreed to set up a county-wide committee. The commissioners named the committee to seek $80,000 by contributions and named George H. Hanst as county chairman. Members included Virgil Steyer, Arthur Humbertson, Fred Beachy, Milton Pritts, Arthur Green, Harvey Gortner, Dr. Charles E. Smith, C. O. Bender, Quincy A. Murphy, Lester Yutzy, Henry Speicher, Emroy Bolden, Asa Orendorf, Harold Adams, Dr. Harold Miller, Mrs. Paul Carr, Rev. A. K. Jones, Mrs. E. C. Clatterbuck.

A list of possible memorial gifts was prepared. The first week $11,000 was announced. The campaign was half completed the second week with the Loar family contributions an additional $21,000. The third week the fund topped $56,000. After the sixth week only $6,000 was needed. The committee announced plans for a hospital addition if the receipts justified. The fund was over $80,000 at the seventh week and a new goal of $106,000 was set.

Plans and specifications were completed by May 15, 1947. In June 1947, Mrs. Elizabeth Nelson Loftbouse, Nassau, Bahama islands, willed $10,000 to the hospital to boost the total to about $100,000.

Bids Higher Than Funds

On July 10, 1947, all hospital bids were higher than combined funds. The low bid was $447,197. On July 17 donations passed the $100,000 mark.

There was a waiting period for expected action by federal agencies. On February 10, 1948, it was learned the Commissioners must sponsor an application for federal funds before any could be obtained. Contributions at this time topped $101,000.

The application for a Federal Grant in aid was approved through the Hill Burton act, the latter part of May, and it was estimated the fund would total $163,000, making available about $435,000.

On July 7 J. Edward Helbig, president of the commissioners, announced that construction work would begin soon. A revision of plans and specifications had been completed. The low bid on the second set of plans was $426,030 by Moyer Brothers, Altoona, Pa. This was for a 34-bed institution, a clinic and laboratory, space for the health department, construction to be of brick, three stories high, with full basement. It was estimated $515,000 would be needed to make it ready to open.

Contract Is Signed

On August 10, 1948, the contractor flew from Altoona and signed the contract. Excavation began August 12. Mild weather permitted work on the hospital foundation to continue into December. A picture next July 14, 1949, showed the building 45 percent complete.

John Francis Gallagher was named to procure equipment in September. On March 23, 1950, it was announced an additional $20,000 had been made available from Loar estate, making a total of $195,000 from this source.

Thurl W. Tower served as local architectural supervisor during the last few months of construction. Individual cash contributions totaled $101,618.40 with only two pledges remaining unpaid. Through Hill Burton act the trustees had received $124,366.95 with total of the grant to reach one third of the total cost. Total cost was estimated at $535,000.

The hospital was opened for reception of patients Monday, May 15, at 9 a. m., after opening exercises the day previous. The building had been turned over to the executors on May 2 and had been accepted from the executors by the County Commissioners.

Dedication Program Given

At the dedication there were selections by the Oakland Band, selections by the Lions club quartet, addresses by Dr. Joseph E. Harned, Dr. R. H. Riley, Benjamin Wright, Judge Merle Watkins, Mrs. W. W. Grant, with E. R. Jones serving as master of ceremonies. Miss Grace Loar, sister of George W. Loar, cut the ribbon which formally opened the doors.

Total contributions from individuals, business places, and organizations totaled $102,156.99. All pledges were paid.

From the beginning the hospital has been successful in taking care of medical and surgical needs of the county and surrounding territory. In 1953 it was realized an addition would be necessary. As a result of action taken by the Board of Governors plans were drawn for the addition of a wing to provide for 20 additional beds.

The completed plant is carried on the books as having an overall value of $933,216.69.

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of hospital has accredited the GCMH which complies with standards necessary to receive such reward, placing the institution on a par with the better hospitals in metropolitan areas.

The ten year statistical report shows 15,482 adult admissions, 4,042 births, 14,323 out patients, 117,808 patient days of care, 124,219 x-ray and laboratory examinations, 4,673 operations, 528,261 meals served and 1,856,932 pounds of laundry processed.

H. W. McComas is the present administrator. The board of governors includes Irvin Feld, chairman, A. G. Gortner, Mrs. W. J. Ritchey, Fred Glotfelty, Carl Schell, Harry Seggie, Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, Dr. J. H. Feaster, Jr., Virgil Steyer, Elra F. Garletts and Mrs. E. Z. Tower. E. Ray Jones is attorney to the board.

There are eleven medical doctors and dentists on the medical staff.

Seven Apprehended For Motor Law Violations

The group voted to share in the cost of a CARE package to be sent to 4-H'ers in Mexico.

Larry Buckel gave a report on gardening as a project and held a quiz on seeds.

Rankin Lusby, assistant county agent, presented the club with a banner ribbon for achievements.

Misplacing Sympathy - - -

"The solid planks on which it was built . . . have been so warped by the pressures of our growing welfare bureaucracy that hundreds of millions of dollars are being wasted on loafers, quitters, honeymooners, schemers, parasites, and a host of others for whom it was never intended!"

So says the April Reader's Digest in "The Scandal of Unemployment Compensation." Read it, then weep at the further exploitation of natural sympathy in the proposed federal program of "health benefits."

As Edward W. Greenfield in "Pause for Reflection," declares: "No decent mortal can help feeling sorry for a man cut of work or a senior citizen whose savings are being swallowed by sickness. But the moment we say 'let government take care of them' we have turned sympathy over to those who can buy votes with it. The chiselers follow as inevitably as vultures follow carrion. The 'welfare state' and chiselers thrive on each other.

"Is that sympathy? There is only one kind of sympathy that is real—the kind that believes a man's dignity consists in standing on his own two feet, and, for the times of trial and desperation, acts person-to-person in Christian concern.

"To make government 'our brother's keeper' is to make it eventually everybody's jailer."

Hospital Important In Community Life People Are Told

The important place the hospital holds in the community today was emphasized last Sunday afternoon by Dr. Russell Nelson, in speaking at the tenth anniversary services of the Garrett County Memorial hospital, held in the Oakland elementary school auditorium. Some 150 persons attended the observance.

The speaker was the director of Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore and president of the American hospital association since 1959.

A part time resident of Garrett county, he has built a summer cottage in the Turkey Neck section of Deep Creek Lake.

E. Ray Jones, hospital attorney and executor of the estate of George W. Loar, whose bequest of $175,000 became the vital spark that resulted in the local institution, gave the early history of the hospital; Irvin Feld, chairman of the Board of Governors, delivered an address of welcome and served as master of ceremonies.

The Southern High choral group sang four selections. A special guest was Francis Gallagher, first administrator of the hospital. Henry W. McComas, hospital administrator, presented service pin awards to members of the staff who had served for five and ten years.

On the platform also were J.

Three Fights Bring Fines, Jail Sentences

Three fights over the week-end brought seven young men into the local courts, with fines and suspended jail sentences resulting.

Two of the fights took place at the close of the regular weekly session of the teen-age club.

Upon information furnished by Boyd Sanders, Jr., warrants were issued by Trial Magistrate Robert M. Maroney for William Butler, Raymond DeWitt, Harold DeWitt, Ronald Dilley and Lindsay Lewis, on charges of assault and battery upon Barry Sanders. They were charged with going out to the Sanders home, and after inviting the youth outside, proceeded to give him a beating.

When called before Magistrate Maroney, it was discovered that he could not try two of the youths because of age, and they were placed in the custody of the juvenile court.

William Butler, Raymond DeWitt and Harold DeWitt pleaded not guilty of the charge but were found guilty by the magistrate, after hearing testimony, who sentenced them to serve 30 days in the county jail. He suspended the sentence upon condition that they be of good behavior in the future.

The two who were tried in juvenile court on charges of being delinquent minors, also pleaded not guilty to the charges but were found guilty by Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley. They were each fined $100 and costs of $23.75, and if not paid to be confined in the county jail for thirty days. The two juveniles also were charged with assault and battery upon Harold J. White, and information on this charge was brought by Harold E. White, father.

All of the arrested youths were kept in the county jail over the week-end as the result of another fight which occurred Saturday night on Second street.

Ervin Kitzmiller and Joseph Hardesty were arrested on charges of being drunk and disorderly and fighting on the streets of Oakland.

At a hearing before Magistrate Maroney they were each fined $15 and costs which were paid. They both pleaded guilty.

Slippery Highways Cause Two Auto Accidents

Slippery highways caused two wrecks Friday night as students of Northern High school were enroute to the annual school prom.

One automobile turned over in the Bear Creek section, south of Accident, sending one girl to the hospital. She was Phyllis Snyder, who was thrown from the car and sustained multiple bruises. She returned to her home Tuesday afternoon after four days at Garrett County Memorial hospital, Oakland. Other occupants in the car were Garey Thomas and Owen Snyder. They were enroute to the home of Hazel Baenttling at the time of the accident.

Sandra Hone remains a patient at the Meyersdale hospital after being in another accident the same evening, enroute to the school.

Having as its theme "The Greatest Show On Earth," the May Day program was presented before Queen Delores Vetter. The program consisted of songs, dances, games, and band selections by the Students of grades 1-6, Thomas G. Pullen School, Frostburg.

Hold-Up Attempt Brings Three Years For Two Traversers

Two county men who attempted an armed robbery at McHenry on April 9, and who ended up in jail within two hours, were sentenced to serve three years in Maryland penal institutions when tried Tuesday afternoon before Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley.

The two had waived their right to indictment before the grand jury and had requested an immediate trial.

W. Dwight Stover, state's attorney, said both the men pleaded guilty to charges of burglary and attempted armed robbery.

The were identified as Arthur Edison Fazenbaker, 26, and Leroy Franklin Fazenbaker, 20, both of the Glendale road area on Deep Creek Lake. They had been held in jail since April 9 in default of $5,000 bond on each charge for each individual.

The men hid in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coffey, at McHenry, prior to the time of closing their store which is adjacent. Mrs. Coffey had the day's receipts and as she entered the home she was met by the older member brandishing a 12-gauge shotgun. Her screams attracted Mr. Coffey. Both men fled but the automobile in which they traveled was recognized and Corporal Sam Conrad had them traced and behind bars within a short time.

They both had pleaded guilty at a preliminary hearing held before Trial Magistrate Robert M. Maroney.

The younger of the two was under a suspended sentence for breaking into a lake cottage some time ago. The elder Fazenbaker had no previous record.

Judge Fraley sentenced Arthur Edison Fazenbaker to serve three years in the House of Correction on each count, the sentences to run concurrently. He sentenced Leroy Franklin Fazenbaker to serve not more than three years in the Maryland Reformatory for males on each count, the sentences also to run concurrently.

Circus Will Visit Oakland On May 26

Advertising has made its appearance around Oakland concerning the visit of the Beers-Barnes circus next Thursday, May 26, with performances scheduled for 3 and 8 o'clock. St. Matthew's Episcopal church is sponsoring the organization's appearance.

At the present time this circus has the longest uninterrupted tour record of any circus showing under canvas. The visit will mark its sixth appearance in Oakland.

This is considered a family show. Not only is it owned and operated by a family, but the show caters to all members of the family. Twenty-five circus and trained animal acts are presented at each performance. Among the highlights are Harold Barnes, wire artist; Bayle Deriske, trapeze performer; Capt. Willis and his educated seals; Walt Davis and his liberty horses and the mid-air marvels from Spain.

The local sponsor receives 50 percent of the amount of the advance ticket sales, hence patrons are being urged to purchase tickets in advance. Tickets are on sale at Englander's Pharmacy and the Family Shoe Store.

Response Is Good On Fund Raising For Industrial Program

The response on the fund raising project for new industry in Oakland was considered good this week by the committee of the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce in charge, and there were indications that the drive might go over the top by next week.

The committee reported an amount of around $30,000 obtained with only $10,000 additional to go to insure the success of the plan. A letter to the B. and O. railroad asking for participation in the plan, was receiving consideration, it was stated.

For the past several days a number of teams from the membership of the Chamber of Commerce have been making solicitation visits to business men and individuals of the area. They are endeavoring to contact all possible prospects, and committee members said that if some people had been missed it would be appreciated if they would volunteer their participation in the purchase of some of the stock.

A list of those who are already participating in the endeavor, is being published in an advertisement of the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce today and shows 87 individuals and business concerns.

In the plan each person who contributes to the enterprise will have a share in a piece of property and some industrial buildings. They pointed out the endeavor was a business proposition and an investment.

The committee on subscriptions includes Floyd Leighton, Don Browning, Fred Thayer, Arthur Naylor, Jr., Wesley Schaible, Frank Peters, I. R. Rudy, Jr., Edward Smouse, Willis Shaffer, Thomas Johnson.

Trustees of the endeavor are Irvin Feld, Earl Zepp and Frank McDaniel.

The deadline for raising the $40,000 is May 30th.

Poppy Day Proclaimed

Poppy Day has been proclaimed for the city of Oakland for Saturday, May 28. Proclamation was made by Mayor Russell L. Smith.

Poppies may be secured from members of the American Legion auxiliary on that day.

The poppies are made by disabled veterans in veterans' hospitals. Money received from the poppies is used in the rehabilitation work done for the veterans.

It has been the custom to have a poppy day in the area for many years.

A 4-H Poultry Judging team consisting of Donald Bittinger, Glenn Canan, and Kenneth Stever represented Garrett County at the State 4-H Poultry Judging Contest on May 14 at College Park. Donald Bittinger was high participant from the county by receiving 554 out of a total of 700. Points were based on four classes: Production, 400; live market, 100; culling, 100; and breed identification, 100. In the production class, 20 hens were judged according to their egg production. Birds were placed in numerical order with the one judged laying the most eggs at the top. Live market class consisted of judging ten hens according to the U. S. Standard Grades of live market birds. In the culling class, ten hens were checked as "keep" or "cull" for egg production. The last class of ten birds consisted of identifying each one according to its class, breed, and variety. Among the state participants the Garrett County team ranked eleventh.

County Follows Balance Of State In Voting Trends

Favor Mathias, Foley And Kennedy—Voting Extremely Light

With an unprecedented lack of interest on the part of the electorate, Garrett county followed the trend of the balance of the sixth congressional district in favoring Senator John Kennedy for the Democratic presidental nomination; Congressman John R. Foley for the Democratic nomination for Congress, and Charles McC. Mathias Jr., for the Republican nomination for Congress.

Garrett county polls were operated on standard time, since the county did not officially make any change in the time situation, and as a result the tabulation was a little later than in the balance of the state. One voter was reported to have literally "blown his top" when he tried to vote 10 minutes before 8 o'clock, since he had to catch a train for Baltimore, and was informed that the polls opened at 8 o'clock. The judges did not let him vote.

The light voting gave the following tabulation:

REPUBLICAN

For Congress

James A. Buchanan IV	97
R. Byng Duvall	67
Charles McC. Mathias, Jr.	471

DEMOCRATIC

For President

Uninstructed Delegation	53
Lar Daly	4
Andrew J. Easter	15
John F. Kennedy	427
Wayne Morse	116

For Congress

John R. Foley	479
Claude A. Taylor	112

Less than 20 percent of the Democratic voters went to the polls, the total being slightly over 600 with a registered vote of 3,435, while for the Republican voters the total was even less. Some 12 percent of the G. O. P. registered 5,475 voters went to the polls.

Even so, the majority was overwhelming for both Foley and Mathias, who will oppose each other in the November general election.

State Vote Also Light

The voting was extremely light throughout the entire state.

Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts scored an easy victory. He jumped to a quick lead over Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon and almost every precinct that reported gave him an additional boost.

With all but three polling places reported, Kennedy had 200,252 and Morse 49,225. Two other habitual office seekers, Lar Daly, of Chicago, and Andrew J. Easter, of Baltimore, were far behind, as expected. Daly had 7,407 votes and President's Program In A Nutshell—President Eisenhower has sent to Congress a special message urging it to do certain things before it adjourns for the major part of the political campaign. We should jointly resolve that the hurry of time and political rivalries will not be allowed to prevent us from serving the American people effectively," the President said. He asked for restraint in new authorizations for Federal spending. He particularly warned against unrestrained extension of welfare programs, which he said had increased in cost 125% while the cost of living had increased 12%. He said:

"We must resist the temptation to overspend the taxpayers' hard-earned dollars and over-centralize responsibilities in the Federal government. If we fail in this, we will weaken our hope of ever controlling Federal extravagance and will indefinitely postpone debt retirement and tax relief. At the same time, we will debase our currency, invite the resurgence of inflationary forces . ."

The President asked for legislation which would—

Provide a program to enable needy older people to meet the calamity of illness— a program which would encourage private effort, recognize the traditional Federal-State relationship in matters of assistance, and do no ships that characterize the rendvidence to the private relationering of health care services;

Establish a program to help schools meet pressing construction needs, preserving for the States and local communities their traditional responsibilities for education;

Authorize loans and technical assistance to help areas seriously afflicted with long-standing unemployment;

Appropriate funds for the Mutual Security Program;

Revise the farm subsidy program;

Extend the Sugar Act;

Increase the number of Federal judges;

Remove the present interest rate ceiling on Treasury bonds;

Increase the gasoline tax to pay for new highways;

Liberalize immigration laws;

Reorganize the Executive branch of the Government;

Provide additional floor space for the White House staff;

Increase the minimum wage;

Extend the minimum wage to cover 3 million more workers.

These recommendations are the President's, and do not necessarily reflect my own position on all the points listed.

50-Star Flag Becomes Official At Fort McHenry—Maryland's historic shrine, Fort McHenry, birthplace of the "Star Spangled Banner", is to be the scene of the first official raising of the new 50-star flag—occasioned by the admission of Hawaii into the Union. By Presidential proclamation, Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton will raise the new flag at 12:01 a. m., July 4, 1960, at the historic old fort in Baltimore. Colorful ceremonies are being planned.

New Naval Vessels Approved—The Senate Armed Services Committee, of which I am a member, last week approved a bill to authorize Navy ship construction scheduled to cost $157,960,000. Included are two destroyer escorts with long-range sonar, a combat support ship, and a new-type amphibious ship which will serve as a dock for helicopters and assault vessels.

Space Program Gets Senate Approval—The Senate last Tuesday passed, 78 to 0, a bill authorizing 970 million dollars for civilian space activities. A few days previously there was a successful test of the giant Saturn rocket, designed for a 1,500,000-pound thrust. The Saturn, ranking with big Soviet rockets, will enable researchers to launch heavy loads, leading to manned satellites. NASA, the Space agency, has announced plans to land a 300-pound instrument package on the moon in 1961; a spacecraft now under construction will carry the payload to within 20 miles of the moon's surface, where the instrument package will be detached and rocketed slowly for a landing. The instruments will radio data back to Earth for about a month. The Armed Services are making space plans. The Air Force has ordered from the Martin Company 11 Dyna-Soars, a piloted space glider, to be rocketed into orbit by the Titan ICBM. The Pentagon expects to orbit by summer a 500-pound satellite, the Courier, which will have 20 teletype channels and a magnetic-tape system capable of storing messages for delivery over certain ground stations.

Dr. Wernher von Braun, the space scientist, believes that life exists in the universe outside the Earth. Says Dr. von Braun: "Our sun is one of 100 billion stars in our galaxy. Our galaxy is one of billions of galaxies populating the universe. It would be the height of presumption to think that we are the only living beings in that enormous immensity. It will be a memorable occasion when the first American meets another being in space."

Payola—And Bad Music—"Give me the making of the songs of a nation, and I care not who makes its laws," said one Andrew Fletcher back in 1700. We accept this truism—and we're in a bad way! Turn the dial. What do you hear? Music fit to listen to is hard to find on your radio. One of the contributing causes of juvenile delinquency is the so-called music on the radio. Too many of the popular songs express low tastes and vulgar ideals. Some express the standards of the seamy night spots and dives, and are downright immoral. Yet this is what youngsters listen to as they get their lessons. We adults haven't liked it, but we've been inclined to reflect: "The boys and girls are fine, clean youngsters, and if this is what they choose, it must be all right."

Now we find it was never what youngsters chose! It was chosen for them by unscrupulous adults willing to corrupt taste, manners, minds and morals for a dollar. Payola. A congressional committee has been digging out the ugly facts about how songs with stupid lyrics and stupider music have been forced on an unsuspecting public and "popularized" (notwithstanding inferiority) by unrelenting repetition by the payola crowd.

While we have spent billions for an educational system to develop, guide, mold and inspire youngsters, we have permitted this vast anti-education system to exist, negating the contributions of taxpayers and the efforts of dedicated teachers.

What is to be done? I do not believe that government censorship is the solution. Radio station owners, music publishers and record company officials—those with conscience—should do a bit of soul-searching and divorce themselves from the unscrupulous. They should be unwilling to be "pushers" of habit-forming musical dope. They should select with care, and the parents should demand that they do so. The selection of music should not be left to the greedy payola crowd. Now that we have discovered that our children didn't chose this awful stuff in the first place, we can put our parental foot down!

Complete Trout Stocking

Most of the trout streams of the county were stocked last Friday. High waters due to heavy rainfall had held up the job which had been scheduled earlier.

This is the final trout stocking of the season.

This week and for several weeks thereafter warm water species of fish such as bass, crappie, bluegills, perch and catfish will be stocked in state-owned ponds and streams in the three Western Maryland counties.

Reverencing God's Holy Name

God demands respect as to His person and His name. The third commandment says, "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh His name in vain." The sin of swearing is very popular these days. What is really forbidden? "Vain" means "uselessly, needlessly without thought, without respect, improperly". This forbids the use of the name of God in cursing. The use of the names of God in the telling of jokes. We are not to use the name of the Lord lightly such as in the war time song "Praise the Lord and pass the ammunition." It certainly also forbids the use of God's name when swearing falsely. It also includes present day polite swearing, "Gees", "Gad", "Gol Darn", "Ye Gads", "Good Lord" and such other injectors and exclamations. The reason for God's zealousness concerning His name is that the names of God mean something. Each one of them reveal something about Himself, His character, or His saving work. To use His name in vain depreciates His person and His work. The seriousness of breaking this commandment is seen in what God says, "I will not hold him guiltless." In other words, I will not let him get away with it.

Warns of Low-Quality Seeding Mixtures For Lawns

A warning that many lawn-seeding mixtures offered for sale in this state may be of low quality as judged by the proportion of seeds of fine-textured grasses in the mixture, has been sounded by the Maryland Seed Inspection Service here.

Most of the 155 samples of lawn seeding mixtures analyzed for purity and germination, this spring, contained too few seeds of Kentucky bluegrass and other fine textured permanent grasses, they state. The samples tested were picked up at various retail stores throughout Maryland.

Many samples also contained large proportions of coarse grasses such as, ryegrass, tall fescues and timothy, continued the Seed Inspection workers. Germination of the different kinds of seed in a number of the mixtures was also found to be too low for satisfactory performance.

Well over half of the samples contained less than 15 percent Kentucky bluegrass seed. Maryland Extension Service recommends at least 55 percent Kentucky bluegrass for the entire state. Actually a good fine textured permanent lawn mixture should contain at least 80 percent fine textured grasses such as, bluegrass and creeping red fescues. Similarly the mixtures contained an average of only 24 percent of seeds of fine leaved fescues. Most of the mixtures fell far short of the 80 percent of persistent, fine textured grasses recommended for permanent lawns.

"In contrast to the general pattern however," concluded the Maryland seed specialist, "there were some samples that represented high quality mixtures", indicating that the person who reads the label can obtain the type of mixture he needs. It may take a bit of searching, and the cost per pound will be higher than for mixtures of coarse non-persistent grasses. This is offset by the fact that seeds of good desirable grasses are smaller than those of poor grasses, therefore the seeds of the better grasss can be planted at half the rate of those of poorer grasses. Consequently, the cost of seed for a good lawn is about the same or even less than for seed for a poor lawn.

Is Your Name MOSSER?

Mosser, an old and honored surname, is principally of English, German and Swiss origins. In its English category it is said Mosser was often the name applied in mediaeval times to newcomers to a community who came from Mosser, a place in Cumberland County, England.

In its German aspect, Mosser is the equivalent of Moser and admits of a few derivations. In one instance it is said that it stems from the Old German "muat" and "hari" which mean respectively "valor" and "warrior". Another authority states that it is obtained from the German "moos", which means "moss", and therefore was bestowed upon those whose homes were on mossy land.

It is said also that the Mosser and kindred families are of Swiss origin, and that their progenitor in America was Hans Moser who was among the early Mennonites who came from Switzerland. He arrived in Philadelphia in 1727 and settled in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania.

John Mosser (1711-1810) and Philip Mosser (1730-1807) served respectively as lieutenant and private in the Northampton County, Pennsylvania troops during the Revolutionary War.

Jacob Mosser was a school trustee in the Accident District, and George L. Mosser was a school trustee in the Ryan's Glade District, of Garrett County for the year ending May 1882.

Benjamin D. Mosser (1889-1958) of New York City was known widely in financial circles as a member of the New York Stock Exchange.

J. Belmont Mosser (1886-1950) was vice-president of Speer Carbon Company, St. Marys, Pa. He was a former president of Kiwanis International.

Sawyer McArthur Mosser, an authority on coins, is executive director, The American Numismatic Society, New York City.

Harry J. Mosser is chairman of the board of directors, Associated Oil and Gas Company, Houston, Texas.

Listen Americans!

...by Dr. George S. Benson
PRESIDENT — NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
Searcy, Arkansas

In his address in Rio de Janeiro a month ago, President Eisenhower said in effect that if Communists took over any Latin American republic "whether by invasion, coercion or subversion" they would risk war with the United States. This is a restatement, actually, of the Monroe Doctrine which became a principle of U. S. foreign policy on Dec. 2, 1823. President Monroe declared at that time that the take-over of any nation on the American continent by a foreign power would be considered dangerous to our safety—and we wouldn't permit it.

The reaffirmation by President Eisenhower of this historic foreign policy principle should be applauded by every American man, woman and child. However, it remains to be seen whether our government really means what the President says. Our government's previous actions and reactions toward the wholesale invasion of Latin America by the forces of international Communism have been deeply disturbing and in some cases, shocking.

Scarcely any well-informed person in America today has any doubt that Cuba is swiftly being built into a Communist stronghold, just 90 miles from Key West, Florida. And the most disturbing fact about the Cuban developments is that the United States government and important segments of the U. S. press helped to turn over Cuba to Fidel Castro and his Moscow-Controlled Communist agents—just as our government had helped to turn over China to Mao Tse-tung and his Communist cohorts 10 years ago. This is a fact with ample documentation.

On my desk as this is written are scores of the most widely respected American publications, published in 1957 and 1958, building up Castro as a romantic rebel, a Robin Hood leading a fight for a social justice in Cuba.

The Latin American correspondent for one of America's foremost newspapers interviewed the bearded Castro in his mountain hideout in 1957, then cabled a long dispatch to his paper glorifying Fidel as "the most remarkable and romantic figure to arise in Cuba since Jose Marti, hero of Cuba's wars of independence." Major television networks sent camera crews to the Cuban mountains and presented to American viewers "documentaries" casting Castro as a dynamic young "liberator."

Demonstrations were staged in Hollywood, at the United Nations headquarters in New York, and at the White House and State Department buildings in Washington. Notorious Communist-fronters — and even a few members of the U. S. Congress — cried out passionately for an embargo against the Cuban government. At a crucial time in the conflict, our State Department ordered the embargo against Cuban government; all arms shipments were halted. This was the decisive action. Within a few months Castro and his Red cohorts were in control of Cuba, dealing out firing squad "social justice" of the Soviet brand.

Mikoyan, world Communism's No. 2 man, went to Cuba and promptly announced Soviet Russia would supply jet planes and armament to Castro's Communist-controlled government; reports persist that missile bases already have been constructed; hundreds of Chinese and Russian technicians are in Cuba building up the stronghold. U. S. property is being seized — without compensation.

American citizens have every reason to ask: Mr. President, let's apply the Monroe Doctrine — now! Our security is endangered!

Primary Election

Easter 3,852. Only 25,071 voted for an uninstructed delegation to the national Democratic convention.

Kennedy collected about 70 percent of all the Democratic votes cast. No Republican competed in the presidential primaries. Kennedy's victory gives him 24 votes in the convention and in theory the delegates stick with him as long as he has a chance for the nomination. The delegates sometime desert after the first ballot. The 24 votes boost Kennedy's unofficial total to 294½. He needs 761 for the nomination.

Congressional Races

In the Congressional races all of Maryland's seven incumbent Democratic Congressmen were voted the right to run again. Two of them, Thomas F. Johnson, first district, and Daniel B. Brewster, of the second, had no opposition. Edward T. Miller, Richard Lankford, John R. Foley, Edward A. Garmatz and George Fallon, were all renominated.

Foley was outstripping Claude A. Taylor 33,122 to 6,169 with 261 of the 264 voting places in.

Charles McC Mathias, Jr., present state delegate from Frederick won the right to oppose Foley in preference to two other Republican candidates.

With all 266 polling places counted Mathias had 13,517 votes to 4,133 for James A. Buchanan IV., and 2,448 for R. Byng Duvall.

President Eisenhower vetoed a bill calling for 251 million dollars in federal aid to depressed areas. He said bill would squander federal taxpayers money.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT
Better Health Through Knowledge
Athlete's Foot
● Brain Damage
● Sex Questions

Q. I am fifteen years old and go bowling pretty often. My parents say I can catch athlete's foot from shoes rented at the bowling alley. How can I protect myself and still go bowling?
A. The best way is to buy your own shoes. However, when renting ice skates, roller skates, bowling shoes, etc., a bland dusting powder could be sprinkled in the shoes before using or thick socks can be worn. This affords some protection.
Q. How long can the brain go without oxygen?
A. The effects of partial or complete oxygen lack on the brain can best be judged in persons who have been "brought back to life" after the heart stops beating. Apparently, the longest period of oxygen deficiency without brain damage is about four minutes.
Q. You may not be able to answer this in Medical Mirror but are there stock answers for a 6-year-old's questions about sex?
A. There are no stock answers because children aren't likely to ask stock questions. Besides, you are never sure just what prompted the question in the first place. Don't read too much into such questions, especially with young children. Remember the story about Johnny who asked where he came from? Mother got red in the face, shifted her feet and finally launched into a "scientific" discussion. The lecture was cut short when Johnny said: "That's funny, the new girl next door said she came from Minnesota." Children expect and deserve simple, direct answers. Avoid the "birds and bees" routine. Pull the "stork" story on the average first or second grader and you are very likely to find out that he knows considerably more about delivery than the wisest old bird that ever lived.

4-H'ers To Observe Special Sunday Event

Four-H Club Sunday is being observed by 4-H members and leaders throughout Garrett County this Sunday, May 22, to emphasize the meaning of Christianity in rural life.

This observance is an outgrowth of Rural Life Sunday which was first observed in 1929. The custom of setting aside special days, Rogation Days, was begun more than 1500 years ago in France. "When 4-H'ers assemble to worship God on 4-H Sunday, they joined those of many generations in seeking the blessing of God upon the land, the seed, the cultivation of the earth, and the enrichment of home and community life," according to E. Rankin Lusby, assistant County agent.

Garrett County 4-H Council in a special letter to local leaders and presidents give suggestions for making plans to help emphasize the heart H values in connection with 4-H Sunday. These include meeting with the church leader or minister to explain 4-H Sunday and obtain suggestions on planning a program.

Others attending the session included Freda Hinebaugh, Minnie Hinebaugh, Gertrude Comp, Mary Jane Lee, Ann Shillingburg, the Rev. and Mrs. Thomas P. Staup.

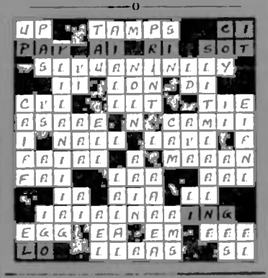
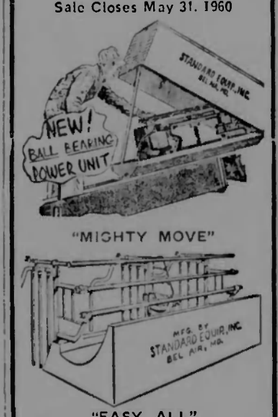
Hail Falls In County Tuesday Afternoon



Parts of Garrett county received the hail storm on Tuesday afternoon but escaped the serious damage that resulted in other nearby areas.

Hail fell in the vicinity of Deep Creek lake and covered the ground with stones the size of marbles, but the result was nothing like that experienced in Johnstown, Pa., and Parsons, W. Va. There the stones were the size of golf balls and caused thousands of dollars damage in the ensuing bombardment. Westernport also had hail.



Rain and wind accompanied the storm in this area as well as thunder and lightning.

The balance of the week was fairly normal. Rain fell on Friday and Saturday with Sunday and Monday being clear and moderately warm. Oakland had a high of 79 degrees on Tuesday and a low Wednesday of 53. Rainfall measured 1.14 inches. Wednesday was cooler with rain showers in the morning.

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

"AID TO THE AGED"

Not since last year's Labor Reform Bill has Congressional mail been so heavy and so sharply divided as on the issue of Federal aid for the health of the aged. Sixteen million Americans are 65 and over and they are exerting tremendous pressure upon the conscience of everyone in Washington, particularly politicians anxious about their election this November.

House legislation to date includes the Forand Bill, recently rejected by a House Committee by a vote of 17-7. The Forand Bill would be financed through an increase in Social Security taxes, meaning that all the other taxpayers would pay for the medical care of men over 65 and women over 62 eligible for Social Security benefits. Its cost to the Federal government would be between $2 and 3 billion in the first year and would inevitably run higher. In the Senate eight Republicans have introduced a health insurance plan for the aged whose cost would be shared by the Federal government, State government and individuals.

Now the Administration has come forth with a very broad program, which would help insure persons over 65 against major medical costs. The proposal covers hospital care, nursing home care, surgery, dental services, drugs and private nurses. Both are Administration scheme and the Senate bill would cost the Federal government about $66 million annually and would be administered by State authorities.

It must be remembered that the States have often demonstrated their ability and willingness to help those who cannot help themselves. This year Maryland is spending $9 million on medical and surgical services as well as hospital care for the poor and medically indigent. In the fiscal year beginning this July the Maryland legislature has appropriated almost $12 million. In addition voluntary health insurance which covered 63 million Americans ten years ago now protects 123 million people and if given a fair chance will soon cover all in need at a reasonable cost.

It can be seen therefore that not only 16 million elderly people but 180 million Americans are involved in the issue of Federal assistance to the aged, and it is the duty of every citizen to speak up. It is my firm belief that aid for the indigent ill is best provided at the local level and that the Federal government should make its contribution by following a policy of sensible spending and fewer taxes, thereby increasing the ability of the individual to care for himself.

CANNED GOODS and other foods well covered against radiological contamination or spoilage are the best kind of emergency food surplus for a fallout shelter. This underground shelter contains a bountiful supply of food, kept naturally cool by being underground and rotated occasionally for freshness. Note the gasoline-operated generator on the floor against the far wall. After exposure to fallout, foods well wrapped could still be used by carefully washing off the radioactive dust on the outside covering. THE COUNTRY-PULPIT

Pastor P. F. Nieuwkoop

GOD and the INSIGNIFICANT

God as the Almighty, Wise Creator, and Sustainer of the Universe has a large job. If the Executive of a country like the U. S. has enormous responsibilities, how much more the Great Executive of all the world. Yet even the very smallest matters are not unnoticed by Him. Luke 12:6-7 says, "Are not five sparrows sold for two farthings, and not one of them is forgotten before God." Comparing Matt. 10:29 we note that 2 sparrows are sold for 1 cent, and in Luke if you buy 5 they cost you 2 cents. You get an extra sparrow for nothing. Then He says, "Not one of them is forgotten by God", even the extra sparrow! How much this ought to bring comfort and assurance to the child of God who has the Lord for His Saviour and Shepherd. Every problem, every care, every concern matters to Him. It is for this reason that He says in 1 Peter 5:7 "Casting all your care upon Him for He careth for you." We used to sing a song that expressed this so well, "Take your burdens to the Lord and leave them there". What a joy to hear Him say, "Fear ye not therefore, ye are of much more value than many sparrows." Matt. 10:31.

NEWS FROM THE Ruth Enlow Library

BY EDITH BRUCK

Illustrations for children's books made by Miss Workman's fourth and fifth grade room at Route 40 School, and pottery made by Mrs. Ream's first grade room at Center Street School are on display in the young people's room.

Books have been given recently in memory of Mrs. Nelle B. Darby and Mrs. George R. Shaffer.

Gifts of books and periodicals have been received from the Oakland Civic Club, the Darby family, C. W. Englander and others.

Spring always brings renewed interest in books on wild flowers. Joseph E. Harned's book, "Wild Flowers of the Alleghanies" is still the most popular book on this subject in the Ruth Enlow Library.

Several pocket guides are handy reference tools for hikes through woods and fields. "Wildflowers, How to Know and Enjoy Them," by Samuel Gottscho has photographs in black and white and color of more than 200 species. "Flowers: A Guide to Familiar American Wildflowers," by Herbert S. Zim is another pocket guide with colored illustrations of 131 of the most common plants.

Two large and beautiful volumes with many color plates and full descriptions are "The Macmillan Wild Flower Book," by Clarence Hylander, and "Wild Flowers of America" by H. W. Rickett.

For those who want wild flowers in their own gardens, "Wild Flower Gardening" by Norman Taylor is a useful handbook.

Modern man was pictured as more in danger of losing reproductive power from exposure to x-ray machines than through atomic fallout.

New Postal Plan Includes Garrett

The expansion of the Washington Metropolitan postal area hail transportation and distribution plan, by the addition of three counties in Maryland, seven counties of Virginia, nine counties of West Virginia and twenty-two postoffices in three counties of Pennsylvania was announced this week by M. R. Clarke, regional operations director of the Washington region of the post office department.

This expansion will provide next day delivery of first class mail for 500,000 people throughout the additional 22-county, 9,000 square mile area.

This program for better first class mail service has been in test operation in the Washington area since February 29. Clark said that barring occasional human errors, first-class letters mailed prior to 5 p. m., or at smaller offices, in time for the final dispatch, if made prior to 5 p. m., would be delivered to their destination within the plan area on the first delivery trips of the following business day.

The expansion plan includes Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties in Maryland.

Clark pointed out that the population of the area was growing rapidly and its postal service needs were becoming increasingly complex. On an average day some 1,300,000 pieces of first class mail are handled between the 597 area post offices.

Principal feature of the new plan involves the designation of certain strategically located post offices to act as collection and distribution centers. Cumberland and Hagerstown are two of those so designated.

Some new transportation routes are included in the changes Donald M. Browning, Oakland postmaster, pointed out that all collection boxes located in Oakland were emptied each day at 5 p. m., Monday through Saturday, and dispatched in time for next day delivery with the metropolitan area. He asked that large amounts of mail not be dropped into collection boxes but be taken to the post office instead.

He also asked that the 5 o'clock mail habit be eliminated as much as possible so that there will not be that "last minute rush." He urged organizations and companies having large amounts of mail to mail early in order to avoid large accumulations of mail at dispatch time.

He pointed out that parcels mailed within the metropolitan area to Oakland were being received and delivered to patrons on rural routes the next day.

The national program calls for establishment of 90 metropolitan area plans to assure next day delivery for more than two-thirds of the annual volume of mail.

U. S. A. Plane Forced Down In Russia—One of our reconnaissance planes assigned to keep tab on Russia's preparation for war was forced down deep in Russian territory. Why was it there? Soviet Russia is an agressive power possessed of missiles able to destroy much of the United States, and has bragged about her readiness to use them. The time lapse between missile firing in Soviet Russia and a hit in the United States would be only 35 minutes. The United States is forced to try in every possible way to get every minute of warning.

Obviously, our observations lessen the danger of surprise attack. Those responsible for our survival would be derelict if they did not carry on these observations. Soviet Premier Khrushchev's announcement of the downed-plane incident was designed to gain for Russia a world-wide propaganda advantage. However, when the chips are down, it seems that the United States and other peace-loving nations stand to gain by the incident. Conceivably, it could stave off a world war. We have had two world wars because would-be world rulers underestimaed the U. S. A. Historians believe that, had the ambitious aggressors, in both instances, known the truth about us, they would not have started the world wars. So, it may serve a good purpose in this instance to let the potential enemy know the truth, we are not asleep; we are not sitting idly by, blind to the threat to our people of a surprise attack. We are reassured—not embarrassed—by the evidence of activity of our Central Intelligence Agency. It is gratifying to know that there are those among us who have not sinked the responsibility of keeping track of the secret preparations of our potential enemy—these who are willing to take the necessary steps to protect us.

Military Contracts In Maryland—The net value of military procurement contracts awarded in the 5 States comprising the Fifth Federal Reserve District for the fiscal years 1957 1958, and 1959 amounted to the substantial sum of $3,483,812,600. The State of Maryland was the recipient of $1,542,952,000, or 44.3% of the total. The following companies, whose main or branch plants are located in Maryland, are among the 100 leading companies of the nation which received three fourths of the total military prime contract awards: (The amounts shown are the amounts awarded during the calendar year 1958, the latest year for which figures are available:)

Western Electric Company, $788,600,000; The Martin Company, $459,200,000; Westinghouse Electric Corporation, $271,100,000; Bendix Aviation Corporation, $213,500,000; Fairchild Engine & Airplane Corporation, $112,500,000; Thiokol Chemical Corporation, $81,700,000; Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation, $62,100,000; Bethlehem Steel Company, $51,500,00; Johns Hopkins University, $34,200,000; Hercules Powder Company, $32,100,000.

Stream Valley Parks Get Setback—Last week I took the Senate Floor to speak against the action of Senate and House conferees in eliminating from Interior funds the item to carry on regional park land acquisition under the Capper-Cramton Act. I stated that it would be ill-advised to withdraw from this highly successful experiment in Federal-State cooperation. The chairmen of the Senate conferees stated that House members had insisted on deleting the item, and he assured me that if I would accept the conference report he would work with us to make Capper-Cramton funds availble through other legislation.

Pressures For Spending Programs—There is a widespread delusion that in some strange way when money comes from Washington it doesn't cost anybody anything. The result: "Bold, new imaginative" programs. Those proposing the programs shy away from saying how many millions, or hundreds of millions, these enticing things would cost the taxpayers. It would help if a "price tag" could be placed on each proposal as offered.

A Government project, the Tennessee Valley Authority, is asking this year for an appropiation of $3,400,000 to bolster its fertilizer venture. TVA, producer of electricity primarily, distributed during the past year 246,508 tons of fertilizer at a selling price of $14,899,000, and cost TVA $1,500,000 to produce it. The taxpayers of the United States are expected to make up the loss—and, of course, to pay the initial cost of the plant, $10,000,000.

Pressures for new spending programs just as foolish as TVA are increasing in intensity. In the first session of this Congress there were 20 major spending bills introduced in the House and 20 in the Senate which, if passed as their sponsors want them, would add over 50 million dollars a year to our present spending. Nothing quite so extreme will happen—but it is going to be harder each year to hold off the pressures for Federal spending.

Women Live Longer Than Men—A special Senate subcommittee has come up with some interesting statistics. At the turn of the century, the average life span for a woman was 48 years; now it's 72. For a man, it was 46; now 66. A 65-year-old woman can expect to live an additional 15-½ years. A 65-year-old man can expect to live an additional 13 years. Of those who reach 65, 30% of the women and 19% of the men can expect to celebrate an 85th birthday. There are 120 women 65-and-older for every 100 men of that age group. In 1980, the proportion will be 139 to 100. Most men 65-and-older are married; most women 65-and-older are not. Of that age group 70% of the men and 36% of the women are married. At the turn of the century, 800,000 women in America were working; today the figure is 8,500,000. Of the women working today, 3,000,000 are between 55 and 64 years of age.

Breakfast At The White House—On Wednesday we had breakfast with President Eisenhower at the White House. The President had invited 16 of us (all members of the U. S. Senate) to join him for a breakfast conference. We had a good "farm" breakfast—orange juice, hominy grits with maple sugar, ham and eggs, toast, sweet buns, and coffee—served in the main dining room. Three of the President's assistants were present.

The discussion had to do with international matters—particularly with reference to the Summit Conference. The President reminded us that no one should be deluded into thinking that one meeting like the Summit Conference sould solve our world problems. He said that none of the principals in the Summit Conference expect any spectacular, giant step of progress, but that all, including himself, are hopeful that groundwork can be laid for future negotiation which will accomplish something worthwhile.

The President said that he believes that there is in the offing a change in diplomacy, that in the future there will be greater reliance on top-level negotiation. Once upon a time we had "personal diplomacy", but in our age of specialization we swung away from it. Now, the pendulum is swinging back, the President believes.

The unrest in Korea, Turkey, and Cuba were touched upon. The President feels real concern over the Communist influence now evident in Cuba.

The President was asked what in his opinion would be the effect on the negotations of the recent American plane incident in Russia. He said that the incident would not hamper the United States in any way, that it would have no effect on the Conference.

One always comes away from a meeting with President Eisenhower charmed by his vigorous personality. This occasion was no exception. I think we all felt his keen enthusiasm for the job ahead at the Summit Conference. You can be sure that he will be firm in his representation of our interests.

CHEVROLET

Chevy hums through Chicago traffic to the tune of 21 miles to the gallon!
Working for Bumper and Auto of Illinois, Inc., ten 1960 Chevrolet pickups battle Chicago traffic day after day. Each truck averages about 2,000 miles a month in this wearing stop-and-start delivery service. Mr. Harry Haller, General Manager of S & H Truck Leasing, who leases the trucks to the bumper firm, reports: "We provide full maintenance on the trucks—gas, oil and everything else—so it pays us to know just where we stand on costs. And our records show that the '60 Chevies are giving us as much as 21 miles per gallon . . . with an average of better than 17 miles per gallon. Mister, these are our kind of trucks!"
Truck owners have good things to say about all Chevy engines. And when they're not talking about Chevrolet performance and economy, they're telling you how great that new Torsion-Spring Ride is. How it soaks up road shock and vibration. Protects fragile loads. Lets you run at faster, safe speeds to get more work done in a day. Drive a torsion-spring Chevy soon. We'll rest our case on that one ride.
The engine is Chevy's famous Thriftmaster 6!

Busy mother of three finds telephone gives 21 extra hours in two weeks...saves $17.38 and 200 miles of traveling

Mrs. H. Richard Duden of Annapolis recently kept a two-week record of all her family's telephone calls. For each call she also estimated any expense, time and traveling that were saved by being able to telephone.

At the end of two weeks, her tally showed that the telephone had given them almost a full day of extra time, and had saved far more in traveling expenses than the cost of their telephone service.

Whether it was a call to summon a washer repairman or rounding up the youngsters, the phone made busy days easier.

Mrs. Duden found, too, that some calls provide pleasure and peace of mind that can't be measured in time or money saved. For instance, her husband who is an insurance representative and football coach, had to make a business trip to Florida. His Long Distance call to the family went into a "special" category of her telephone diary.

Perhaps you might like to keep a diary to see what your telephone does. We think you'd find, too, that your telephone saves much more in time, trouble and expense—than the cost of having it.

Grantsville Persons Will Be Host To Fresh Air Fund Kids

Persons of the Grantsville area are preparing to again be hosts to boys and girls from New York City, in cooperation with the Herald Tribune Fresh Air fund.

Mrs. Ivan J. Miller, chairman of the committee, said these youth from the area in and around New York all come from areas where there is overcrowding.

Mrs. Miller said the first group of children will arrive July 11. They will return to the city two weeks later at which time another group may come in. She said anyone desiring to give vacations would be welcome by notifying her or other members of her committee.

The children are taken into the homes of people and made to feel like a member of the family.

The New York newspaper's Fresh Air fund endeavors to get the children out of the slum areas and off the streets and place them in homes where they are wanted. Mrs. Miller said there were more than 20,000 contributors to the fund and more than 6,000 hosts in various towns throughout the county.

As she explained it, this program gives boys and girls the opportunity "to get their feet into the grass, their eyes into blue and bird-filled skies and their hearts full of laughter," in this country vacation. She said that Grantsville had become a "friendly town" because the neighbors had "opened their hearts and homes to these fire escape children." Mrs. Miller said anyone desiring more information about the Fresh Air Fund Friendly Town program could telephone her at TWinoaks 5-5151.

"AT THE SUMMIT"

This morning in Paris, President Eisenhower faces Premier Khrushchev across a conference table with the secure knowledge that he is the leader of the strongest, most prosperous nation in the world. He does not come to the summit apprehensively but confidently as the representative of a country which has demonstrated its determination at Quemoy and Matsu, at Lebanon and elsewhere to stand firm and resolute in the face of Communist aggression.

And the President has sturdy friends. Under President DeGaulle, France is enjoying economic and political stability unmatched in her modern times. While Great Britain no longer boasts that the sun never sets on the British Empire, she does assert confidently that the sun is shining brightly on the British Isles. The industrial resurgence of the fourth member of the Big Four, Western Germany, need not be repeated here. Taken in sum, the military, economic and political strength of these four free nations outweighs by far that of the Soviet bloc, and despite all his bluster and boasting, Khrushchev knows this full well.

There is substantial evidence to believe that the Soviet premier will not dare to increase tension during the conference for fear of alienating his own people, who having gained some slight degree of comfort and luxury are anxious to hold onto their material gains after forty years of sacrifice. Khrushchev therefore comes to the summit as the head of a government which cannot afford economically an open breach of the status quo.

Furthermore, his defensive position has been underlined because pilot Francis Gary Powers was downed in the "heartland" of the Soviet Union. As a result of the U-2 incident, the United States is "exposed" as the creator of espionage so skillful and successful as to evade the Soviets for four years. The U-2 is a symbol of American ability to best the Communist at the spy game. Equally important, the U-2 incident proves conclusively by the ineptness and inability of Soviet air defenses, Khrushchev's violent denunciation confirms his previous frustration and exasperation over Soviet failure to bring down American planes calmly snapping pictures of Communist landing fields and launching pads.

It is Khrushchev not Eisenhower, the Soviet Union not the United States, the East not the West, which must make concessions at the summit.

The attempt to boost a huge balloon satellite into orbit failed at Cape Canaveral.

Names Students, But Remains Anonymous

Students in last week's old photograph, showing a class in the former Long Stretch school, have been identified by a former schoolmate of the pupils.

According to a letter received from a subscriber living on Star Route, Frostburg, the group included:

First row: Lee Anna Layman, Clara Layman, Sara Murphy, Lester Opel, Blanche Opel.

Second row: George Murphy, Martha Blocher, Grant Winebrenner, Dorothy Blocher, Marshall Layman, Odell Layman.

Third row: Samuel Murphy, Harry Gedham, Harry Winebrenner, Charles Murphy, Marshall Mahon, Vera Chagmire, who was the teacher; John Murphy, Hazel Carey, Clayton Winebrenner Carl Layman and William Murphy.

The date of the picture was given as about 40 years ago.

The letter identifying the group was signed only "A Schoolmate of the Children in the Picture" leaving the identifier unidentified.

Many of the family names are still familiar ones in the northern section of the county, and it is probably that some other former Long Stretch students recognized at least a few of their former classmates.

Today's Picture

The picture printed today brings the series back to Oakland, but as usual with photographs of this age the names of the subjects are unknown.

Dating from about 1930, the picture shows a group of young boys on the boardwalk near the Baltimore and Ohio railroad station. To their rear is the former Merrill Grocery company store, a building still standing, although since remodeled into a storehouse. In the original photo, the spire of the present Episcopal church can be seen to the right.

At the time, much business activity was centered along Railroad street, where the picture was taken.

The program is being sponsored by the Church Council, under the leadership of Leon Larentis.

A graduate of Gettysburg college and Seminary he was called to the mission field in 1945. He studied Chinese language and culture at Yale university and went to China in 1947, serving until 1949, when he was sent to Liberia, Africa where he was completed three terms of service in that field.

STANDARD OPERATING PROCEDURE

Mr. Welling mows his lawn every Saturday — he and his two assistants.

Technically, it's a one-man operation. But not to Billy and Jean. They insist on helping.

And, what is more, they NEED to help! Imitating what Daddy does is standard operating procedure for children. It's an essential part of growing up.

Remember this need as another Sunday approaches. You are alarmed over the spread of delinquency. You are determined that your children have adequate religious education.

The Church can provide all but one of the essentials in religious education. THE EXAMPLE which affords real incentive for your children's every effort MUST COME FROM YOU.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Sincere Religion

Lesson for May 22, 1960

THE Greeks had a word for it. One of their words which we translate by the word "sincere" meant looking the same in all lights. The old-fashioned crooked merchant did not keep his store well lighted. If you were buying cloth, or anything made of cloth, you had to take it to the front of the store where you could get a good look at your purchase by daylight. And you wouldn't buy, unless what had looked good to you inside the store looked just as good on the outside.

Dr. Foreman

A sincere man is likewise a man who looks the same in all lights. He is the same around the clock. You know what he is like and you know he will stay that way. He says what he thinks and hopes people will agree with him; but if they don't, he still says what he thinks.

The Romans had a name for it too, a word which is the direct ancestor of our word "sincere." It is said that the original word meant "without wax," and referred to fine porcelain or alabaster that did not have cracks and holes filled up by wax. A sincere person thus would be one who is what he seems to be. He is not synthetic, he is real. He is not fragile, he is solid.

Sincere Prayer

Of all human activities, you would think that religion would be the most free from insincerity. But everybody knows how hypocrites collect around churches, and every Christian knows how hard it is to be sincere all the time. Jesus never used the word "sincere" but he often referred to hypocrites, who are the opposite of sincere. As usual, Jesus expressed what he meant by illustrations, not by long words.

Let us define sincere religion in terms of a sincerely religious person. (There is not any such thing, of course, as "religion" by itself. It is always in people. Anything on paper, like this column for instance, or even the Bible, can only point you to religious persons.) According to Jesus, the person whose prayers are heard by God and whom God rewards in the end, is a person who really prays to God and not for a show-off. Hypocrites, he said, pray while thinking about how their prayers will impress other people. They want people to know they are praying. Now maybe many a Christian who doesn't pray to impress other people does pray to impress himself. He is extremely careful about his language, as if he were writing the prayer for a class in English. He is careful about how long it is, and so on. Many people are afraid to pray in public, not because God might not like it, but because some human being would smile at it. Isn't that ridiculous?

Sincere Generosity

A religious person prays, a religious person is generous. We all agree on that. But not every one who prays, and gives to the church, is religious in the way Jesus expects his followers to be. Insincerity spoils it all. If prayer is a form of self-advertising, then it is a worthless prayer. And if generosity is a form of self-advertising, then it is worthless too. The sure way to be certain you are really generous is to ask yourself: Would I be just as generous if no one knew about it? To want to get "credit" for the good actions you do shows that you are not sincere. What you really are after, in that case, is not to help others but to boost your own stock.

There are two kinds of people in particular who are perhaps more tempted to sincerity in religion than most people are: Preachers and parents. This is because they are supposed to set good examples, and because they live in plain view of the people (church members, or children) whom they are supposed to influence for good. The Pharisees of Jesus' time were also looked up to as religious leaders. But they fell for the temptation of "putting on a show." To be religious because people expect you to be; to be religious because you have to be; to be religious because you want your example to be seen far and wide; to be religious for any reason at all except first of all and above all to please God, is to be a religious fake.

It's DOWPON*—the economical grass killer. Instead of chopping or cultivating all season, just apply Dowpon to your fields—in the spring before planting, or in the fall, after harvest—and you'll be rid of tough problem grasses. That's because Dowpon, sprayed on the leaves, kills the whole grass plant, from the tops to the deepest roots—at a rock-bottom cost per acre. Also use selectively in some crops.

Letter to the Editor
Keep America Free — You Can Help

To the Editor:

Within recent months the people of United States have, with good cause, uttered a great deal of complaint against the existing Government Farm Program. This program was enacted by Congress and can be changed only by Congress. Many suggestions for remedying the farm situation have made their appearance in Washington this year.

Some of these proposals, if enacted into law, would destroy the freedom of the American farmer, compel him to receive part of the pay for his crops through "compensatory payments", compel him to take out a license to farm, and would likely require more help from the Federal Treasury than the present farm program is costing.

Must an industry continue to be a burden to the public, and its members be forced into peasantry to become slaves of the State?

The pending legislation concerns wheat. The decisions to be made within the next few weeks are so vitally important, because wheat is the "knottiest" of the farm problems; and, because the type of legislation enacted will likely set the pattern for future farm legislation.

Farm Bureau's recommendations for a coordinated approach at solving the wheat problem are included in two bills (S.3335 and S. 3536) now pending in the Senate. Farm Bureau leaders believe the passage of these two bills would permit wheat to be fed on a fair competitive basis, protect the interests of the traditional wheat grower, promote needed acreage adjustments, reduce export subsidies, expand our foreign markets, and lower the total farm program costs.

The general public has a legitimate interest in any program which affects the liberty of its citizens, the national food supply, international relations, and federal expenditures. Therefore, the Board of Directors of the Garrett County Farm Bureau are urging that all interested persons will write to Senators J. Glenn Beall and John Marshall Butler, and to Congressman John R. Foley, at once, asking support of the Farm Bureau recommendations.

This is your opportunity to Help Keep America Free!

Sincerely yours,
G. Emerson Bishoff,
Chairman, Publicity Committee,
Garrett County Farm Bureau.

Hospital Important

Edward Helbig, first chairman of the board of governors; Mrs. W. W. DeWitt, first president of the Loar auxiliary; Harvey Weiss, administrator of Sinai hospital, Baltimore; George H. Hanst, chairman of the local committee which received over $102,000 in voluntary contributions; and members of the hospital board; and members of the clergy, Rev. Charles Godwin and Rev. Michael K. Carney. Dr. Nelson was introduced by Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, chief of staff of the medical staff.

Dr. Nelson paid tribute to the hospital staff for the efficient manner in which it handled the school bus accident tragedy last September.

He said the doctors and all the staff responded in a brilliant and magnificient fashion and demonstrated their life saving services which had earned nation-wide admiration from hospitals.

Dr. Nelson declared the explosive force of medical progress had created a new world of health and that millions were alive today only because of modern medicine, care and good hospital care have become true necessities for living with community care centering more and more on the hospital.

He pointed out that more than 23 million were admitted to the nation's hospitals in 1958, one for every eight persons in the United States.

Some excerpts from Dr. Nelson's address:

"Miracles are expected of hospitals today and much of the time they come to pass. Even the heart itself can now be entered.

"Taken for granted is maternity care in hospitals. The hospital has become the nation's birthplace with 95 percent of births now occurring in hospitals.

"With the proportion of persons in older age groups steadily increasing there has been created new demands for hospital care, expanding the programs in the field of chronic care.

"The first hospital blood bank was established in 1937. By 1957 nearly 3,200 of 5,300 hospitals provide this service.

"Increase in the complexity of care and more numerous services might indicate that the average patient would spend more time in hospitals but quite the contrary is the case. The length of stay is reduced.

"The number of employes required to provide services for each patient has increased. The average daily costs have about doubled in ten years.

"Public interest in hospital costs has grown because more people are using hospitals than ever before.

"Great strides have been made in Maryland in the development of public programs for care of the sick poor, and the service is considered the best in the country. The sick poor can get care from doctors in homes, doctor's offices or private hospitals as his need requires.

"Hospital costs will continue to rise because of the advance of medical science, increased use of medical services by the public, growing needs for skilled personnel and the inflationary trend.

"As hospitals face these and many other pressing problems, they must depend as never before upon community support and understanding if they are to continue to provide comprehensive services of the highest quality to all the people."

At the conclusion of the program many of the persons attending went to the hospital to see the display of new equipment and to be served refreshments prepared by the hospital staff and the hospital auxiliary.

Soil Stewardship Week May 22-29

Soil and water conservation are of vital importance to you whether you are a farm or city dweller. Effective soil stewardship affects our food supplies, raw materials for industry, our incomes of the individual and the community, our water supply, the beauty of the landscape, number and kinds of wildlife, and the frequency and size of floods. These are the seasons that Soil Stewardship Week will be observed May 22, to 29, points out Edward R. Keil, Soil Conservation Service, University of Maryland. The week is sponsored by the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts and cooperating national church organizations.

To fail in our soil and watershed stewardship is to imperil the future by squandering the basic resources on which man must depend for all time, warns D. A. Williams, Administrator, U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

Congress gave legislative form to this idea in 1935 when it passed Public No. 46, the statement of national policy and the establisbment of the Soil Conservation Service, whose 25th anniversary we noted in April. In the following years, State legislatures passed enabling acts authorizing farmers to organize and manage their own soil conservation districts. While the legislators may not have mentioned stewardship, they were being good stewards, William says.

Doubtless, something other than material gain prompted members of the local district governing boards to organize the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts a few years later. The thousands of supervisors and directors who give their unpaid services, at considerable personal sacrifice, to the management of their local district are good stewards. So are some 1,850,000 farmers and ranchers who cooperate with their local districts, he says.

More recently, in 1954, Congress passed PL-56, the Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act, authorizing Federal assistance to local governmental units on small watersheds. Thus, it became possible for stewards of the soil and the watershed to enter a partnership with their local, state and Federal government to keep our "pleasant portion" a land of green pastures and still waters.

Any everyone who helps—on farm and ranch, from the city skyscraper, from the bank, the school, the civic club, from the newsroom or the radio-TV studio—each in his own way may help maintain the "precious things of the earth and the fulness thereof," Williams adds.

Plan Hymn Sing

The Mountain Lake Park Baptist Church is planning an old fashioned hymn sing for this Sunday evening, May 29, at 7:30 p. m. There will be congregational singing led by the pastor, I. Luke Walter, plus special numbers by the church choir, quartets, duets and soloists. The Rodeheaver quartet will be a special feature at this service and also the Lake Lynn Four will be present. There is a mystery quartet, organized of local church members, that will also sing at this occasion. The public is invited.

Parent and Student Responsibilities For "Prom" Are Outlined

As juniors and seniors at Southern High school prepared for their annual Junior-Senior Prom this week, letters regarding student's responsibility as well as that of their parents were sent to homes.

"Our purpose in contacting parents," Charles Bennett, faculty chairman, said, "was to suggest what we feel are good practices to be observed in attending social activities incident to the graduation season."

Among the suggestions listed.

1. When the prom closes at midnight, the school's responsibility for the welfare of students ceases. Any after-the-prom activities should be sponsored and planned by parents of the boys and girls involved. It is suggested that parents set a time limit as to when their sons and daughters should be home.

2. The faculty believes that liquor has no place at a junior-senior prom.

3. Parents who attend the prom are requested to observe all the rules which have been set up for students.

4. All young drivers are urged to drive with extreme caution.

The letter was endorsed by Barbara George, president of the Junior class and approved by Kenneth Johns, principal.

Mr. Johns also extended a personal invitation to any parents to attend the prom. The queen will be crowned at 10:45.

Interest In Outdoor Classrooms Advised

An authority on nature study urged last Friday that Maryland recreation and park leaders spur interest in outdoor classrooms.

Otherwise, said Dr. William G. Vinal the state may lose its natural beauty spots to the tide of urban development.

Dr. Vinal, professor emeritus at the University of Massachusetts, spoke at the opening sessions of the ninth annual Governor's conference on Recreation and Parks, held last week-end at Oakland and the State Park areas. About three hundred delegates were on hand for the two-day affair.

The speaker told about the experiment of Newton, Mass., which has encouraged teaching children some of their subjects out of doors.

Frederick county has a pilot outdoor classroom project under way, sponsored by the State Department of Education and the Department of Research and Education of the Board of Natural Resources.

In another speech Secretary of State Thomas B. Finan told the delegates that Maryland is developing plans for creating lakes on many streams in the western part of the state. The lakes would be used for industrial, domestic and recreational purposes. Development of water and sanitary facilities in the area as well as modern camping sites are part of long-range plans, too, Finan said.

Dr. Maurice Goddard, secretary of Pennsylvania's department of Forests and Waters, was the final speaker on Friday night's program. Dr. Goddard, who has served in his present position under two Pennsylvania governors, has been a leader in the state's park development program. Since 1955 Pennsylvania has expanded its state parks from 45 to 70 and the aim is a state park within 25 miles of every Pennsylvanian.

The official emphasized that his state develops its parks near reservoirs so that the expenditure supplies water needs for industrial and domestic uses as well as plenty of recreational opportunities.

The theme of the conference was linked to the slogan "The Sixties' Surge to Outdoor Recreation."

Following the main talks at each session the delegates broke up into discussion groups. The Friday lunch was served at the National Guard armory where some of the sessions were held.

Experts in the fields of archery, boating, handicrafts and fishing gave demonstrations. There was a boy scout demonstration on camping. Blair Lee III, spoke Saturday morning on "Open Spaces, Their Importance to Maryland."

Maryland's traffic accident death toll jumped to 267 May 21.

Spying—Ours, And Theirs—Now, about that U-2 reconnaissance plane incident. I believe the average American is getting satisfaction out of the fact that we had gumption enough to send a man over Russia and the news that we have been doing it all along. It tends to take away the feeling that the Russians have a corner on all the daring of the cold war.

Soviet Russia, with missiles capable of destroying much of the United States, is committed to a policy of surprise attack, which could be fatal to us, and Russia hides behind a wall of secrecy. This nation, to survive, must know what the Reds are up to. Spying is necessary. All the big powers have their intelligence networks, spying around the clock, around the world.

Spying is the way of life in Russia. Children spy on parents, neighbors on neighbors, secret police on everybody. Communists spy on one another at home and abroad. Spies are thick in every place Communists have an embassy, trade mission, or cultural exchange. Last year, in West Germany alone, 2,787 Communist spies were caught. We've caught and convicted a few Russian spies here. Right now, Soviet spying by fishing ships and submarines is giving concern to our officials. Innocent-looking "trawlers", appearing off U. S. coasts, turn out to be loaded with radar and other electronic gear. Soviet "fishing" craft, with no fishing gear, are "mothering" fleets of Soviet submarines. Some are equipped to do missile tracking. A study of Soviet spying over the years shrinks the U-2 incident to its proper trifling proportions.

No Cowardice Or Appeasement—The insulting of our American President and the killing off of the Summit Conference must have appeared to Khrushchev as holding greater propaganda possibilities than would his reasonable participation in the conference. Khrushchev's actions in Paris are more easily understood when one accepts the basic fact: Khrushchev and the other Soviet leaders picture themselves as ruling the whole world; their ultimate aim is world conquest. The time has come to recognize realistically a spiteful and evil influence in the world, and this can best be done by exposing to the world the true state of mind of the Communist aggressors.

In front of cameras and microphones giving him a world-wide audience, Khrushchev demanded that the President of the United States of America humble himself and the 180 million Americans by publicly apologizing for our having sent reconnaissance planes over Russia. He went to Paris apparently determined to bring us to our knees. If it had not been the reconnaissance plane incident, it would have been sometime else. Had we not faced up resolutely to this insult and threat of a would-be aggressor and held firm against his inflammatory actions and statements, we would have found ourselves in worse trouble.

We want peace, of course, but not "peace at any price"—not the Soviet brand of "peace." Are we afraid? Are we tempted to appease our enemy? Cowardice in human relations has always led to disaster. Appeasement has brought us major wars in the past. There was no cowardice or appeasement in Paris. Instead of being alarmed by the firm stand taken by our President on a matter of principle, the American people welcome it.

Why Russia Talked "Disarmament"—Some sincere, serious-minded American military officials took a deep sigh of relief when the Summit Conference was called off. They had been concerned lest the United States sign a disarmament agreement. They were suspicious of Russia's sudden show of great interest in ending tests of new weapons. They just could not believe that the Soviets overnight had become honest. They reasoned that the answer for Russia's sudden passion for a nuclear test ban could very well lie in these three parts:

(1) The Russians may have developed the ability to carry out undetectable thermonuclear explosions without having to use a telltale atomic explosion as a trigger, and therefore could hide their tests, while closing the avenue of development to the United States.

(2) The Russians are aware that the U. S. military is now heavily dependent upon atomic weapons for use of ground and naval as well as air forces and that none of the smaller ground or naval nuclear warhead weapons designed to replace conventional weapons ever has been fully tested.

(3) The Russians are fearful of losing the lead gained in missiles during the period 1948-1953, when the U. S. abandoned all but the most casual missile research, and near-at-hand development of the highest importance to the U. S. military would be checked by the ban, while the Russians could get more time to carry out their projects—through cheating!

What Are Maryland Farmers Raising?—The answer to what farmers all over the country are raising is found in a report just issued by the Department of Agriculture, showing cash receipts from major farm commodities in each State. Cash receipts by Maryland farmers in 1959 totaled $252,000,000. Dairy products have shown an upward trend since 1945, and accounted for 27.7 percent of Maryland's total in 1959. Broilers rose from 2 percent in 1934 to 20.7 percent in 1959. Wheat and eggs have declined considerably in relative importance. Here are the Maryland figures for 1959:

Dairy products	$ 69,804,000	27.7%
Eggs	11,088,000	4.4%
Broilers	52,164,000	20.7%
Farm chickens	1,260,000	.5%
Hogs	8,316,000	3.3%
Cattle and calves	23,940,000	9.5%
Corn	14,364,000	5.7%
Wheat	5,292,000	2.1%
Tobacco	18,144,000	7.2%
Other	47,628,000	18.9%
Total	$252,000,000	100.0%

Space: Turn Your Imagination Loose—Pioneer V, the little "planet" sent out to orbit the sun, is traveling on course millions of miles away. It will take several months for it to complete its first revolution around the sun. (It takes the planet Earth 12 months to complete its revolution around the sun.) When Pioneer V was 8,000,000 miles distant from the Earth, someone here on Earth turned a switch that turned on a 150-watt radio transmitter built into the little "planet"—and back came the radio signals good and clear.

American scientists are beginning to search for signals from intelligent life in outer space. Many scientists are convinced that "somebody is out there." Special equipment has been installed in an 85-foot radio telescope at Green Bank, West Virginia. Initial targets for the listening post are two stars, Tau Ce Ti and Epsilon Eridani, each about 66 thousand billion miles from Earth, or about 11 light-years away. These two stars may have planets, and conceivably someone on those planets may be beaming signals ("Is anyone there?") at us. Should we receive such a signal, we could quickly beam back an acknowledgment, but it would take another 11 years for them to receive it and know that we had replied, and still another 11 years for us to get the message that they had heard us. You see, radio signals, the same as light or electricity, travel at only 186,000 miles a second.

Listen Americans!

...by Dr. George S. Benson
PRESIDENT — NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
Searcy, Arkansas

If we are going to survive in a war with a relentless enemy, which in a few short years has gobbled up nearly half of the world, we must change our policy toward the affairs of other nations. Our policy of "non-intervention" is aiding in the evaporation of freedom throughout the world and is jeopardizing our own survival. The term "non-intervention" may sound nice and moral; but actually when we stand by and see millions of human beings, whom we could help, being engulfed within totalitarian Communism, non-intervention becomes fundamentally immoral.

World Communism publicly and proudly announces that it is out to Communize the world. Since 1945 the Soviets have got approximately half of it. They have sent Red agents in the hundreds and thousands into every nation in the world. Backed by all the resources of international Communism, these armies of Reds are aggressively and successfully working for the destruction of capitalism and the establishment of Socialist Communist systems in every nation, with the Kremlin in control. With all this going on, and with little being done to promote capitalism, some important United States leaders seem to expect nevertheless that Communism will not win and Capitalism will not lose. Under the circumstances the expectation is not well founded.

A Congressional committee reports that the Soviet has five million agents working in 72 countries to destroy the last vestige of respect for Capitalism and establish Socialism-Communism.

In Cuba we see Capitalism being crushed out of existence and a Red dictatorship being set up, with acute and visible dangers to our security. Our policy is: Don't interfere with Cuban internal affairs.

We hand over $750 million to Sukarno in Indonesia and say to him in effect: "Now you do what you think best: make a deal with Khrushchev, accept control from Moscow, set up a Communist system, or become a Nazi. For ourselves we like Capitalism and constitutional government. But maybe you don't. We wouldn't dare suggest that you try Capitalism!" In view of this "non-intervention" policy, Indonesia is considered by qualified observers today to be for all practical purposes a satellite of world Communism.

As part of any aggressive offensive to save our freedom and fulfill our moral obligation to make a better world for all mankind, the United States ought to conduct an all out campaign for Capitalism. We should frankly and proudly proclaim that we propose to make the world Capitalistic. We should then get busy doing it. We should use every ethical device—education, factual propaganda; should guide infiltration by native Capitalists into every phase of a nation's life including government, and so on.

How better could we be of service to mankind? Capitalism has to have constitutional government to exist; it is based on individual property rights, the dignity of the individual, unfettered opportunity, the system of free choice. We need to put our agents, working to establish Capitalism, into every free nation of the world. But these agents need to be practical-minded, solid-thinking, experienced persons who understand and are sold on American Capitalism and are dedicated to its basic principles and its extension throughout the world.

B&O Would Discontinue "Diplomat" To St. Louis

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad said yesterday it has asked permission to discontinue its "Diplomat" passenger trains between St. Louis and Baltimore because of financial losses due to declining passenger patronage on the runs.

The trains, Nos. 3 and 4, would be consolidated with Nos. 1 and 2 the National Limited.

The B&O said it had filed petitions for approval of the consolidation with the state regulatory commissions in West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

The B&O said schedules of westbound train No. 1 and eastbound No. 2, the National Limited, differ only a few hours from the present schedules of the two trains to be discontinued. The National Limited would serve all stations now served by trains No. 3 and 4.

Saving from the proposed consolidation, the B&O said, will enable it to continue other trains between Baltimore and St. Louis.

Mrs. H. C. Ashby was honored at a shower Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Thayer, Mt. Lake Park. Present were members of her 500 club and guests.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our father and husband, Lakin R. Schroyer, who passed away five years ago, December 29, 1955.

Dear father you have left us
We miss you day by day
It seems to us its been so long
Since you have gone away.
Now rest dear father; it's well earned
'Till we meet to part no more.
And we will be united again
Upon that other shore.

Sadly missed by his wife and children.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT

Better Health Through Knowledge

If You Live Long Enough

- Head Injuries
- Personality

Q. I am 62 years old and have never been seriously ill. However, my hearing is not what it was a few years ago. I seem to hear other sounds like musical notes okay but have trouble understanding speech. Can this condition be helped?

A. Saints or sinners, mice or men, all animals who possess hearing will, if they live long enough, suffer from what doctors call presbyeusis (pronounced prez-bi-koo'-sis). As we advance in years our hearing becomes somewhat dulled and it becomes harder and harder to understand speech. Presbyeusis and other expressions of aging can develop early or late. The tissues of the body age at different rates. Biologically, aging is spotty. Some parts of the body may be considered "old" even before we are born. There is not much that can be done to prevent or cure presbyeusis (difficulty in discriminating sounds) but in some cases a hearing aid helps. The only way to tell whether an aid would be useful is to have a complete and thorough examination by a doctor who specializes in hearing disorders.

Q. After a blow on the head or striking the head in falling, children often become sleepy and will often vomit. I have always heard that they should be kept awake. Is this the right thing to do?

A. It is advisable to awaken a child who has been injured in this way from time to time but it is not necessary to keep him awake. By arousing the child every hour or so you can be sure that he has not lapsed into a stupor or coma. If he can not be awakened it is a sure sign of serious trouble. A doctor should be called at once.

Q. Does the personality change or do we stay pretty much the same throughout life?

A. Basic personality is difficult to change. However, by exercising self-discipline it is often possible to suppress certain objectionable aspects of personality and foster more desirable ones. Then too, as we grow older we tend to mature emotionally and this often improves personality.

Baalbeck Festival Shows Ancient Glories Revived

The Roman ruins of Baalbeck, 53 miles northeast of Beirut, Lebanon, will once again spring to life in July and August as the 1960 Baalbeck festival gets under way.

Each year at this time the people of Lebanon stage an impressive festival at the site of these ruins which are among the most popular tourist attractions in this Arab country.

The 1960 festival will feature the Beryl Grey ballet, Shakespeare renditions by the Bristol Old Vic Company, a famous French song and dance troupe, the Stuttgart Chamber Orchestra directed by Karl Munchinger, and classic skits and dances of Lebanese folklore.

Originally known as "Helliopolis," Baalbeck, the city of the sun, boasts such interesting antiquities as the temples of Jupiter, Bacchus and Venus. The architecture of these ancient ruins show an intricate fusion of the majesty of Pharaonic construction with the ornate carvings and decorations of Grecian sculpture.

Band Letters And Awards Are Given At Northern High

The awards of band letters and felt certificates for Northern High Students were given to band members on Monday evening, May 16, at the Band Boosters Dinner. Receiving letters were the following juniors: Ellen Coddington, Bonnie Friend, Gladys McKenzie, Sharon McKenzie, Ruby Miller, Patty Selby, Bonnie Vitez, Dixie Wiley, and Nancy Yommer. Seniors receiving the felt certificates were; Gary Fike, Margaret Fratz, Terry Frazee, Joe Friend, Dorothy Glover, Sue Saltzer, Patsy Riley, Mary Thomas, and Paul Yommer.

The Ariou Foundation Award for Outstanding Musical Achievement which is awarded annually to the outstanding graduating member of the band was presented to Dorothy Glover, president of the band. The selection was made by the members of the band with the final approval of the band director. The following items were considered in the selection, better than average scholastic standing, cooperation over and above normal standing, general musicianship, musical performance, attendance ambition, diligence, inspiration to others, personal habits, and the best qualified to carry on the best traditions of the school. The John Philip Sousa Award which is presented annually to the outstanding member of the senior band was awarded to Paul Yommer, a senior. The student to receive the award was selected as was the student for the Arion Award. The selection was based on the following: "In recognition for outstanding achievement and interest in instrumental music, for singular merit in loyalty and cooperation, and for displaying those high qualities of conduct which school instrumental music strives to impart." The honorary band member award was presented to Mr. Muha, Principal, by Mr. Schwing, band director.

The following is quoted from Mr. Schwing: "On behalf of the band and myself, I want to thank you for your support. In four and a half years of Administrative work at Northern, you have done all that was possible in promoting our instrumental program. With your leaving, we are losing a true friend and fan. At this time we want to make you an honorary member of the Northern High School Band. It gives me the greatest pleasure to present to you in the name of the band, band boosters, and myself, our band letter, and since you are 'graduating', our certificate awarded to graduates. I hope you will always look back on these with pleasant memories and I hope they will help to ease any pain and trouble we may have brought to you. Thank you, Mr. Muha, and the best of everything always."

Pictures Out Of The Past

Scene Recalls Memorial Day of Half Century Ago

From out of the past is this scene of Memorial Day observance in Oakland, more than half a century ago.

A large group turned out for the event, even a dog (center foreground). Ted Mason, who supplied the photo, said the occasion was the annual Memorial Day parade sponsored by local fraternal organizations. On the original, the flag shown, held by one of the group on the left, reads "In Memoriam, Knights of Pythias."

The scene is on Alder street, looking toward Second. The larger building in the background was then the Ravenscroft building, now owned by Bernard I. Gonder. To the left is the Keystone Barber Shop, featuring "Laundry, Bath and Shine." Clyde C. Liller was the proprietor. On the right another sign announces the location of Baumgartner's Store. The Sturgiss Pharmacy building is at the extreme right of the picture. Other buildings still standing include, on the left, the Matthews Building and the structure now occupied by Ace Radio and Electric, and of course the First National Bank building on the corner of Second street, to the right.

Mr. Mason gives the date of the picture, as he recalls, as "about 1903."

No Identification

The young persons in last week's old photo, showing a group on Railroad street in Oakland, brought no identification from readers, at least not up until now.

This is unusual, since practically all of the pictures published have resulted in at least partial identification by one or more readers.

Birthday Party Held

A birthday party was held at the home of James W. Green, Glendale, celebrating his 89th birthday on Sunday, May 22.

Buffet lunch and refreshments were served along with a birthday cake.

Music was furnished by Francis Green and daughter, musicians and radio entertainers of Dry Run.

The party was attended by relatives and friends.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Getty Green, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Green and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ivory Rounds and family, Mr. and Mrs. George Bowman and family, Daniel Green, Mrs. Southerland, Mrs. Bertha Shoemaker, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Yow, all of Swanton; Mr. and Mrs. Ogilvie Halsey of Deep Creek Lake.

Out of state guests were Miss Betty Green of Tarentum, Pa.; Andrew Newman of McClellandstown, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. John Strawser of Terra Alta, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs Lawrence D. Miller of Freeport, Pa.; and Terry Frazee of Friendsville.

Announce Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wagner, Sr., Mellenry, announce the engagement of their daughter Joanne, to Eugene W. Brenneman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Webster Brenneman, Keyser Ridge.

Miss Wagner is a graduate of Northern High School, class of 1957. She is now employed with the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company in Washington, D. C. Mr. Brenneman is also a graduate of Northern High School, class of 1957. He is now majoring in Agriculture at the University of Maryland.

A summer wedding is being planned.

Interested persons are invited. People from this area planning to attend may make reservations by calling Point View.

P-TA Presidents Are Invited To Next Ed. Board Meeting

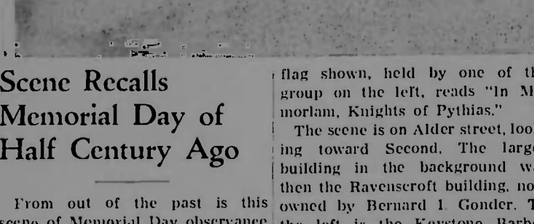
The Garrett County School Board has extended a special invitation to all P.-T. A. Presidents and the County Council President for the school year 1960-61 to meet with the Board at its next regular meeting date scheduled for Tuesday, June 14, 10.30 A. M. Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent explained the Board started this practice a year ago and the meeting proved so successful that it is expected to become an annual affair. Problems that need a common understanding are discussed and P.-T. A. presidents get a better viewpoint of the many problems faced by the local school board. On the other hand, the P.-T. A. presidents can present to the Board any problems or situation in their own communities that need to be considered. Matters pertaining to the educational program of the school, teacher needs and replacements, the role of the P.-T. A. organization, and the Warfield Commission report are expected to occupy the attention of the group.

Choral Festival Success

Mr. Hawkins said the fourth annual Choral Festival held last Friday night at Northern High School was rated by many as the finest ever. Some 700 children from 12 different schools in the county participated. The three combined numbers in which the total group participated were demonstrations of excellence in musical achievement. An added feature on the program this year was an organ recital by Bennett Arthur, principal of the Swanton School. Attending this performance was an overflow crowd. Many people were unable to get into the gym, where the event was held.

The schools participating were: Southern High, Northern High, Accident, Center Street, Dennett Road, Friendsville, Grantsville, Kitzmiller, Loch Lynn, Red House, Route 40, and Yoder.

Teachers responsible for the training of the participating groups were: Mrs. Ruth Brown, Mrs. Lucile Sines, Miss Barbara Colabrese, Mrs. Mary K. Eliason, Mrs. Elisabeth P. Thayer, Mrs. Lillian Grayce Reckner, and Mrs. Esther E. Yoder.



The combined numbers were directed by Mrs. Lucile Sines of Northern High School and Mrs. Ruth Brown of Southern High School.

Harold Garrett, principal of the Accident School, acted as Master of Ceremonies for the occasion

Hotel Alexander in Hagerstown, was sold to a Hagerstown group of business men.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Galatians	5	1
Monday	Psalms	119	44-48
Tuesday	I Peter	2	13-20
Wednesday	Romans	8	31-39
Thursday	Romans	12	1-9
Friday	Romans	12	10-21
Saturday	Romans	15	1-7

Our future presidents and prime ministers — from what spiritual heritage shall they arise?

The ultimate giants of science and industry — what faith will they profess?

The fathers and mothers of our grandchildren and great-grandchildren what convictions will be taught in their homes?

All this we are deciding today . . . in our churches . . . in our families.

For one generation can bequeath only to the next that which it, itself, possesses.

Our own religious life, our own determination to provide our children with thorough spiritual training, our own faithfulness in filling our churches with families — these positive purposes, expressed Sunday after Sunday, will mold TOMORROW'S LEADERS.

Money, You and God

Lesson for May 29, 1960

MOST people find money a fascinating subject; and Christians are no exception. Yet it is strange that so many Christians never think about money from a Christian point of view. You may set this down for a fact: If a Christian takes precisely the same attitude to money as is taken by most persons who make no claim to religion, then his Christianity is sorely missing at that point.

Dr. Foreman

Slaves of Money

In a few sentences from the Sermon on the Mount we can get, not all of what Jesus taught about money in relation to the Christian's life, but some of the main points. "You cannot be slaves of God and money," he said. (That is a literal translation of the Greek sentence at the end of Matt. 6:24.) Very few people worship or serve carved idols. God's chief rival for man's allegiance is not some gold-plated idol from the primitive world, it is money. What you think most of, what you think most about, what you work for, what you depend on, what you treasure about anything else,—that is your God, that is your master, that is your reason for living, in that you put your hope. Jesus says it can't be God AND money, it is God OR money. Jesus does not say you cannot serve God with money, or that if you serve God you must not have any money. He says you cannot belong to God and belong to money at the same time. (Let the reader think: What are the signs of becoming a slave of money?)

You Can't Take It With You

Everybody knows you can't take money with you out of this world. Japanese coins are no good in America except as souvenirs. But the coin of no realm is any good in heaven, not even for souvenirs. Jesus told a parable of a rich farmer whose crops were so fine that his barns would not hold them. So he planned to build bigger barns. He gave no thought to what he might do with his wealth to help other people, only to help himself. And one night God sent for his soul . . . so then he discovered that his soul was poor. It did not even have credit. He was not "rich toward God" that is, from God's viewpoint he had nothing to his name.

That's a thing Christians ought always to remember about money. Its value to a man is only temporary. It isn't true that "you'll be a long time dead." It's more true that you'll live enormously longer, in a world where money is no good, than you can ever live in this moneyed planet.

Your Father Knows

Another thing Jesus said: (Speaking of property of different kinds) "Your heavenly Father knows that you need them all." He was not speaking of luxuries, but of necessities. There are religions in which "holy" men go about with begging-bowls, depending all their lives long on hand-outs from the (presumably) unholy wage-earners. Christianity is not that kind of religion. Refusal to earn a living in ordinary ways is not a mark of holiness in the Bible, and it is not with us. But there is a difference between earning the things that are needed to sustain our lives, and living for these things alone.

Seek the Kingdom

When a man is writing, his mind is not on his pen, it's on what he is saying. When a man is walking, he is not conscious of his shoes, or ought not to be. Pen and shoes are necessary, but they are means, tools, servants not masters. So it should be with money and the Christian. It is a means to an end . . . But to what end? Some readers wish Jesus had gone into more detail. What should be my central aim in life? "Serving God" to be sure, but how? Can he be served by everybody or only by preachers, while the rest of us have to struggle for "Mammon" the best we can?

Jesus hinted at the answer to this question. Seek first the Kingdom of God, he said. "Set your heart" on it, as J. B. Phillips translates it. That is, whatever we do, whatever our occupation, trade or profession, our first aim should be to do it in line with the will of God.

Her pearl necklace was a gift from the groom.

Miss Nancy Koppler was maid of honor and Miss Mercedes Miller was the bridesmaid, in identical white chiffon street length gowns. The fitted bodice featured a satin cummerbund of lavendar and yellow respectively, and a large satin rose at the waistline complemented the bouffant skirt. William Grosz, of Columbus, served as best man. James Hinebaugh, of Findlay, brother of the bride, and Arlyce Aurhien, of Republic, seated the guests.

A reception for 100 guests was held in the social room of the church following the ceremony. Guests were later entertained in the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Stewart Snook cut the bride's cake, Miss Suzanne Watts served the punch, and Miss Cathy Koppler was in charge of the bride's book.

CORVAIR'S GONE AND DONE!
The same Corvair that tallied a thumping 27.03 miles per gallon* in the Mobilgas Economy Run . . . went right on to climb Pikes Peak earlier in the spring than any car has ever tried!
We wanted to show you what the fabulous traction of Corvair's rear-engine design and the sure-footedness of four-wheel independent suspension really mean. So the identical Economy Run car went right on to 14,110-foot Pikes Peak—and right up to the top of that savage mountain, on April 15, still deep in winter's snow and ice. No other car—even specially equipped—had ever been able to conquer that nightmare alpine road so early in the spring. But Corvair (with United States Auto Club officials aboard to certify that not one nut or bolt was changed) purred right to the summit without chains or even snow tires! That just underscores the fact that Corvair is totally unique. But you'll find that out the first five minutes you're at the wheel!

"AFTER THE BALL IS OVER"

Never before have so many said so much about what promised so little. We should remember that the Paris summit conference of May 1960 was not intended to produce a cure-all for the ills of the world. It was to be the first in a series of experiments to determine whether the Soviet Union was ready and willing to back up words of peace with deeds. But for the insistence of our British allies, who are obsessed with summitry, the meeting might not have been held at all.

As I pointed out in my newsletter last week, Khrushchev was the leader obliged to make concessions because of Soviet military weakness as revealed by the downing of an unarmed reconnaissance plane deep in the heartland of the Soviet Union. Instead the Premier seized upon the U-2 flight to insist that President Eisenhower apologize to him! The Butcher of Budapest even declared in a grotesque face-to-face meeting with the President, "As God is my witness, my hands are clean and my heart is pure."

But Khrushchev knew of the U-2 flights nearly four years ago. Reporting on a speech made at the Czechoslovakian embassy in Moscow on May 9, one week before the summit began, Tass news agency quoted the Premier as admitting that a reconnaissance plane had flown at a high altitude over the Soviet Union as far as Kiev in July 1956. Francis Powers had his predecessors and although Khrushchev knew of them for years he kept silent, fully aware that the U. S. S. R. was also engaged in espionage.

The summit could only have lessened tensions if that country in the clearly inferior position, that is, the Soviet Union, had made concessions. Khrushchev, succumbing to demands by Russian military officers and Chinese Communists, plus the threat of a wheat famine brought about by his own misfit agriculture policy, refused to arbitrate. He allowed domestic pressures to dictate his international position.

Incredibly, President Eisenhower and the Administration now face intense domestic criticism because of the Paris failure. Certain politicians while preaching bipartisanship are already sharpening their knives. To use one currently felitous phrase, it is indeed an hour for greatness, not for hindsightmanship and hand-wringing. The issue at hand is not an election but survival of the free world against tyranny.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 81 | OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY MD., JUNE 2, 1960. | PER COPY, 8c | NUMBER 11.

Play It Safe - - - - -

With the Memorial Day week-end behind us, this county has been spared, at least for the time being, the tragedy which usually marks a long holiday. While accidental deaths throughout the nation topped the 400 mark, here on the mountain top no one became an accident statistic—at least not within our county boundaries.

But with the summer months stretching ahead, there is still plenty of opportunity for tragedy unless caution is taken in traveling, boating, swimming or just plain relaxing. The danger of accidents lurks everywhere, especially when people are relaxed and "out to enjoy themselves."

Then, too, with the approaching end of the school term, hundreds of youngsters will be "on the loose"—and they are particularly prone to accidents through carelessness or juvenile daring.

Our recreational areas, and our highways, have been singularly fortunate in the absence of injuries and deaths attributed to accidents. Of course, these occur; but in view of the thousands of vacationers and residents using the facilities, the total is small.

At the beginning of the season is the time to pledge one's self to avoiding accidents—and to help others do the same.

Name Elementary Teachers

Mrs. Betty Louise Foy

Robert Lancaster

The appointment of two additional teachers for the coming school term has been announced by the Board of Education. Both will teach elementary grades.

Mrs. Betty Louise Foy, a graduate of Frostburg State ate of Oakland High school and Teachers college, will begin her teaching career in the Kitzmiller school.

Mrs. Foy attended West Virginia Wesleyan for two years before transferring to Frostburg, where she majored in the fields of English and social studies. She will replace Mrs. Mildred Nethken, who will move in the Baltimore area with her family this summer.

Robert Lancaster, a 1960 February graduate of Frostburg State, will begin his teaching career in September in the Grantsville school. He will replace Russell Hovde, who has taken a teaching position in Frederick county.

A graduate of Allegany High school in Cumberland, where he received a commercial diploma, he will teach a sixth grade class in Grantsville.

George H Hanst is a patient at University hospital, Baltimore, where he was admitted Saturday.

Red Cross Asked To Aid Chileans

The Garrett County Red Cross Chapter this week announced that it is accepting special contributions for relief of victims of recent earthquakes as part of a national Red Cross program.

The announcement followed a request by the Chilean Ambassador to the United States, Walter Muller, that the Red Cross serve as a channel for relief.

Red Cross President Alfred M. Gruenther said persons wishing to donate funds for Chilean earthquake relief may give money to the Garrett County Chapter. Local persons wishing to donate may mail contributions to the chapter at Oakland, which in turn will forward them to the area office marked "For Chilean Relief."

High seismic waves generated by the Chilean earthquake caused heavy damage in Hawaii and also smashed against coastal areas of California, Alaska, Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines.

The appeal is in the form of an emergency request. Red Cross officials stressed, and is being conducted on a nation-wide basis.

Marks Tenth Anniversary

Deer Park Firemen To Be Hosts To Two-County Convention June 9

The Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department will play host next Thursday, June 9, to the 48th annual convention of the Allegany and Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's association, and the 19th annual convention of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Representatives of more than 30 companies and auxiliaries will hold business sessions in the Deer Park Town hall, for the firemen, and in the social room of the Methodist church, for the auxiliary units.

Firemen's business sessions will begin at 1:00 p. m., when the convention is called to order by William Smith, president. This will be followed at 4:00 o'clock by a memorial service for deceased members in the Methodist church, and at 5:00 p. m. dinner at the fire hall for the delegates.

Auxiliary To Convene

The Auxiliary delegates will follow much the same schedule with Mrs. Margaret Arnold, president, calling the group to order at 1:00 p. m. and Mrs. Betty O'Brien president of the Deer Park Auxiliary, making the address of welcome. Prior to the business session musical entertainment is also scheduled.

The auxiliary members will join the firemen for the memorial services and the dinner, and at 7:30 p. m. a Firemen's parade will be held with members and equipment from the two counties participating.

Two groups of parade prizes have been arranged, the first for those member companies of the association winning first place in several categories, and the second for non-member participants. This latter class includes high school bands, drum and bugle corps and other units in addition to non-member fire companies.

The regular annual Street Carnival of the Deer Park fire company and entertainment will be featured during the week-end.

Notes 10th Anniversary

The Deer Park company, in connection with the two-county gathering, is celebrating the tenth anniversary of its formation, having joined the group in 1950.

Events leading to the formation of the company occurred after a fire in the community in the spring of 1950, which destroyed a home, endangered other dwellings and a church, and resulted in the death of one person.

Following this, a truck was purchased from the Frostburg Fire company, a lot secured and a small building erected to house this initial equipment. In 1952, a second tank truck was built by the firemen, and a third added in 1954, followed by an equipment truck in 1958. Necessary additions have been made to the original building to accommodate the increasing amount of apparatus.

Poultry Judging Event Is Won By Bittinger Youth

Top honors in poultry judging for 4-H members in Garrett and Allegany counties was won Friday evening by James Buckel, of Bittinger. The contest involving club members from the two counties was held at the plaut of the Sterling Processing corporation in Oakland.

Other winners included James Blubaugh, Oldtown, second; Ralph Buckel, Bittinger, third; Larry Canan, Oakland, fourth; Glenn Canan, fifth; Milton Canan, sixth, and Ronald Beitzel, Bittinger, seventh.

Cash prizes were awarded the winners. Young Buckel will compete in the state finals at a later date against five district winners from throughout the state. There was only seven-tenths of a point separating the winner and second place runner-up.

The six dressed birds sample is worth a possible total of 50 points while the story, completeness, accuracy, neatness, mortality, average weight and feed conversion make up the other possible 100 points.

The winner received a total of 138.70 points out of a possible 150. The placings of the other participants were: Blubaugh, 138.60; Ralph Buckel, 134.50; Milton Canan, 132.90; Glenn Canan, 127.58; Larry Canan, 125.45; Ronald Beitzel, 116.80.

Ronald Beitzel was winner of the dressed bird judging contest. This consisted of placing one group of five birds according to conformation, fleshing, and condition of carcass.

The Green Mountain 4-H club, under the leadership of Harold Gnegy, toured the Sterling plant and attended the program which included, in addition to an exhibit, two movies. Earl Wise, Sterling manager, welcomed the group and provided facilities for the exhibit.

Purpose of the project is to teach economical production of high quality poultry and fundamentals of good brooding practices. Sponsors are the Maryland State Poultry Council, Extension Service, State Fair Board and Department of Vocational Agriculture.

Rain Puts Damper On Long Week-end

The Memorial Day holiday, long recognized as the beginning of the summer season for the county's recreational activities, failed to have the cooperation of the weather this year with intermittent rain and cool weather restricting many outdoor activities.

Lake property owners reported cottage reservations running about normal for this time of year, but an unusually few boats were in evidence over the long holiday period and picnickers enjoyed their lunches under mostly threatening skies.

Memorial Day services in several towns of the county proceeded on schedule, however, with the usual parade in Oakland Monday morning, followed by services at the cemetery by the American Legion and Knights of Pythias.

No fatalities were reported on county highways during the three-day period, in marked contrast to the rest of the nation which as a whole registered one of the highest fatality rates on record.

Seeks Fair Helpers

Mrs. Kenneth Ridder, superintendent of the Home Arts department of the Garrett County Agricultural Fair, has issued a call for volunteers to help in this activity.

She said there is a need for department assistants and helpers to handle the exhibits. Assistance is also needed on judging day to arrange exhibits, she added. Her address is Route 1, Oakland.

Stemple, chairman of blood recruitment for the American Red Cross in this county.

Mrs. Stemple expressed the hope sufficient response from blood donors would be forthcoming to help Garrett county maintain its percentage advantage among the 31 chapters forming the Johnstown area group.

During the first three months of this year, the local unit obtained the highest percentage of its quota and was awarded a pennant for the accomplishment. The local unit must maintain its position to retain the emblem of leadership, Mrs. Stemple said.

RETIRES AFTER 37 YEARS—E. Ray Jones, right, presents the gold-headed cane of responsibility to Harold Harned in brief ceremonies Sunday morning in St. Paul's Methodist church in Oakland. Relinquishes Gold-Headed Cane

E. Ray Jones Retires After 37 Years As Sunday School Superintendent

A gold headed cane, symbol of authority in the Sunday School classes of St. Paul's Methodist church for over 100 years, was relinquished Sunday by E. Ray Jones, who had carried the responsibility it represents for the past 37 years.

In completing his long period of service, Mr. Jones presented the cane to Harold Harned, who assumed duties as Mr. Jones's successor in brief ceremonies before the assembled Sunday School members Sunday morning.

The cane is inscribed, "St. Paul's M. E. Sunday School, 1829," and was first in the possession of the Rev. John M. Davis, superintendent for 40 years. Davis presented it to his successor, Frederick A. Thayer, Sr., who held the position for 16 years and in turn presented it to E. Ray Jones at his installation in 1922.

Has Long History

The history of the Sunday School, however, dates back even further than that of the church, having been organized as "The Yough Glade Sabbath School" by Col. Isaac McCarty some two years before a regular "Methodist Class" was formed. Mr. McCarty, who is generally known as the founder of Oakland, organized the class in 1818 in the home of his neighbor, George Loar. This first group was composed of twelve members, and met in various homes until a log

Industrial Fund Drive Reaches $40,000.00 Goal

Negotiations Are Being Concluded For Purchase Of Building Site

The campaign of the Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce to raise $40,000 to be used for creation of new industry in Garrett county was judged a success this week by members of the fund raising committee.

Following the deadline of June 1, set by the group as the target date for securing the amount, it was reported that $38,000 had been received, and the remainder expected "within the next two or three days."

Frank Peters, president of the Chamber of Commerce and a member of the campaign committee, said a number of subscribers had increased their original pledges during the closing days of the drive, and expressed assurance that the amount needed at this time would be forthcoming.

The initial project of the committee is the acquisition of land and facilities for use by the Hareo Wood Products corporation, already at work in this section. Peters said negotiations were being completed for the purchase of a tract of the Weber land near the State Roads commission garage, which would be used for the construction of buildings for the lumber firm.

Under terms of the proposal, combinations of "shares" were sold to business firms and individuals, in denominations of $100, the funds to be used for industrial development purposes.

The last published list of subscribers showed nearly 90 names of those who had invested or pledged amounts of $100 or more in the understaking. Each will have a share in the real estate acquired as well as some industrial buildings. It was pointed out that the endeavor was a business proposition and investment as well as a contribution to the industrial future of the community.

Peters said he expected negotiations between the committee, the landowner and the Hareo corporation to be completed within a few days.

Sterling's Chickens To Grow Underground

Chickens raised in caves?

That's the latest for Sterling Enterprises, large-scale poultry producers, when some 50,000 broilers were moved into underground limestone caverns near Manheim, W. Va., for raising purposes.

The Sterling company, which operates a processing plant at Oakland, thus became the first poultry concern in the east, and the first large-scale operator in the country, to utilize the underground method of raising fowl to marketable size.

Sterling authorities feel that the caverns, which were formerly owned by the Alpha Portland Cement company, will provide an ideal place for raising poultry, since the temperature in the interior averages 61 degrees throughout the year.

Brooders and electric lights have been installed, and the first flock of 25,000 broilers was brought in on May 17 with a second of similar size installed on May 27.

The property purchased from the cement firm includes 1150 acres along the Cheat river near Rowlesburg. Included are six main buildings, eight silos used for cement storage and the limestone caverns extending 1½ miles into the mountains rising above the river. The caverns have 13 main headings or tunnels, about 50 to 75 feet apart. The first flock of chickens was placed 1600 feet back from the opening of one of these tunnels.

SETTING THE CHICKS—J. W. Ruby, Sterling president, had a hand in placing the first broilers in the company's caves at Manheim to be used for broiler raising.

In addition to the cement facilities, Sterling acquired 38 single-family and two double-family residences in the community of Manheim, including a large club house.

The silos will be used for grain and feed storage. The packaging house, which is a large three-story building, will be used for an up-to-date automatic push button feed mill. Management states this will be one of the most moodern feed mills in that part of the country and all the space in the three-story building will be needed for this installation.

Schedule for completion of the project calls for August 1. Extensive studies are being made by Sterling officials to determine additional uses of the caverns, buildings and sites.

Big Game Stamp Needed For Deer

In addition to the regular hunting license, persons hunting deer in Maryland must also obtain a "big game stamp" before taking to the woods, according to Ernest A. Vaughn, director of the Game and Inland Fish Commission.

Vaughn said this week that hunting licenses must be renewed effective June 1, and this year the cost will be $1.75 for resident nimrods, an increase of fifty cents. The special "big game stamp" for deer will cost $2.00 for firearm hunters and $3.00 for bow and arrow hunters. Both are available from regular license agencies.

In commenting on the increase, Vaughn remarked, "We estimate that the 50 cent increase in the county resident hunting license and the sale of big game stamps will increase our annual revenue approximately $125,000. We were hesitant in requesting the General Assembly to provide a way for obtaining additional funds but there was no alternative."

Vaughn pointed out that its program currently includes a larger portion of State Game funds for the acquisition and development of land and water for public hunting and fishing;

To cooperate with the Water Pollution Control commission in the reclamation of the Youghiogheny river in this county;

To strive for adequate legislation to properly manage the Maryland deer population;

To formulate long term agreements for use of large forest areas as public hunting grounds; and

Expansion of wildlife habitat improvement programs through cooperation with conservation clubs and youth groups.

Senate Cloakroom

United States Senator from Maryland

"Abject Surrender Or Nuclear Destruction"—One of our high officials, in position to know what he's talking about, has said in effect that, if we did not take the necessary steps to know what the Reds were up to, we would be giving them the opportunity to make secret preparations to face the free world with the choice of abject surrender or nuclear destruction. Until the Russians agree to an international "open skies" plan of inspection to remove the very real danger of thermonuclear attack by surprise or miscalculation, it is the inescapable duty of our government to try to obtain the information necessary for our survival. 'Observation satellites', such as the one we put into orbit last Tuesday, may be the answer.

The contention that the U-2 reconnaissance flights should have been suspended before the Summit Conference is naive or, at best, picayune. Guarding the lives of 180 million Americans is not a hit-or-miss activity. Pearl Harbor was attacked t the very time Japanese emissaries were in Washington to confer with President Roosevelt. The Soviet authorities knew about our U-2 flights for four years, they have admitted. Their own intelligence operations, probably the most far-flung in history, are continuous. They suspended none of them before the Summit Conference. Continuous also are the Communists' subversive activities.

Running True To Form—The Communist sympathizers and un-American Americans in our midst liked Traitor Alger Hiss, shed tears over the fate of Communist Spies Julius and Anna Rosenberg, opposed our investigation of un-American activities, belittled evidences of Communists infiltration in our country, favored the seating in the United Nations of the Red regime in China, rarely passed up an opportunity to praise Soviet Russia, particularly her progress with rockets and missiles and nuclear bombs, and, of course, favored the United States' disarming. Naturally, they offer criticism of the President of the United States for taking steps for our survival. (And, they are getting some help from several headline-seeking politicians.)

The Grass Is Greener In This Pasture—The National Institute of Statistics and Economic Studies, an official French agency, has come up with some interesting figures on wage rates in different countries. Such wage rates are difficult to compare fairly, because of different standards of living, different living costs, and different social security and other fringe benefits. However, for what they are worth, the Institute's figures comparing hourly wages in manufacturing in the United States and major European countries for April 1959, taking the fringe benefits into account, show:

Hourly wages in the United States $2.71
Hourly wages in Britain and Germany $0.78
Hourly wages in Switzerland... ..... 0.77
Hourly wages in Belgium...$0.74
Hourly wages in France $0.72
Hourly wages in Italy $0.61
Improvement In Postal Service—Postmaster General Summerfield tells me that 3 more counties in Maryland have been added to the Washington, D. C. Metropolitan Postal Area: Allegany, Garrett, and Washington Counties. The "area" plan now covers 59 post offices located in 37 counties of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and District of Columbia, serving a population of 2,500,000. The "area" plan provides next-day delivery; a letter addressed to the same "area" and posted before 5:00 p. m. can reach the addressee on the first delivery of the following business day. This plan required the designation of strategically located post offices to act as collection and distribution centers. It also required the establishment of new transportation routes and the adjustment of mail collection schedules. Cumberland and Hagerstown have been designated as sectional centers in the expanded plan.

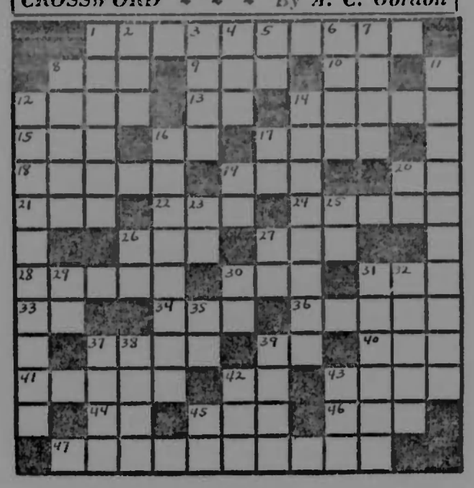
Mr. Summerfield tells me also that Thurmont is to have city delivery service, and Clarksburg is to have a new post office.

Federal Assistance In Maryland—U. S. Commissioner of Education Derthick tells me that two Maryland counties are to receive Federal assistance for their schools under the law which provides that, in those areas where the presence of Federal installations place a heavy burden on local school facilities, the Federal government assists the localities financially with special grants. Montgomery County is to receive $2,175,666—certified for immediate payment, $1,631,749; Baltimore County, $375,584—certified for immediate payment $281,688.

A loan of $345,000 has been made to Washington College, at Chestertown, Maryland, by the Community Facilities Administration to build an addition to a men's dormitory and renovate a women's dormitory. Washington College was founded early in the 1700's. George Washington served on the governing board and headed the list of contributors.

Commissioner Walker of the Housing and Home Finance Agency has approved final plans for the Mt. Royal-Fremont neighborhood renewal area, in Baltimore, encompassing an area of 829 acres, divided into 8 projects—residential, commercial, public, and semi-public structures.

Progress With Rockets—On May 20, the United States made a spectacular 9,000-mile shot of the Atlas. The big rocket was launched from Cape Canaveral. In 52 minutes, it streaked over the Atlantic, bypassed the top of South Africa, and plummeted into its target area in the South Indian Ocean. It was the longest surface-to-surface missile flight ever made.



On May 23, also from Cape Canaveral, we lifted an "observation satellite" into orbit. As it swung into orbit around the earth, it began sending us a series of photographs of the earth's surface. If weight means anything, it was a big fellow weighing around two and a half tons.

Ships That Almost Fly—The U. S. Navy is urging both aircraft manufacturers and shipbuilders to compete for contracts to construct hydrofoil patrol craft that can cope with the fastest submarines. A hydrofoil is a ship that rises up and skims over the surface of the water at the speed of an automobile.

A Feather In The Dunce Cap—In this era of attention to the gifted student and the ferreting out of the exceptionally smart for special training, may I raise a voice on behalf of the dunces. I still favor a broad liberal education for as many students as possible so as to develop those qualities of character and talent which often have helped so-called dunces to become great men. I do not mean to detract from the movement to help gifted students to keep pace with abilities, but it is possible to make a very good case that not all potentials can be measured by present-day yardsticks. May I cite Sir Winston Churchill, a "backward" student, William Yeats, the Irish poet who had a hard time learning to read, and Charles Darwin, "the despair of his parents", as classic examples of school "dunces" of vast potentialities. Many great figures in all fields could be added—including that paragon of American ingenuity, Thomas Alva Edison, who started school at the age of eight, plunged right to the foot of his class, and lasted only a few months under heavy fire from the schoolmaster. May I suggest that emphasis on gifted students should never mean neglect of those whose gifts are unorthodox, late-blooming, or merely in need of uncovering.

"History Repeats Itself"—George Santayana, the famous philosopher, once wrote: "Those who refuse to learn from history are condemned to repeat it."

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

"MARITIME DAY 1960"

One hundred and forty-one years ago the first Atlantic crossing by an American Flag Steamship was made by the Savannah. To commemorate that crossing, which emphasized the emergence of the United States as a major naval and maritime power, the Congress in 1933 established May 22 as National Maritime Day.

However, the hopes and aspirations for United States merchant shipping, proclaimed this time each year, are falling far short of the desired target. For the lack of energetic attention, the American Merchant Marine is being permitted to decline. American flag vessels today are transporting less than 15% of the total exports and less than 9% of the total inbound foreign commerce of the United States. Also, recent reports by various governmental agencies have confirmed serious qualitative and quantitative deficiencies in our merchant fleet.

National survival in this crucial age will in very great measure depend upon our ability to carry our own trade, commerce, and military materiel to all parts of the world and to import for our own use strategic and growing stockpile requirements. Ships-in-being are required as never before. But in the past two years, the Federal budget has made available less than $150 million annually for the construction of new merchant ships. By contrast, the Air Force is spending $72 million this year for operating and instruction manuals.

For $150 million, only fourteen ships can be built. Soon, however, at least 300 over-age or obsolete vessels must be repaired at a cost of about $3 billion, and unless an immediate and continuing program of ship construction is instituted, we will one day be faced with another costly and gigantic "crash program" such as was necessary in World War II.

Some idea as to the value of an orderly shipbuilding program or the cost of a crash program can be gained by the fact that during World War II, the United States built more than 54,000,000 deadweight tons of merchant ships at a cost of $12½ billion. If construction had been done before that war on an annual, orderly basis, the cost for a 40,000,000 deadweight ton fleet would have been $4 billion. And think what a contribution it would have been to the employment situation in that period of national and human distress. If, instead of make-work projects, leaf-raking, portrait painting, and the one thousand and one other dubious ways of distributing billions to the needy then devised, we had programmed a long range ship construction project, the saving of lives and wealth in World War II would have been beyond calculation. By a sound-maritime policy alone, $8½ billion in actual money would have been saved.

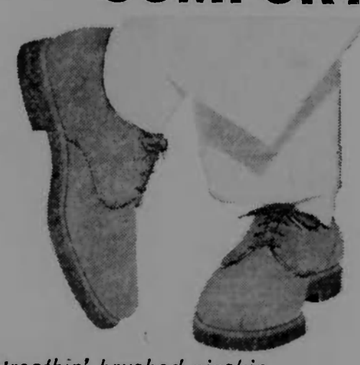
Medical Mirror
WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:
Better Health Through Knowledge
Foods and Dreams
● Fever Convulsions
● Kidney Stones

Q. Why do some foods—like cheese—make people dream?
A. So far as can be determined, there is no scientific evidence that cheese or any other food causes dreams.



Q. What causes convulsions in some children when they run a slight fever? Is there any medication to prevent fever convulsions?
P.S. — I enjoy reading Medical Mirror very much and find it helpful. — A faithful reader.
A. Some type of brain disorder is present in the majority of children who have fever convulsions. In almost half the cases there is a family history of similar convulsions, indicating a hereditary trend. Medical studies show that a convulsion is a serious symptom in childhood and deserves careful medical investigation. The physician may or may not prescribe drugs, depending upon the final diagnosis.

Q. Is there any way to remove kidney stones other than by surgery?
A. Doctors have been searching, for years for a way to remove kidney stones without surgery. Nothing very promising has turned up. Several things make it difficult to find a satisfactory dissolving agent for kidney stones. For one thing, the stones are not all of the same chemical composition so that what dissolves one won't touch another. Secondly, it is difficult to find a solvent or dissolving solution that is not irritating to bladder and kidney tissues. Some progress is being made but at the moment surgery is about the only way to remove stones that are too large to be passed.

Is Your Name WAGNER?

Wagner, an old and honored surname, is both English and German origins. In the former category it stems from the Old English "waegen" which means " a wagon or cart." Thus in the English language, a driver of wagons is a "wagoner", and from it there has come the shortened and more popular form of Wagner.

In its German aspect, Wagner is likewise an occupational surname and signifies not only a driver of wagons but also, in many instances, a wheelwright or cartwright. It is one of the most popular of German names, and in this connection it should be noted that the "Pennsylvania German Pioneers", published in 1931 by the Pennsylvania German Society and listing the immigrant arrivals at the Port of Philadelphia from 1727 to 1808, has ninety references to persons bearing the name of Wagner and its equivalents Wagner, Waggener, Vagner and Vaughner.

Andrew Wagner (1743-1813) served as a major of Virginia troops during the Revolutionary War. He was born in Holland and died in Bunker Hill, Virginia (now West Virginia). Another patriot was Adam Wagner (1754-1806) who was a captain in the Northampton County, Pennsylvania militia. He was born in Hanover, Germany and died in Wilkes-barre, Pa.

William Wagner (1796-1885) was a distinguished philanthropist and the founder of the Wagner Free Institute of Science, Philadelphia. His grandfather came to Pennsylvania from Wurtemberg, Germany in 1742 and located in Reading as a Lutheran missionary. His great grandfather, Tobias Wagner, was chancellor of the University of Tuhingen.

Wilhelm Richard Wagner (1813-1885) was a noted German composer. His theory of music and drama was known as Wagnerism, and the advocates thereof are known as Wagnerians.

Robert Earl Wagner is professor and head of the department of agronomy, University of Maryland.

Robert F. Wagner, Jr., is mayor of New York City. His father Robert F. Wagner (1878-1953) was U. S. senator from New York for twenty three years.

Martin Wagner is professor of Labor and Industrial Relations at the University of Illinois.

The picture, another of those belonging to Ted Mason, shows the group by one of the porches of the former Deer Park Hotel.

Readers are still recognizing the old picture printed in the May 12th issue, showing a group at the Long Stretch school on Route 40.

From Frostburg, Mrs. K. B. Nave writes, "I am the teacher in the photo. If my mind serves me correctly, it was taken probably in 1915. It is indeed a good print. Thank you so much!" Mrs. Nave is the former Miss Vera Chapman.

Robert W. Murphy, of Friendsville, also supplied some identification for those shown. He identified William Murphy, now with the Peoples Life Insurance Co., Cumberland; Sammy Murphy, now of the Super 40 Drive-in Theatre, Cumberland; John Murphy, Frostburg; Charles Murphy, deceased the past year; Paul Murphy and Mrs. Sara Shanholtz, of LaVale. All, he reports, are children of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Murphy, of Long Stretch. Mrs. Murphy is still living and active.

HIS FEET ARE ON THE GROUND!

This man can see for many, many miles, but he's not up in the clouds; his feet are on the ground!

Contrary to what some people think, that's what the Church does for a man, too. Certainly it gives him a broader vision; it lifts up his eyes to see God and the eternal values of love, truth, justice and service which God inspires. It gives him a divine perspective from which to view his job, his family, his country — his life!

But the Church always keeps that man's feet on the ground! It accepts him for what he is — regardless of the clothes he wears or the job he holds. It looks evil in the face and sees it for what it is — a devilish cancer which only God can cure. It keeps a man squarely in this world while it lifts up his eyes to see another beyond the horizon.

And this is what the Church can do for you! It can give you greater vision. But it's not up in the clouds. It keeps your feet on the ground!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

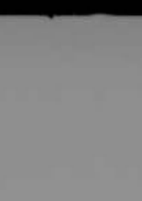
THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN



Bible Material: Matthew 7:1-12; Luke 10:25-37.

Devotional Reading: James 2:8-17.

The Golden Rule

Lesson for June 5, 1960

WHAT IS THE Bible driving at? What is the essence of the Bible, what is it that can't be thrown away or left out? Jesus put the answer to this pretty strongly once. He did not quote any verse from the Old Testament (his Bible). He gave a single sentence of his own, and said "This is the Law and the Prophets." He never said as much about any other sentence.

Dr. Foreman

No wonder the Christian church hit on the name "Golden Rule" for this sentence which Jesus boldly identified with the Law and the Prophets. It is indeed golden. But "rule" can be misunderstood. Most rules are designed to save people the trouble of thinking. Applying rules is a scientific procedure. But this "Golden Rule" is of such a nature that applying it is an art, not a science. So far from saving any one the trouble of thinking, it demands thought. The Golden Rule, in the life of a stupid and selfish person, produces only a mess, and can do great harm.

Intelligence

At least three things are necessary in order to make the Golden Rule work. What is this Golden Rule? "Whatever you wish that men would do to you, do so to them." This is a challenge, first of all, to intelligence. It is really a principle, not a rule. It does not tell you to do any particular act. It does not describe any particular situation. It is open to being misunderstood (as all wise sayings are) by the foolish and the stupid. What could we say of a man who would give his wife a shotgun just because he would like to have one?

Imagination

The Golden Rule calls for imagination as well as intelligence. If the man who gave his wife the shotgun would try to put himself into his wife's place, he would ask, "If I were my wife, what birthday present would I want?" And he might remember that she had said something about wanting new bathroom curtains. Or, if he had an even stronger power of imagination, he could think his way into her mind and guess at something she had never so much as mentioned—an extension telephone, or a trip to her old home. Whatever you would wish people to do to you—if you were in their place—do so to them. That is the real meaning of this rule.

Sometimes it calls for the kind of imagination that can look into the future. Parents and teachers need this greatly. You can perhaps imagine what this child, this student, wants you to do now. He wants you not to punish him. He wants you not to require hard work of him. Now you can let the child do as he pleases without lifting a hand against him, and that will suit his down to the ground. But ten years from now you—and he too—may sorely wish you had spanked him good when spanking would do some good. Likewise the teacher can be easy on the class with the consequence that they learn nothing. Years later they may fail in competition with those who once studied under harder-driving teachers. Then they will wish the teacher had put on the screws.

The Christian Heart

The Golden Rule calls for something beyond, or rather undergirding, intelligence and imagination. Its right use calls for the Christian heart, that is to say, a heart in tune with the heart of Jesus, a heart wherein dwells the Holy Spirit; a heart sensitive not merely to the wants of others but to their needs. Jesus himself gave an illustration of this when the paralyzed man was brought to him by the man's four friends who let him down through the roof. The first thing Jesus said to him was "Your sins are forgiven." Some people would have criticized Jesus for that. Where was any evidence that this man wanted his sins forgiven? Would his friends think a trick had been played on them? A forgiven cripple weighs just as much as an unforgiven cripple, doesn't he? But our Lord knew what the man needed most of all was forgiveness. Only a Christ-like heart can see through want to need.

Telephone diary shows phone calls saved $19.00...48 hours... 313 miles of traveling in two weeks

Lieutenant Veditz checks what's cooking for dinner as Mrs. Veditz takes a call on her kitchen phone. She also has a phone in her bedroom.

Mrs. Veditz of Salisbury, Maryland, is the busy wife of a Maryland State Police officer, mother of three youngsters, cub scout den mother, treasurer of her church group and active in the P.T.A.

Her telephone is almost as much a part of her active life as her family. The telephone diary she kept for two weeks proved the time, money and traveling a telephone can save.

Keeping the diary was fun. Looking through it later reminded her of the ease with which a telephone reaches others, the extra hours it gives a person for activities—and the money it saves.

If you think the experience of Mrs. Veditz and her family unusual, why don't you keep a telephone diary of your own? See if your phone doesn't pay for itself in convenience alone—and in money savings as well.

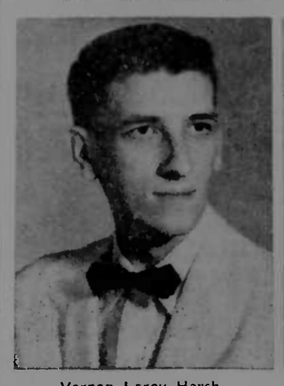
Farmers To Receive 1961 Wheat Allotments

Farmers will receive notice of their 1961 farm wheat allotments well in advance of the July 21 marketing quota referendum, it was announced.



As directed by law, marketing quotas must be proclaimed for the next wheat crop when the available supply is more than 20 percent above the normal supply. If at least two-thirds of the farmers who vote in the referendum approve the 1961 quotas, then quotas with "penalties" on excess wheat will be in effect and price support will be available on the crop at not less than the maximum support to be announced before the referendum.

This is the eighth successive year for which wheat marketing quotas have been proclaimed. They have been approved in a referendum for each of the past seven years.

Thoughts While Sitting - - -

A hospital, many times, is where one sits and waits, and one is inclined to become impatient over the apparent inactivity.

But nobody is sleeping on the job in a hospital. Many times there aren't enough hours to go around.

I am sitting in a big hospital and waiting. But my physician in the meantime has many places to allot his time. He has operations to perform that will save lives and at such a time just getting me over a feeling of numbness seems insignificant, yet he doesn't forget. The schedule continues. There are skull and other X-rays, brain waves, angiegrams that go on and on, and he will go over the results in the supposed quiet of the evening.

The nurses, student nurses, orderlies, etc., as short-handed and rushed as they are, are courteous and helpful beyond the call of duty. There's a lot of compassion in the world, and a lot of cheerfulness with it. And there is a lot of it in a hospital.

The hospital is a wonderful institution and Garrett county is very fortunate indeed to have one of the better institutions.

For most cases the Garrett County Memorial hospital is sufficient in equipment and staff, and adequate in treatment to the extent of ability.

Plenteous tribute was paid just a few weeks ago at the completion of ten years of existence. May it continue to serve the people of this community just as effectively as it has in the first decade.—G. H. H.

New Boating Regulations For Lake Announced, To Go Into Effect July 1

Seven new boating regulations, affecting Deep Creek Lake, have been approved by the Game and Inland Fish commission, to become effective July 1, it was announced. The action was taken in cooperation with the Tidewater Fisheries commission, which controls boats in tidal waters.

The Game and Inland Fish department is planning to purchase six boats to be used for enforcement, including two to operate on Deep Creek Lake, Yough Reservoir and Savage River reservoir. The other four will be deployed elsewhere in the state.

All power boats of more than 7½ horsepower and all sailboats over 25 feet in length are required to obtain licenses, which are being issued at $6.00 each for a three-year period.

The general boat regulations require all crafts to carry equipment as specified by the Coast Guard, prohibit reckless or negligent operation of boats, require numbers to be displayed on licensed vessels and set forth requirements for reporting accidents.

Apply To Deep Creek

In addition, the Game and Inland Fish commission has adopted these seven regulations applying to Deep Creek Lake:

1. All vessels shall carry one Coast Guard-approved life preserver for each person on board.
2. No vessel exceeding 30 feet in length shall be operated on the lake.
3. No vessel other than an authorized patrol boat shall use a siren on the lake.
4. No houseboat of any description shall be permitted on the lake.
5. No garbage, sewage or like waste material shall be dumped, discharged or otherwise placed in the lake from any vessel.
6. No vessel except those manually propelled shall be operated inshore from yellow buoys which designate wharves, piers, docks and bathing beaches except for departure and landing.
7. No aircraft of any description shall be permitted to land, remain or take off on or from the waters of the lake without written permission first having been obtained from the Game and Inland Fish commission and the Pennsylvania Electric company.

The Commission reported that many applications for licenses were being returned because of incomplete information and urged that boat owners fill out the forms completely to avoid delay.

Contribute To Auxiliary—

Following an annual custom, the Oakland Volunteer Fire department has contributed $25.00 to the Loar Auxiliary of the Garrett County Memorial hospital in memory of deceased members of the organization.

Two members of the company were deceased during the past year They were George T. Kerins and Wilbur L. Davis, both charter members.

To Participate In European Camp

Miss Cynthia Nace, Oakland, is one of 32 persons who will participate this summer in a combined European work camp and travel seminar for Methodist college students.

Miss Nace was a sophomore last year at Radford College, Radford, Va.

The group will leave New York July 1 for the six-week trip, which will take them to nine countries of Europe. They will visit London, Paris, Geneva and Oberammergau, where they will see the famous Oberammergau Passion Play.

From July 12 through 27, the group will be at Strasbourg, France, participating in a special study seminar on "The Life and Mission of the Church" to be held near the site of the international Teaching Conference of the Life and Mission of the Church, sponsored by the World Student Christian Federation (WSCF). The Methodist group will hear some of the same leaders who will be speaking at the WSCF Teaching Conference.

On July 27 the tour group will divide in to two sub-groups, which will go to two different European countries for work camps. One sub-group of 17 will go to Finland, where they will spend two weeks repairing and reconditioning a rural Methodist church only one-half mile from the Russian border. That gronp also will spend three days in Moscow, before returning to the United States August 17. The other sub-group of 15 will go to Linz, Austria, to spend two weeks working on housing for refugees. They will visit in Rome before returning to the United States August 16.

The work camp is one of six service projects being sponsored this summer by the Methodist Student Movement, national organization for Metthodist students, and by the Methodist Boards of Education and Missions.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Nace, South Third street.

Seven-Year-Old Girl Drowns In Auto At Lake

Becomes Year's First Casualty When Trapped In Runaway Vehicle

A seven year old Frostburg girl lost her life in an unusual accident Sunday night at Deep Creek Lake when the car in which she was sitting rolled into some 15 to 20 feet of water.

Shirley Green, daughter of Mrs. Shirley Green, Frostburg, and Arthur Green, of National, Allegany county, was pronounced dead on arrival at Garrett County Memorial hospital.

According to officials who investigated, Mrs. Green and her daughter had driven to visit friends near Point View. Mrs. Green had stopped the vehicle and alighted from it when the brakes gave way, causing the car to drop backward over a steep embankment into the water. Shirley, a second grade student at Beall Elementary school, was still in the car. Her mother tried to grab the car and hold it from running away, but was unable to stop it and was thrown to the ground, injuring her back.

Meanwhile, the lights of the car still burning under the water, attempts to rescue were made by an unidentified man who took a boat onto the lake. Two other men, James H. Gentry, of Lonaconing, and Walter Croft, of West Mifflin, Pa., jumped in the water but were unable to find an opening in the vehicle.

Conrad Recovers Body

Cpl. Samuel Conrad, of the Maryland State Police, upon arriving at the scene, jumped into the water and found a window in the car open, and pulled the child to shore. Mr. Gentry and Cpl. Conrad administered first aid until the arrival of an ambulance which took the child to the hospital here. During the trip, Gentry continued efforts to revive the girl, but she was pronounced dead upon arrival at the hospital.

Police said efforts to hook a cable onto the rear of the car had proved futile.

The accident occurred almost a year to the day from the previous drowning at the lake, when Marion F. Reeves, a Pennsylvania fisherman, lost his life in a fall from a boat in the Green Glade section on June 7, 1959.

Besides her parents, the Green girl is survived by five brothers, Charles, William, Allen, Daniel and John, all at home; and two sisters, Arlene Green, at home, and Jean Emart, of Clinton, Tenn.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday from a Frostburg funeral home and interment was in Sunset Memorial Park, Cumberland.

Purpose of these events is to show the proper way to groom, clip, and train the calf for an animal that will be exhibited in the Garrett County Fair.

A dairy judging demonstration will be conducted on June 16, 7:30 p. m. on the farm of Claude Wagner, Jr., north of Oakland on Route 219. This will consist of showing how to select dairy animals that will prove useful, attractive, and profitable. The top 4-H participants judging a class of Holsteins will receive a dairy halter.

Anyone interested is invited to any of the events which are sponsored by the Garrett Dairy Committee in cooperation with the University of Maryland Extension Service. John Morris, Extension Dairy Specialist, will assist with all activities and discuss any personal dairy problems.

Foresters Learn New Techniques Of Fire Fighting

Most forest fires are the result of human errors, Joseph Kaylor, director of the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks, said Tuesday morning in opening the annual forest fire training session at Herrington Manor.

He stressed the importance of fire protection in the woods and pointed out that water conservation and protection of watersheds is another vital job of everyone.

He said it was of particular importance to protect land along streams in order that the land will act as a sponge in retaining rainfall.

The purpose of this annual session, he said, was to eliminate human error as far as possible.

Col. Peter Vander Lugt, of Annapolis, property custodian and safety officer, said that it is everyone's job to be careful in the woods and noted the increasing number of persons working in forests, which caused a corresponding increase in fire hazards.

H. C. Buckingham, state forester, confined his talk to personnel, management and general administration problems of the department.

Later in the day the maintenance and operation of various pumps used in fire fighting was demonstrated, as well as a new product for fire retardment.

Yesterday morning, the foresters got a review of the campaign fire manual and learned how to organize for larger forest fires. In the morning, the men practiced on the suppression of fires and how to attack them.

In the afternoon, the foresters built a mock fire area and executed a plan to fight the fires with men and equipment. A back fire was controlled by tanker trucks and another section of the fire line was built by tractor plow units.

Ahout 125 foresters attended the opening sessions of the training program, which will continue through tomorrow.

County Growers Hear Proposal To Increase Snap Bean Production Here

Hopes for the production of at least 100 acres of snap beans in this county were expressed by a representative of a large food processing company, meeting with more than a dozen businessmen and farmers last week at the William-James hotel.

Jack Whittington, plant manager for Dulaney Foods, outlined the snap bean production plan of his company for this summer as it affects Garrett county.

Ridgely Todd, Dulaney field man, said his company was hoping for 100 acres of beans from Garrett county fields this year, with a future production of up to 400 acres if the initial plan works out satisfactory. In addition to snap beans, it was foreseen that corn, limas and peas would come into the picture.

Mr. Whittington pointed out that they are looking to this county for future snap bean production in order to fill a [illegible] in their production schedule. Beans from Garrett would come on the market in August, he said, at a time of need to maintain a plant packing schedule. By leveling out the bean production, Dulaney can continue to pack on a time schedule which would increase the efficiency of their operation.

The representative pointed out that the large majority of the gross income to the farmer would remain in the county, and where family labor can be utilized, the money would remain on the farm.

Baity Ridder, of Sunnyside, has been hired by the food firm as local representative and has information and contracts available to farmers who may be interested.

It was pointed out that the Dulaney company had been in operation for more than 50 years since its organization by the present president's grandfather. The company distributes frozen and canned vegetables and other food products in major areas east of the Mississippi.

Council Acts On Numerous Routine Matters Monday

A number of small matters occupied the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland, meeting Monday evening, but it took until almost midnight to dispose of them.

An unsatisfactory drainage condition in the rear of the property of Dr. Joseph Alvarez was discussed, and council agreed to construct a storm sewer from Oak street to sump in the rear of the property when right of way easements could be obtained.

The committee operating the Oakland golf course asked permission to construct a dam on the property to hold surface water for the purpose of watering greens and fairways, thus eliminating use of city water. The council granted permission and agreed to contribute $300 toward the project upon it completion.

Council also contributed $100 to the foothall field lighting project at Southern High school.

Mayor Russell Smith and Councilman Harold Harned will meet in the near future with Fred Thayer, who has been compiling data to be used in setting up a new city charter.

Two building permits were granted and another referred to the State Health Department.

Granted was a permit from Ralph W. Smouse to erect a second story addition to an existing building on Bartlett street, 28x40 feet, aluminum siding, to be used as an apartment. S. R. Pagenhardt was given permission to construct a swimming pool, 32x16 feet, on his property in Brant's Addition.

After some discussion, it was decided to refer an application by Regis Kerins to the Health department. Kerins had asked a permit to construct and operate a trailer camp on First street, between the residence of Huldah Littman and the Oakland Machine shop, with facilities for six trailers.

Receipts of the town for May totaled $4,577.17, including $926.55 from parking meters; $596 from beer licenses, $1,179 from water, $1,286.05 from taxes and $105.00 from city license fees. Theatre tax for May was $55.15.

Listen Americans!
...by Dr. George S. Benson
PRESIDENT — NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
Searcy, Arkansas

in a number of recent public statements J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, has sought to arouse the whole population to the disturbing facts about our national security. Mr. Hoover recently has issued a statement addressed specifically to "All Law Enforcement Officials" in the nation. It is of such importance it should be read by every citizen. Here it is:

"It is an incontestable fact that our country, the symbol of the free world, is the ultimate, priceless goal of international communism. The leaders of international communism have vowed to achieve world domination. This cannot be until the Red flag is flown over the United States. If, for a moment, the grandiose Red plan is scoffed at as being fantastic, consider that one-fourth of the land surface of the world and one-third of the people of the earth are now controlled by the world-wide Communist bloc . . .

"The Communist plan is to conquer the United States, if not today, then tomorrow; if not tomorrow, then the next day, next month next year. . .This is evident in the machinations of the Communist Party, U.S.A., as shown by the analysis of its 17th National Convention.

"It is indeed appalling that some members of our society continue to deplore and criticize those who stress the Communist danger. What these misguided 'authorities' fail to realize is that the Communist Party, U. S. A., is an integral part of international communism. As the world-wide menace becomes more powerful, the various Communist parties assume a more dangerous and sinister role in the countries in which they are entrenched. Public indifference to this threat is tantamount to national suicide.

"Lethargy leads only to disaster. The Communists have a savage plan of liquidation for a vanquished America. The blueprint can be found in the words of Mao Tse-tung, Chairman of the Chinese Communist Party, who reportedly said that it was necessary to liquidate 800,000 'enemies' to solidify communism in China. Another pattern is the plight of countless families in satellite countries who were torn apart and transported to the oblivion of Soviet labor camps.

"One need but to compare his own worth, his own ideals, his own religious beliefs with the atheistic doctrines of communism to determine his priority on the list of liquidation. The defense of the cherished freedoms secured and handed down to us by our forefathers is the responsibility of each American. Knowledge of the enemy, alertness to the danger, and everyday patriotism are the brick and mortar with which we can build an impregnable fortress against communism. Only the intelligent efforts of all Americans can prevent the decay of public apathy from laying open our nation to the Red Menace."

Miss Delores McRobie Is May Bride

Miss Delores Ann McRobie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee McRobie, of Kitzmiller, became the bride of Harry T. Greenwade, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Greenwade, of Richmond, Va., Saturday, May 7. The double ring ceremony was performed at the Methodist church in Kitzmiller with the Rev. Virgil B. Shrader officiating.

The church was decorated with white lilies, mums and pine. Mrs. Thelma Arnold played the traditional wedding music and Mrs. Harold Sharpless sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, Lee McRobie, the bride wore a floor length gown of white Chantilly lace fashioned with a fitted bodice, portrait neckline outlined with lace scallops, long pointed sleeves, and a full skirt with alternating tiers of Chantilly lace sweeping into a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion fell from a lace medallion headpiece enchanced with bridal pearls, and she carried a white Bible covered with white roses and streamers of small white and pink roses.

Miss Betty McRobie, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a sea blue silk organza dress with matching crown and veil. Misses Ruth and Rosalee McRobie, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore identical silk organza dresses of blue and pink with matching crown and veil. All three carried matching identical nosegays of feathered carnations and roses.

Miss Vicki Paugh was flower girl.

Frank Haughawout served as best man. Larry Warnick and Bud Perando were ushers, and Andy Damon was ring bearer.

The bride's mother wore a sky blue lace dress with white accessories and an orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was given at the church. The table was centered with a three tiered cake topped with a miniature bride and groom figurine. Miss Betty Meltobie served the cake and Miss Barbara Joyce served punch.

Following a reception the couple left for a trip to South Carolina. For travel the bride wore a light blue suit with matching accessories and a corsage of white sweetheart roses.

The couple will reside in Hyattsville.

Job Opportunities Open To Youth

"High School boys and girls looking for summertime employment will find that many jobs are open to them which are permitted under the Fair Labor Standards Act—or Federal Child-Labor Law," says Regional Director William Hargadine, Jr., of the U. S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions.

Mr. Hargadine pointed out that a youth of 16 or 17 years of age can work in any job which has not been declared hazardous by the Secretary of Labor. These hazardous jobs, which include occupations such as elevator operator, truck driver or driver's helper, logger or sawmill worker, require an 18-year old minimum.

"Even children of 14 and 15 years of age can find a variety of jobs which are not prohibited by the Federal law. Although the law sets a 16-year age minimum for many types of work, it permits youngsters of 14 and 15 to work in such jobs as office, clerical or sales work, and in vegetable and fruitpacking sheds when school is not in session," Mr. Hargadine said.

"And during the summer months," he added, "the Federal restrictions on work hours are not as strict. The 14 and 15 year old may work as many as 8 hours a day or 40 hours a week, but all work must be performed between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m."

Mr. Hargadine said that the best way for an employer to protect himself against hiring underage minors is to require an age certificate, which serves as proof of age for purposes of the Act.

THURSDAY, JUNE 9, 1960

Senate Cloakroom

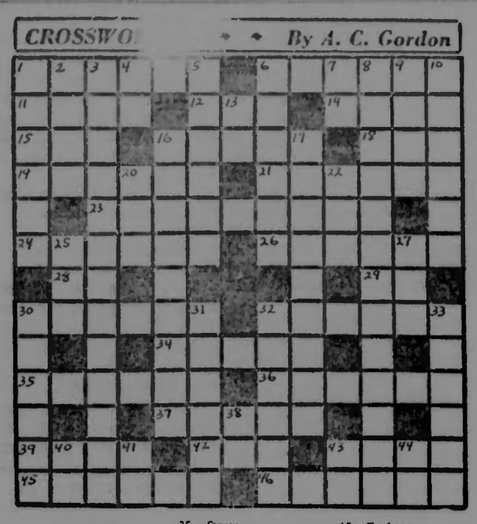
By J. GLENN BEALL
United States Senator from Maryland

Keeping The Peace—Peace is the aim of our time, but peace is not just the absence of war. Peace like everything else that is really important, like life itself, cannot be insured, cannot be maintained without the utmost exertion of all our abilities. How can we maintain peace in the free world? By one way, and by one way alone, and that is by being prepared with the best and most modern weapons.

A Stronger Defense—Mr. Khrushchev's insults to our President and to America in general had the effect of prompting moves in Congress to increase appropriations. The House passed and sent to the Senate a $39.3-billion-dollar bill to finance the armed forces in the year ahead. The bill carried 1.5 billion more than the President had asked for missiles, submarine warfare and a possible airborne alert. Offsetting decreases were designated by the House bill. Several Majority Senators have urged the restoration of many of the cuts made by the House and certain increases. It has been proposed that we provide for 10 Polaris submarines and expedite development of the Minuteman missile program—also that funds be included for the Bomarc missile, for the Nike-Zeus antimissile, and for B-70 bombers.

Two-thousand one-hundred and Forty Eight Miles Per Hour!—The X-15 rocket plane is reported to have set a new speed mark of 2,148 miles per hour, without trying. Test Pilot Joe Walker was not trying to set a record on the flight. It was merely another of the X-15 test flights in which speed and altitude are gradually being stepped up. The X-15 is expected ultimately to soar 50 to 100 miles high at speeds up to 4,000 miles per hour.

Extension Of GI Housing "The law that changed the architectural face of America," the GI housing bill, due to expire on July 1, now is given an excellent chance of being extended until January, 1965. About 5,170,000 veterans of World War II and the Korean War have bought homes under the GI law, and possibly 9 million additional veterans would be eligible for GI housing loans should the law be extended. Legislation has been introduced in the Senate, which, if passed, would incorporate in the law a provision permitting direct Goverment loans, rather than loan guarantees, as at present.



Cities Shrinking; Suburbs Swelling—A quick glance at the torrent of figures pouring into Washington from the 1960 U. S. census shows that people are moving out of the cities, at least in the East. For example, since 1950, Rochester, N. Y., has dropped from 322,488 to 316,074 and Philadelphia has shrunk from 2,071,605 to 1,923,940. Figures for New York City are not complete yet, but they are expected to show the same trend. Our Nation's Capital, Washington, D. C., is losing population. Where are the people going? Washington's suburbs, mainly in Maryland, which had fewer than 700,000 residents 10 years ago, now total about 1,248,000.

Baltimore Channel "Victory"—Under the heading, "No Reason To Cry," the Baltimore Sun of May 28 carried an editorial which said, in part:

"There is some disappointment over the allotment of no more than $1.5 million to start the . . . deepening (of) the Baltimore channel to the sea. Spokesmen for the port had urged, publicly and loudly, an initial appropriation of at least $5 million. . .The realists, however, will consider the $1.5 million a victory. . .The channel project is one of the biggest new undertakings called for in the omnibus rivers and harbors bill. . .Although the Eisenhower Administration had been opposed to starts on new improvements, the President made an exception in the Baltimore case. . . Now that the channel job is on its way to an actual start. . .the project will be pushed steadily toward completion. In short, the outlook is most promising."

Cough Syrups With Dangerous Narcotic—This past week, I introduced in the Senate a bill requiring anyone purchasing in the District of Columbia a cough syrup containing dihydrocodeinone, a habit-forming narcotic, to have a doctor's prescription. Maryland has such a law. It was found that narcotic addicts and some juvenile delinquents of Baltimore were coming to Washington to buy the cough syrups. I was informed by doctors that an overdose of the cough syrup containing the narcotic could cause death or insanity, or, at the least, cause dizziness, vomiting and convulsions, and that it was habit forming. The Narcotics Manufacturing Act authorizes the Federal Narcotics Commission to put any such drug on a prescription-only basis, and he has stated that he will do so, but that Act does not become effective until next January 1. My bill will serve as a stop-gap measure.

Purchasing Power After Taxes—Some shocking figures, comparing purchasing power of incomes in 1939 and 1960 have been presented as further argument against big government. The $12,000-a-year man in 1960 is left with the same purchasing power as a $5,000-a-year man in 1939—after taxes and inflation have taken their "cuts". In 1939 a husband and father of 2 with a $5,000 salary had $4,931 left to spend after Federal taxes. Today, his counterpart must earn $12,307 to net the equivalent amount of purchasing power after taxes. The $10,900-a-year man of 1939 must be earning $26,030 today just to "break even" in terms of purchasing power after taxes.

The Government Is Broke! Hasn't A Dime!—As a matter of fact, the Federal government is in the hole—terribly in debt—owes over 280 billion dollars. When the Government sends you or anyone else a check, it's money that it has collected from you. The Government through its tax collector takes a dollar from you, and sends back 50 cents. That's the way it operates. Public money is not the product of riches alone, but of the hard earnings of labor. All those beautiful spending programs, YOU pay for—double.

Taxes are costing the American people more than food. Last year, the nation's tax bill totaled 125 billion dollars, as against only 73 billion for food. Thirty years ago, the tax bill was one-half the food cost.

At The Crossroads: Which Way? The spenders denounce efforts to reduce Federal expenditures and propose more spending on so many fronts that they seem to have abandoned entirely the idea of limited government. Will the U. S. Government remain a creature of great but limited powers, laying down general rules within which men can live their own lives and make their own decisions? Or, will the U. S. Government become responsible for seeking everything that men want and for wielding whatever power can serve that unlimited responsibility? Will government be umpire—or manager? On the answer the future of our society turns.

In Orbit, And Beyond!—I understand that a woman, in applying for space-flight training, wrote: "I weigh only 95 pounds, and also play the harp."

Plans Progress For Annual RWSC

"Family Values in a Changing World" is the theme for the 34th annual Rural Women's Short Course. This year's event, expected to attract over 1000 or more Maryland homemakers, will be held at the University of Maryland, June 20-25.

Miss Ethel Grove, home demonstration agent, said about 16 women from this county were planning to attend. Others interested should get in touch with her office.

Assemblies, worship services and several classes will feature this theme as homemakers study their important roles in a rapidly changing and challenging era, announces Margaret Oliver, Home Demonstration Agent Leader.

Dr. Gordon M. Cairns, Dean of Agriculture, University of Maryland, will present the keynote address at the Tuesday morning assembly. His topic is "Maryland Agriculture—Today and Tomorrow."

Extending the welcome to homemakers attending Rural Women's Short Course is Dr. Paul Nystrom, Director of Maryland Extension Service.

Mrs. Thomas Powner, Windsor, New Jersey will tell of her family's experiences in living in a fallout shelter for two weeks. Mrs. Powner will speak at the Tuesday afternoon assembly program.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Orval Harrison Friend, who passed away three years ago, June 7, 1957.
Dear son and brother, you have left us;
We miss you day by day.
It seems to us it's been so long
Since you have gone away.
Now rest, dear son and brother;
it's well earned.
'Til we meet to part no more,
And we will be united again
Upon that other shore.
Sadly missed by his Mother,
Brothers and Sisters.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:

Better Health Through Knowledge

ESR Test

- Pain
- Arthritis
- Another Doctor

Q. Not long ago I received a bill from a doctor. Among others, there was a charge for an ESR test. What sort of test is this?

A. The abbreviation stands for erythrocyte (red blood cell) sedimentation rate. When blood to which an anticlotting substance has been added is allowed to stand in an upright tube, the red cells gradually settle to the bottom. The rate of settling is altered in certain diseases. A normal sedimentation rate does not necessarily exclude disease, but a fast rate of settling shows that further study is desirable.

Q. Are blondes more sensitive to pain than brunettes?

A. We have no information regarding the relative sensitivity to pain of blondes and brunettes. However, an Australian dentist made a study of eye color and the reaction to pain and found that blue-eyed patients complained very little. The sensitivity to dental pain increased through the blue-grey, green-grey, green, hazel, light brown and dark brown range.

Q. I read in a magazine that bee venom injections cure arthritis. Is this true?

A. Bee venom injections have been tried in cases of arthritis but there is no good medical evidence that such treatment provides satisfactory relief.

Q. I have been going to a doctor for about a year. He has given me medicine for my stomach but it hasn't helped. Should I change doctors? Maybe I can find one who can get to the bottom of my trouble.

A. You have a perfect right to change doctors but don't "shop around." "Shopping" for a doctor may be expensive and is very unlikely to produce results. Stay with the physician who knows your case. The more he finds out about you the better are your chances for successful treatment. Any patient can and should expect his doctor to suggest that he see a specialist, if one is needed. You may properly request of your doctor that another doctor be called in on your case. But don't "shop."

Bring your prescriptions to us for professional service promptly rendered at reasonable cost.

Congressional Viewpoint

Sen. John Marshall Butler

"TOMORROW'S LEADERS TODAY"

They came from Brussels, Bonn, Rome, Oslo, Toronto, Boston and Burlington, N. C., to the Nation's Capital to discuss and suggest the future course of the Western world. They were delegates to the Second Atlantic Conference of Young Political Leaders (none over 40 and many of them members of Parliaments) meeting in Washington, D. C., during the last week of May for a unique experiment in North American-European political relations.

The 140 delegates from the NATO nations had been selected by more than 40 political parties in the Atlantic community. There were 70 Europeans, 20 Canadians and 25 Republicans and Democrats each. They listened to speakers like Under Secretary of State Livingston Merchant, and former Secretary of State Dean Acheson; they had informal talks with men like Sen. Morton and Sen. Dirksen and a few Democrats too; and on last day of the Conference on the front lawn of the White House they met President Eisenhower who talked about the need for understanding as the "key to peace."

Within one week they saw more, talked more, shrugged more and were amazed more, almost certainly, than ever before in their lives. Taking careful measure of each other, these leaders of tomorrow discovered that before the threat of Communism their language and political differences dissolved into shadows.

Furthermore the Conference enjoyed concrete accomplishments: Each of five study commissions published a report revealing an intense and yet practical approach to the problems of the West. For example in the area of the underdeveloped nations, it was suggested that all nations of the NATO alliance contribute to their improvement (a welcome recommendation to tax-weary Americans). Wary of resolutions, the Conference passed but one, declaring that West Berlin must remain free.

Equally important but less discernible results also issued from the Conference in the person to person contacts between the delegates. In the give and take of the commissions, the caucuses and the plenary sessions, the young political leaders matured visibly. As they left Washington for guided two-week tour of the United States, the delegates carried with them the lessons of an international conference conducted in a democratic atmosphere and the names of young men and women who may well decide with them in futuro the fate and fortune of the world.

Married At Hoyes Church

Miss Margaret Susan Bowman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harland Bowman, of McHenry, became the bride of Ralph Wilson Livengood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Livengood, Swanton, on Saturday afternoon, May 7, 1960, in the Hoyes Methodist church.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. L. Westcoat, Jr., Evangelical and Reformed pastor, Salisbury, Pa. The church was decorated with apple blossoms, palms and candlelight on the altar. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a white gown of French Chantilly Princess lace and pleated nylon tulle designed with a Sabrina neckline edged with a lace bodice. The full length skirt had tiers of lace and tulle with a chapel train. The crown, fashioned with pearls, held a hand rolled French illusion fingertip veil. The bride's gown and veil were designed and hand made by the bride.

A white Bible with white rosebuds and pink rosebud tips on the shower completed the bridal bouquet.

Miss Karen K. Kinsinger was maid of honor while Miss Diane Custer, niece of the bride, and Miss Sharen Tichnell, niece of the groom, were flower girls. The maid of honor wore a springtime pink flocked nylon ballerina dress and a matching headpiece. The outfits of the flower girls were of pink and white nylon dresses with the headpiece and flower baskets of pink apple blossoms.

The best man was William Livengood, brother of the groom. Donald Bowman, Cleveland, O., brother of the bride, and John Livengood, Elkton, brother of the groom, served as ushers.

The mother of the bride selected a sky blue silk organza dress with bone colored accessories and a corsage of light blue orchids. The mother of the groom wore a dark blue silk dress and white accessories and a light blue orchid corsage.

"Apple Blossom Time," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer" were sung by Miss Joanne Collier, accompanied by Miss June Leydig.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the social room of the church. A five tiered cake was cut and served by Mrs. Dale Custer, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Donald Bowman, sister-in-law of the bride.

The couple then left for a honeymoon to Indiana and Ohio. For traveling the bride wore a light tan suit with bone colored accessories. They are now residing near Swanton.

The bride is a 1959 graduate of Northern High school and is employed in the advertisement department of the H-P Stores, Loch Lynn. The groom is a 1956 graduate of Southern High school and is employed by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper company at Luke.

Pictures Out Of The Past

Cornet Band Shown In Old Photoraph

There will be music in Deer Park this afternoon when the parade in connection with the Firemen's convention gets underway.

But there was plenty of music in the town more than half a century ago, too, as is indicated by this week's old photograph showing the Deer Park Cornet Band in its hey-day near the turn of the century.

The picture is one of two supplied by Mrs. George Comp, of Deer Park. She said some of the members of the band have been listed as:

Harry Thrasher, Fred Walter, Bunk Browning, John Robert Thrasher, Lee Rodeheaver, Leslie Rodeheaver, Russell Thrasher, Harry Chadderton, Clark Rodeheaver, Sam Speicht and Wilfred Chadderton.

While members of the group shown are not identified by name, it is probable that some of the members shown will be recognized by readers who remember when the Cornet band was a Deer Park community institution.

Recognizes Her Father

Mrs. Garnett R. Hudson, of Odenton, Md., writes concerning the Memorial Day picture printed on May 26. She says:

"In the Pictures Out of The Past for that date, in the Memorial Day parade, the Knights of Pythias, my father (now deceased) was in that parade. He was the late W. H. McRobie, Sr., and is the third one in the line on the right.

"The late Dr. Henry McComas is the first. I am not sure about the second one, but my father is the third. Seems strange that some one in Oakland didn't recognize Dr. McComas.

"I was ten years old when the picture was taken and my name at that time was Bessie McRobie."

Are you a worry expert?

Some people gather up all the worries of the past and combine them with the anxieties of the future. These they add to the burdens of the present — a huge bundle indeed.

What a difference it would make in their peace and happiness if they could take each day as it comes.

Jesus said, "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." He not only taught but He lived this lesson. Toil and misunderstanding filled the days of His ministry. Yet He met each one with calm assurance. Forgetting the past, He faced each tomorrow with inward peace.

This peace He willed to His followers through all the ages. Come to church and learn how to make this heritage your own.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The Two Ways

Lesson for June 12, 1960

THE NOTION that you can find out what is right by seeing how many people do it, is not an idea you can find in the Bible. If what the majority of people do makes anything right, then you are really deciding right and wrong by voting on it. The truth is, the majority of people are wrong at least as often as they are right. Jesus believed that in his day, at any rate, the majority was on the wrong road. There are two ways or roads through this world, he said, one is broad and the other narrow. One is easy to find, the other you cannot find so easily. What is more, the broad road is popular and the narrow road is not. But the real question to ask about any road is: Where does it go? Where shall I land if I follow it?

Dr. Foreman

To life or to destruction?

Life and destruction are opposites. You would think any one could see that. But to judge from the way many people act, it is plain that they think the same road leads both to destruction and to life. Many a man walks the broad road with plenty of company, knowing (or at least having heard) that the road ends in destruction. But he thinks Life is a wayside stop, indeed he rather pities the poor fools that took the narrow rocky road to life, when it is so much pleasanter to take the broad road. The truth is, on the contrary, that you can't reach Life by the road that goes to Destruction. You have to choose.

Discipline

Why is it that the road to life is sparsely traveled and the road to destruction crowded? It isn't that people prefer destruction. It's the road that attracts them. Let's look at one attractive feature (that is to say, one that does attract unthinking travelers) of the broad highway. It is like the broad concrete highways that cross our nation. Wider and faster roads are being built all the time; but the accident rate keeps going up. One reason why the broad road is preferred is that you don't need to use your brakes on it very often. There are no stop-lights on a throughway for most of its distance. But forgetting about brakes has its dangers. There used to be a stretch of road in North Carolina, about equally divided between a pretty straight shoot through low hills, and a very crooked steep climb up the Blue Ridge. For years on end there was not a fatal accident on the narrow, steep and crooked part of the road, but many accidents on the straight stretch to the east. Going up the mountain or down, drivers were careful. But once down, they would let the brakes go and zoom off—many of them to early death. So it is for persons or for nations: life without brakes goes swiftly to destruction. And the name for the brake we have to apply to ourselves is called Discipline.

As important as steering

There are three things a car must have, at the very least. It must have power to move, it must have a steering mechanism that works, and it must have brakes so that the driver can slow down or stop. So it is on the roads of life. The traveler must have power, he must be able to steer, and he must be able to hold himself down. Brakes are every bit as important as carburetor or steering-shaft. So in the life of every man; without discipline he is running just as great a risk as if he had no driving power at all. Discipline means being able to say No to yourself. Discipline means being able to choose what is unpleasant, if it is right. Discipline means loving yourself last. It means, in the first place, choosing a road because it leads to Life and not because it is easy.

No one would venture to say whether today, as in Jesus' day, the wrong road is crowded more than the other. But sometimes one wonders. A nation made up mostly of people who never say No to themselves, a nation made of citizens who always want the most for the least, who translate "I want it" into "I must have it;" is a nation like that going to be better than its people?

Southern Speaks

By Dale Ellis

Report cards will not be given to any students of Southern before Monday morning, it was announced this week. Mr. Kenneth Johns, principal, realized that a number of students will be going to church camp and to work on Monday.

Mr. Johns said, "If students leave a self-addressed stamped envelope in the office, the report cards will be mailed to them. Students who also owe library book fines or for lost books, will not receive their grade cards until the fines are paid."

School Will Close

The annual assembly program on Monday morning will end the 1959-1960 school year. Dick Stuck will act as master of ceremonies, as he will be the head of the Student Council next year.

Students with perfect attendance and those who missed under five days will be recognized. School closes at 10:00.

Mr. Johns Commented

"Except for the tragic bus accident at the beginning of the school year, and judging from the standpoint of academic progress made by our students, the musical productions, athletic contests, student activities, and vocational fields, I consider this a very successful year," Mr. Kenneth Johns, principal said.

Seniors Graduate

One hundred thirty-four seniors received their diplomas last Friday night in the Southern gymnasium. Mr. John A. Luke was the featured speaker.

Several members of the graduating class have been seen in the halls of Southern this past week, it was noted.

There are 187 seniors registered for next year with commencement set for June 1. This will be the largest senior class in the school's history.

School Will Reopen

School will reopen for the 1960-1961 term on September 6 at 8:55. The Board of Education has set up a schedule of 185 days.

All teachers have been obtained for teaching purposes for the coming year. Mr. George Lipscomb, teacher of industrial arts, has resigned recently to teach vocational agriculture at Aurora High School.

Miss Catherine Harvey, a graduate of West Virginia University, will teach home economics at Southern in place of Mrs. Adrienne Carter, who will move to Virginia.

Questionaires Answered

Questions pertaining to subjects taken and what advantage they were to them while they were in school were sent to members of the 1958 graduating class.

Mr. Ernest Spoerlein, guidance counselor, stated that all the girls answered the questionnaires and ten boys didn't.

Miscellaneous

The Athletic Boosters Club made one hundred dollars on the bean supper held last Thursday night at the Dennett Road Elementary School. The dinner was held to raise money for football shoes and to buy insurance for players.

Mr. Ervin Smith, who will retire at the close of school on Monday, was absent earlier this week to attend the graduation exercises of his son, Douglas, from Western Maryland College.

Orders for textbooks were recently submitted to the Board of Education for approval. The order amounted to $3,690.

Count Shows Turkeys Survived Winter

Considering the past winter in Garrett county, with considerable snow and cold weather, many persons were concerned over the prospect of losing a substantial part of the wild turkey population, stated Chester M. Kerns, chief of game management for the Game and Inland Fish commission.

The department's winter track count survey and observations of birds themselves, made by field men, showed that substantial numbers of turkeys were carried over the winter season in good shape. The track counts observed on fresh snow in the counties of Garrett, Allegany and Washington during the first three months of this year totaled 349 birds. This figure represents only a small fraction of the total estimated population that survived the winter.

Kerns said the Garrett county surveys revealed 82 tracks and indications point to an annual increase of turkeys here.

OUT OF GRAIN ON YOUR FARM?
We can help you with a top quality dairy feed that is lower in cost than the price of purchased grain. Available in various protein levels and in pellets also. If your cattle hesitate to eat ground feed these days—try pellets—they will be eaten more readily than any feed that you have ever tried before. Pellets also cut down the fly problem in your dairy barn because they will leave no fly-attracting molasses residue in the mangers. This feed is not a local mixed ration, it is an evenly blended ration made from top quality ingredients that are backed by a quality control laboratory and research tested on our feed research farm. Try some today and see the results, you and your cows will be pleased. Come in or call today.

Youth Finds Something New Under The Sun

A recent issue of The Washington Star carried an illustrated write-up on Robert S. Owendoff, 15, of Falls Church, Va., in connection with his activities in charting the sun's shadow.

The article relates Robert's devices for measuring time by the sun and credits him with a number of new ideas on the subject.

Included in his inventions are a self-orientating sundial, an altitude dial, a shadow-tipdial, an improved garden-type dial and a new method for showing relationships between dials constructed for different altitudes.

Young Owendoff is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Paugh, of Deer Park. He has visited here frequently during the summer and has earned a number of boy Scout merit badges through activities conducted in this area.

Iris Is In Bloom

The results of the efforts of a group of local iris fanciers is in evidence at the home of Howard J. White, on High street in Oakland, with many of the blossoms now in full bloom.

The flowers are a project of Mr. White, Harold H. Harned and Robert Rodeheaver, who hybridize the blossoms, each year adding to the color and size of the blooms.

The flowers are the property of Mr. Harned, a member of the American Iris society, who has been a collector and fancier of iris for more than 27 years. Mr. Harned recently returned from visiting some of the important gardens in the middle west.

An invitation has been extended to those interested to inspect the flowers at the home of Mr. White.

ONLY CAR WITH WIDE TRACK WHEELS
Wide Track widens the stance, not the car. With the widest track of any car, Pontiac gives you better stability, accurate control, less lean and sway.

Nothing straightens S-curves like a Wide-Track Pontiac. You come out of a curve scarcely aware you've been in one. You wind your way with feather-touch control. You feel a reassuring absence of lean and sway, better balance and stability. Narrow track cars can't compare.

THE REPUBLICAN

Nixon's Stock Up - - -

Richard Nixon's stock as a presidential candidate has gone up significantly since Sen. Kennedy's thoughtless remark about apologizing for the U-2 incident, had he been president. Nixon's record was favorable enough even before that time, and rightly so. Nixon has expressed his confidence in the policies of the Eisenhower administration and has shown himself to be an experienced and determined leader.

The Republican record should speak for itself also regarding jobs, prices, national security, take-home pay. An editorial from the Republican national headquarters gives us these facts:

Under the Republican policies since 1953, American workers and their families have fared better than ever before.

In these seven and a half GOP years, the cost of living has gone up only 10 per cent, a dazzling contrast to the 48 per cent increase which riddled values during the Truman years.

In the same period, the value of the dollar has declined less than a nickel, in contrast to the 50-cent decline in the preceding Democratic years.

Bolstered and encouraged by this financial stability, the American economy under Republican policies has expanded to provide an all-time record 65.5 million jobs, 7.5 per cent more than were available under the Democrats, even in the war boom which accompanied the preceding administration.

And these jobs pay record wages. In 1959, average weekly earnings were about $90.00, 32 per cent greater than the $67.97 of 1952.

Family income under the GOP is 22 per cent higher than under the Democrats, and this difference is enhanced by steadier prices.

But this isn't all. The future looks great! Since 1953 our gross national product, the sum total of all jobs and all economic activity, has grown by more than 35 per cent, and in 1960 it will crash through the historic half-trillion-dollar barrier.

This sustained, solid growth means even more jobs, even more income, and even more security for tomorrow's families and their children.

Good reasons for voting Republican this fall.

Bombers Will Begin Low Altitude Missions Over Area

Strategic Air Command B-47 and B-52 jet bombers will begin flying low-level missions over Oakland within the next few weeks, General Thomas S. Power, EAS Commander in Chief, announced this week.

The mammoth jet bombers will fly both day and night missions in all types of weather, General Power said. This low-level flying will increase EAC's combat crew proficiency, enabling the crews to perform any bombing tactic in any type of weather, day or night, the general added.

Oakland is along an air route recently approved by the Federal Aviation Agency for use by SAC in its low-level training. General Power explained. Both the six-jet B-47s and the eight-jet B-52s will fly at altitudes of 1,000 feet above highest point along their routes.

The route begins at Richwood, West Virginia, goes eastward to a point west of Charlottesville, Virginia, north to Westernport, Maryland, then southwest to Lexington, Kentucky.

General Power emphasized that the bombers will fly at about 280 miles per hour, so local residents will not hear sonic booms. "In fact," he added, "SAC" will do everything possible to cause as little annoyance as possible to citizens along the route.'

"At the same time," he continued, "We hope everyone will realize the necessity for training our crews under all types of situations. In every case, the safety of local residents and of our crews will be the paramount factor in our planning," General Power concluded.

Prays Jury Trial

Charles W. Welch, Friendsville, prayed a jury trial when given a hearing last week on two charges.

Maroney.

Also before Maroney were William L. Lloyd and Smiley Lloyd, both charged with disorderly conduct. Maroney found Smiley Lloyd not guilty. William Lloyd pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 10 days in jail, but the sentence was suspended.

Twelve Bidders File Estimates On Water Project

Analysis Of Figures Being Made Before Contracts Are Awarded

Twelve bids involving construction of various phases of Oakland's water filtration and distribution system were opened this morning by the Mayor and Town Council and representatives of the Chester Engineers. Only one bid was received covering all four projects involved in the complete undertaking.

The water system, which had been recommended by the engineering firm after long study, involves taking water from the Youghiogheny river, filtering it and using this surface source instead of the present series of deep wells.

The firm submitting the complete bid, Coleman and Wilson Construction Co., Huntington, W. Va., listed its proposals as follows: Bid No. 1, $60,805.15; Bid No. 2, $62,285.00; Bid No. 3, $328,487.85; and Bid No. 4, $50,000.00.

Other bidders submitted estimates on various combinations of projects and the engineers will evaluate each proposal before awarding a contract or contracts. Estimates of the time involved for completion ranged up to 450 days.

Other bidders were Steel City Construction Co., Twi-W Construction Co., McShane Construction Co., Perry Electric Co., Frazier Engineering Co., and White, Rozen and Marion, all of Pittsburgh; Schuango Construction Co., Carnegie, Pa.; Ruth Engineering Co., Baltimore; J. R. Savage, Columbus, O.; Sterling Electric, Cumberland; and Barnes and Brass Co., Clarksburg, W. Va.

The engineers had estimated the total cost of the project to be approximately $480,000. Representatives of most of the bidders were present when estimates were opened by Lewis R. Jones, town attorney.

7 Teachers Retire From School System

An unusually large number of teachers from the county school system retired this year from active service, it was announced by Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent. In all, there were seven teachers who retired last Monday, accounting for approximately 40% of the total teacher turnover in the county to date. The trend toward a number of teacher retirements each year from the local school system can be anticipated for the next five to ten years, he added. This is due to the high age bracket of a number of teachers who will have had the required numbers of years of teaching experience to qualify for retirement within the next several years. This will increase the need for teacher replacements and will also bring to the county a group of younger teachers, likely to increase the annual percentage of teacher turnover.

For the past few years Garrett has had one of the smallest teach-

Award Three Keys at Northern Exercises

At the graduation exercises of Northern High School this year, three citizens were given singular honors by members of the faculty of the school, for support and interest shown in education and in the activities of the school and community.

Paul Maha, principal, considered these persons eligible to receive Keys to Northern and the presentations were made at commencement.

The awards went to Leslie Earl Savage, Friendsville; Charles Oliver Bender, Grantsville, and Mrs. Martha Imogene Glotfelty of Accident.

Leslie Earl Savage, of Friendsville, is a member of the Maryland General Assembly and a contractor. He served on school committees, worked on various projects and activities, is a past president of the PTA, past vice president of the Band Boosters, secretary-treasurer of the Athletic Association, and has supported many programs and activities at Northern. He is a charter member of the Friendsville Rotary Club and a member of the Garrett County Farm Bureau. He is a member of the Lutheran Church, is married and has eight children.

Charles Oliver Bender of Grantsville, an auto dealer for the past five years, is father of six children and member of the United Church of Christ. He has served on a number of school activity committees. He is president of the PTA, president of the Band Boosters, served on the School Board for nine years, and has taken a more than active interest in all school functions. He is past president of the Rotary Club, is one of the managers of the Woodmen of the World, is active in church work and is treasurer of his church.

Mrs. Martha Imogene Glotfelty, wife of Kermit Glotfelty, of Accident, a member of the Lutheran Church, mother of three children and a housewife, was honored for her continuing interest and support of the school and public education.

She has served as president of local PTA groups, as rural service chairman for the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers, and is a life member of that organization.

In the community she is a member of the Garrett County Hospital Auxiliary; president of the United Lutheran Church Women of the West Virginia Synod; and is president of the Garrett County Republican Women's Club.

Courses In Education Offered By FSTC

For the first time in the history of Frostburg State Teachers College, the graduate courses offered during the 1960 summer session may be applied to the Degree of Master of Education in secondary education as well as in elementary and junior high education, according to Ivan C. Diehl, dean of instruction at the college.

Classes will begin at the college Monday, June 20, and will continue through Friday, July 29.

Classes will be conducted on a shortened schedule beginning at 9:30 a. m. for Monday, June 20.

The program for the Degree of Master of Education is designed primarily for those who are fully certified to teach in elementary, junior high and senior high schools in the state of Maryland.

Its chief purpose is to assist classroom teachers in improving their professional qualifications and their teaching competence.

Approval of selected courses for certificate renewal by the county superintendent of schools prior to enrollment is essential.

In addition to fully certificated teachers who wish to work for a Master's Degree, fully certificated teachers not desirous of working for the advanced degree (those seeking certificate renewal) and liberal arts graduates not certificated to teach in Maryland may avail themselves of this opportunity to go graduate work in education.

Courses are being offered in professional education, general education and subject matter specialization.

Profit Results If Cows Calve Early

Experimental station reports indicate that breeding beef cows to calve at 2 years of age is profitable, says Boyd T. Whittle, University of Maryland Livestock specialist. According to one test, 60 cows that were bred to calve first at 2 years of age averaged 9.1 calves produced by the time they were 11½ years old, compared to 7.91 calves for similar cows that calved first at 3 years of age. Apparently, early calving has no permanent detrimental effect on the heifers' future performance, and actually two-year-olds may be more regular producers than cows which calve for the first time at 3 years, he says.

When heifers have their first calf at 2 years, it can be expected that 10 to 13 percent of the calves and 3 to 5 percent of the heifers will be lost, due to calving difficulties and other factors, and 50 percent of the heifers will need assistance when calving, he says.

Proper feeding of heifers during their developmental stages is important, however, it has been found that heifers and sows wintered at low levels do not necessarily have more difficulty at calving time. It is understood that heifers wintered for a low level of gain do not milk as well after calving and their calves get a slow start compared with heifers wintered for a high level of gain, Whittle says.

A satisfactory level of gain would be about 1½ pounds per day for the wintering periods. Gain on grass during the summer months should amount to approximately one pound or more. With gains of this kind, heifers will normally weigh between 850 and 950 pounds when they calve as two-year-olds, whittle adds.
